Nixon refuses to comply with House subpoena . . A-3

25 dead, 350 injured

Tornadoes leave vast destruction

By United Press International

Those who live in the country's midsection known as "Tornado Alley" are hardened veterans of weather catastrophies but Red Cross volunteer Peggy Glen spent the weekend with tears in her eyes.

"It's hard to believe what I've seen," she said while operating one of four disaster relief centers set up in Tulsa, Okla.

"People are coming in without any homes. I stopped at a neighbor's on my way here and where four houses had stood, there was nothing there but vacant lots."

At least two dozen tornadoes, torrential rains and flash floods smashed Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with by far the most damage occurring Saturday from midafternoon until nightfall. As the last vestiges of the weather moved peacefully eastward, the official death count stood at 25, with over 350 injured, over 2,000 left homeless and property damage in excess of $40 million.

President Nixon today added Oklahoma as a national disaster area. Arkansas was given that designation Saturday, making it eligible for extensive federal aid, following heavy flooding and a tornado which killed four at Forrest City last Thursday.

Oklahoma was the hardest hit state. Red Cross officials said there were 1,617 families homeless in central and eastern Oklahoma, 15 dead and over 300 persons injured.

It began Saturday night with a tornado ripping the roof of a crowded nursing home at Drumright, Okla., and cutting a mile-long, three-block wide swath through the community of 3,000. But the violent weather quickly spread to other sections of the state and to Kansas.

At Emporia, Kan., a tornado cut a mile-long path through the town destroying all but five of a 103-unit trailer park and wrecking 22 businesses in a shopping center.

Five of the city's victims were found in the rubble of the mobile homes. The sixth body was found in an apartment near the shopping center.

"It looked like an explosion, a big green explosion," Liz Wilson, 14, said of the tornado which swept by her home.

By the time the storm system reached Arkansas, the twisters had died out but a deluge in the form of more than a foot of rain sent creeks and rivers over their banks and into homes.

Two persons drowned in El Dorado, Ark., Saturday when their car stalled on city streets and was swept away. Two youths were killed Sunday near Magnolia, Ark., when raging waters swept away the gravel embankment under a culvert.

Farther west at Guthrie, Okla., a creek swelled by almost five inches of rain drove about 100 families from their homes Sunday. City officials said the small town was cut in two by the raging waters.

Rancher files $1.5 billion suit against 2 supermarket chains

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A Nebraska cattleman filed a $1.5 billion suit today against two of the nation's largest supermarket chains charging them with conspiracy to fix meat prices.

The anti-trust, class action suit was filed in U.S. District court against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Inc., known as A&P Stores, and Safeway stores.

The cattleman, state Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, contended in his petition that through combined buying and selling power the two chains conspired to "pay suppliers uniform, arbitrary, non-competitive and artificially low prices on fresh, frozen and processed meat products."

In turn, the petition said they conspired to "charge noncompetitive and artificially high prices for fresh, frozen and processed meat products sold at retail."

The senator contended the result of their actions, in his own case as in the case of other Nebraska meat producers, were substantial losses which wouldn't have occurred in a truly open market.

In addition to damages, the cattleman asked the court to enjoin the chains from any future actions involving meat pricing.

Kennedy proposes sweeping overhaul of tax structure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said today the nation's tax system is "the biggest welfare bill of all" and called for comprehensive reform before the end of the year.

Kennedy proposed a three-point program —an immediate tax cut, prompt measures to offset the losses, and a major overhaul of the tax structure.

In testimony before the Senate Finance Committee, Kennedy said tens of billions of dollars escape taxation through loopholes every year and have to be made up by higher taxes on ordinary citizens.

"In fact, the Internal Revenue Code is America's biggest welfare bill of all," said Kennedy.

"But it is the sort of welfare that only Alice in Wonderland can understand because the greatest benefits of tax welfare go entirely to the richest individuals and the nation's largest corporations."

Kennedy proposed an immediate "across-the-board antirecession" tax cut for every citizen, totaling $6.5 billion in relief.

The cut would come through raising the personal exemption from $750 to $825; an optional tax credit of $190 in lieu of the higher exemption; and a partial refund of Social Security payroll taxes for low-income workers with children.

A tax cut is vigorously opposed by the administration.

To offset revenue losses from a tax cut and comprehensive reform, Kennedy outlined four measures which would raise $4 billion this year and $7 billion by 1978.

Kennedy recommended:

—Repeal of the oil depletion allowance.

—Repeal of the accelerated depreciation system.

—Repeal of the tax incentive system for exports.

—Strengthening of the minimum tax by reducing the current exclusion from $30,000 to $10,000 and by eliminating the deduction for taxes paid.

As part of comprehensive reform, which Kennedy said could generate $10 billion a year in revenues, Kennedy recommended a halt to the increasing number of tax shelters and a shift from tax deductions to tax credits in a number of major areas.

Kennedy also suggested simplification of the tax code and chances in capital gains, oil taxation, state and local bonds, interest, personal deductions, investment credit, foreign income.

Nixon off for Mideast, 'new journey for peace'

EUROPE, THEN MIDEAST

President Nixon waves as he and the First Lady prepare to board plane at Andrews AFB near Washington to head for Europe on the first lap of a 15,000-mile journey to consolidate peace in the Middle East. His first stop will be Austria.

President's party will stop first in Austria

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Expressing hope that he is starting on "a new journey for peace," President Nixon left today for a tour of five Middle East nations.

"We believe this trip, like the other journeys we have taken, will contribute to that lasting peace which we as Americans are so deeply dedicated," Nixon said in a brief speech as he and Mrs. Nixon left the White House on the 15,000-mile, nine-day trip.

Nixon thanked a large group of foreign diplomats and government officials for coming to see them off and said "we hope and believe this will be another journey for peace."

The President likened his trip to historic 1972 visits to mainland China and the Soviet Union. Those were the first trips to either Communist capital by a sitting American President and he noted that he would be the first President to visit four of the countries on his Mideast agenda.

"Both of those journeys were ones that had a profound impact not only on the relations of the nations involved but also on building a structure of peace for the whole world.

"This trip will take us to a part of the world that has known nothing but war over the past 30 to 40 years. And as we go to five nations —four that have never been visited by an American President before — we realize that one trip is not going to solve differences that are very deep, that go back in some cases, many years, and in some cases centuries.

"But we also realize that a begining must be made."

Referring to cease-fire agreements that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger —who accompanied him on the trip — negotiated between Israel and Egypt and between Israel and Syria, Nixon said:

"A beginning has been made toward a different relation and a better relation between the nations in that area. We have been proud to play a part in that beginning."

His trip, the President said, will "provide an opportunity to reaffirm our support for these initiatives that have been undertaken, to explore ways that we can have new and better relations between the United States and each nation in the area ... and also explore ways in which those nations in the area may have better relations with each other and build toward the permanent and lasting and just and equitable peace that all of them, we know, want and certainly that we want."

Before heading for Cairo on Wednesday, the President and his party will stop off for two nights in the Austrian city of Salzburg. This will give him time to get accustomed to the so-called jet lag. There is a seven-hour time differential between Washington and the Middle East stops on his schedule.

He flies to the Egyptian capital for a lavish welcome Wednesday morning following a three-hour, 45-minute flight from Salzburg. From Cairo, he will go, in order, to Jiddah, Saudi Arabia; Damascus, Syria; Tel Aviv, Israel, and Amman, Jordan, before returning to Washington —after an overnight stop in the Azores —a week from Wednesday.

Egyptians hang out American flags, preparing massive security for Nixon

CAIRO (UPI) — For the first time in a decade Egypt hung American flags in the streets today in salute to President Nixon's visit this week.

The Stars and Stripes the size of baby blankets waved in light breeze on poles on the road from Cairo to the Pyramids and the Sphinx.

Not since before the 1967 Arab-Israeli war had the U.S. emblem decked Cairo streets. Then it was for American businessmen taking part in a fair. Today they hung out flags for a man the Egyptians see as a creator of current peace progress and a maker of more peace tomorrow.

"We Egyptians are a grateful people. We wear our gratitude with pride, and with joy," said Ali Amin, editor of the newspaper Al Akhbar and a confidant of President Anwar Sadat, Nixon's host Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

"President Nixon will enjoy himself," Amin told UPI.

Sadat mustered more than flags.

Intelligence sources said 30,000 uniformed and plainclothes officers have been organized to guard Nixon in Cairo, in Alexandria, on the Mediterranean and at the Pyramids.

At dawn today Sadat sent platoons of army explosives experts down the 132 mile railway track he will ride with Nixon Thursday from Cairo to Alexandria. U.S. secret servicemen hovered overhead in a helicopter, monitoring the security check.

Security men watched the Nile Hilton hotel hand out white notices to guests, asking them to clear out. The White House asked for all eight floors of rooms.

Next door, at Arab League headquarters, Arabs who do not share Sadat's warmth for the Nixon-Henry A. Kissinger peacemaking left town. The Palestine National Council, the "parliament" of the Palestinians fighting to regain the homes they left in the 1948 Arab-Israeli war, Sunday issued a final vow to fight and fight and fight. And then, watched by security men, they went to the airport.

Russ, Portugal will exchange diplomats

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations effective immediately Sunday and agreed to exchange ambassadors, both governments said in a joint communique released simultaneously in Lisbon and Moscow.

The communique said both countries "agree to cooperate in observance of the principles of the United Nations charter and both are convinced this will promote security and cooperation in Europe and all the world."

The communique did not say where or when the agreement was reached, but diplomatic sources said a Russian trade mission which visited Lisbon last week probably paved the way for the agreement.

Having impact on health care

State officials press for quick settlement of nurses' strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — State officials said today a three-day-old strike by 4,000 nurses was having a severe impact on health care in the Bay Area and called for the parties to get together promptly to settle it.

Ralph F. Duncan, head of the state Conciliation Service, requested the parties to meet with him Tuesday. It will be the first meeting since the walkout began last Friday morning against more than 40 major hospitals and clinics in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The hospitals have been operating on an emergency basis and were discharging all noncritically ill patients during the weekend.

California Nurses Association spokesman Burton White said nurses were being provided for intensive care and emergency patients.

However, a spokesman for the Affiliated Hospitals of San Francisco, one of the three hospital groups affected, said there were "some difficulties" in deciding how many nurses were needed for such patients.

"The impact of the nurses' strike on hospital patients and the public is severe enough that all concerned, including the state Conciliation Service, are obliged to exert every effort to resolve it," Duncan said in a telegram to the parties setting up new talks.

The hospitals discharged about one-third of the patients who had been admitted for noncritical treatment. Elective surgery was postponed until the nurses returned to work.

The nurses are seeking a $60 a month pay increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1974. If granted, top pay would be $1,095 a month. They also asked for another $30 increase to be effective July 1.

A hospital spokesman said the pay package had been agreed to during earlier negotiations, but problems existed over distribution of the money, a pension plan, a request for every other weekend off, and workload changes.

The nurses currently receive off every third weekend, with an extra payment if they must work.

Nurses are also asking for increased staffing of intensive care and nursery units.

One striker at Children's Medical Center in Oakland said: "They make assignments on a head count. We are actually there with the children, and we can see if they need extra care, even if it's just tender loving care. These kids really need a little more time."

Another said, "We don't want to be out here picketing. We'd much rather be inside caring for those kids. But there are bad situations that have to be corrected."

Austrian police poised to prevent demonstrations

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI) — Austrian police reinforcements massed in this "Sound of Music" city today to prevent a repetition of demonstrations that bloodied President Nixon's last visit here.

The President was flying in late tonight from Washington for 34 hours of rest and relaxation in a country castle to shake off "jet lag" before going on to his five-nation Middle East tour Wednesday.

Police officials said they expected one or two small demonstrations by Trotskyite and Maoist student groups, but nothing like the mass anti-war march on May 20, 1972, that ended in a battle at the airport on the night Nixon arrived.

Nevertheless, 1,500 police — some sent from Vienna and other Austrian cities —stood ready to protect Nixon at the airport and at Schloss Klesheim, the 18th century castle where he and his wife will stay.

On that earlier visit, Nixon was on his way to his first Moscow summit. He stopped over two days in Salzburg for the same quiet rest in a neutral country, but ran into 2,500 shouting, fighting demonstrators.

The Vietnam war was still on and an antiwar march through Salzburg —the home of Mozart and the place where "The Sound of Music" was filmed — quickly turned violent when the marchers pushed on toward the airport for Nixon's arrival.

Police tried to stop them but 500 broke through and clambered over highways and fields to the airport, where they battled police less than an hour before Nixon's arrival. At least 25 persons, including two policemen, were hurt.

Peter Kreisky, son of Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky who is Nixon's official host here, was a leader of the demonstrations. This year, young Kreisky said he did not know whether he would even bother to come.

Socialist student groups decided to stay home today, leaving the field to two fringe groups —the Marxist Revolutionary Group and the Marxist Student Union.

BULL'S EYE

Changes in North Pomona school boundaries to end optional areas

POMONA — Pomona school board members will be asked to approve some boundary changes to eliminate optional attendance areas in North Pomona when they meet Tuesday.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Education Center. It will be open to the public.

Sidney Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, said that for several years optional attendance boundaries have created situations where students could attend either Arroyo or Roosevelt elementary schools, Lincoln or Roosevelt elementary schools, Palomares or Marshall junior high schools and Pomona or Ganesha high schools.

Most families living in optional areas opted to send their children to Roosevelt, Palomares and Pomona, Moses said.

New boundaries will be proposed which clearly define which school children in previously optional areas should attend.

"In all cases," said Moses, "parents of children presently attending any of the schools will be given the option to continue at their present school or attend the school in the new proposed attendance boundary.

"Parents who choose to continue to send children to their present schools rather than the new schools will be required to obtain intradistrict transfers.

"As new families move into these areas, students will be enrolled in the school designated for that area."

Boundaries will be explained and maps displayed at the meeting.

Board members will be asked by Moses to approve a pilot summer school counseling program for junior high and high school pupils effective this summer.

Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz will recommend that a special board meeting be held July 2, for the purpose of reorganizing the board. Currently Dr. James Bell is board president.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, will tell the board that the tentative budget for 1974-75 will be presented June 28, not Tuesday as previously planned.

Nichols said that the defeat of Proposition T on the June 4 ballot "makes a meaningful revision of the budget impossible at this time."

Nichols presented a $24.7 million balanced budget for next year at the May 14, board meeting. However, it contains no funds for cost-of-living salary increases for employes.

The district's Proposition T was a tax override which would have brought in an estimated $1.5 million. Employes, other than administrators, are asking 16 per cent pay hikes. Administrators are requesting unspecified cost-of-living raises, plus 2 per cent.

Three students arrested over Claremont vandalism

CLAREMONT — Police today are continuing an investigation into a vandalism problem at Claremont High School, following the arrest of three students over the weekend.

Continuing controversy over the "wall" separating the school and Cahuilla Park erupted into a disturbance Friday afternoon, ending in an egg-throwing incident.

Officers booked three students, 15 and 16, for disturbing the peace and interfering with police. John Botkin, school proctor, was slightly injured when he was hit in the head by an egg, thrown by a student.

Police arrived on campus about 2 p.m. and witnessed students throwing eggs from the "wall" at cars and faculty members. Many of the students dispersed when ordered to, but several stayed around and continued to throw eggs.

Police Sgt. Bob Nichol said about 65 to 70 students were "hanging around" at the wall but only a handful were involved in the disturbance when officers arrived.

One student was arrested after throwing the egg at Botkin, and two others were booked for interfering with officers.

There was damage to a school truck when a rock was thrown through its windshield, but no other damage at the school was reported by officers.

Five teens arrested after shooting incident in L.V.

LA VERNE — Five teen-age youths were arrested late Saturday night in connection with shots that were fired into the side of another youth's car here.

The shooting occurred in the 3800 block of Fruit Street. The driver Peter Perez, 16, San Dimas, said he and his passengers, Raymond Lopez, 15, and Ronald Acosta, 13, both of La Verne, were followed by youths in another car. Without provocation, Perez said, the other car passed them and one of its occupants fired two shots. The bullets, .22 caliber, struck a couple of inches below the window frame. None one was hurt.

About two hours later police arrested Richard Anthony Cuevas, 19, Chino, and four juvenile boys, three from Pomona and one from Montclair. Police said they were stopped because of a description of the car in the shooting.

There were several other incidents of shots being fired within the city limits that night, but police said they were not sure they were related to the one involving Perez' car.

Role of Chicano, black is club topic

CLAREMONT — "The Outlook for Chicanos and Blacks in American Society" will be discussed by two separate speakers at the regular Tuesday noon luncheon meeting of the University Club of Claremont Tuesday at Griswold's.

Dr. James Garrett, director of the Black Studies Center at the Claremont Colleges, will speak on the outlook for blacks.

Edward Quevedo, director of Chicago Studies Center of Claremont Colleges, will speak for the Chicago group, with Dr. George C. S. Benson, past president of Claremont Men's College, acting as chairman.

Bonita district to get pay proposals

SAN DIMAS — Initial salary proposals from employe groups will be presented to the Bonita School District Board of Trustees at its meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Along with salary proposals the board will also be presented the tentative budget for the 1974-75 school year and the proposed summer school salary schedule for this summer.

Discussion items will include the annual report of the districtwide Curriculum Committee and plans for the proposed rest room facility at the Bonita Stadium.

FMC workers defy court order, continue to strike

POMONA — Workers ignored a court injunction today and continued their "wildcat" strike against FMC Wayne sweeper plant in their protest against working conditions and alleged losses in profit sharing.

The workers reported more than half and the company reported fewer than half of the employes were staying off their jobs today. The strike began Thursday.

Since the strike is not authorized by the International Machinists Union, to which the workers belong, those who continue the walkout can be fired on the spot, the company maintained.

A company spokesman said the firm was "encouraged" today by increasing attendance on the job. He said this morning's shift was operating normally despite continued picketing.

Julian Arellano, a spokesman for the workers, said his group would continue to defy the court order, because the company was "not living up to the terms of its contract."

He said the walkout was triggered by the suspension of three men Wednesday night. He claimed the suspensions were illegal in that the three were not allowed representation by the union before they were taken off their jobs.

Arellano said the wildcat strike would continue until "someone big talks to us." By "someone big," he said he meant an official of the parent company.

He said that in addition to the current dispute, the workers also wanted a cost of living increase, an improvement of on-the-job safety conditions and a review of profit sharing practices.

He emphasized the the strike was not authorized by the union. Officials of the IAM sent the striking workers separate letters Friday advising them that the strike was illegal and urging them to go back to work.

Drug seized, 4 men arrested in Montclair

MONTCLAIR — San Bernardino County Narcotics Task Force officers and Montclair police seized nearly one-hlaf pound of halluncainogenic drug and arrested four men Saturday on the north side of the Montclair Plaza, according to a task force spokesman.

The seizure and arrests were the result of a month-long investigation in the alleged sales of the halluncinogenic drug Phencyclidine (PCP), nicknamed "angel dust."

According to the task force spokesman undercover officers purchased about a half, pound of the "angel dust" at a wholesale price of $1,000 in the Montclair Plaza parking lot.

Arrested as a result of the alleged illegal sale were Ronnie A. Darthard, 19, of 1472 Palomares Ave., Pomona, and Larry Johnson, 18, of Los Angeles. The pair were charged with suspicion of sales of PCP and carrying a concealed weapon. Also arrested and charged with sales of PCP were Russell Jones of Fontana, and Michael Barksdale, 21, of 1272 Palomreas Ave., Pomona.

Task force officers said they will seek forml camoplaints against the men through the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office.

Fire crackles --with bullets

POMONA — A garage and contents were damaged Sunday at 1066 E. Alvarado St. in a blze caused by a short circuit in wiring.

The loss included a quantity of 38 caliber bullets which were stored there, and which, according to firemen, "kept popping away causing small explosions," during the fire.

Loss to the garage and its contents was estimated by the fire department at $2,000.

Firemen said the short was in a fence charger located in the garage. The equipment was used to keep dogs in the yard.

The home is owned by Donald Shupe.

Weekend accidents injure 4 on Carbon Canyon Road

CHINO — Four persons were injured, three seriously, in two weekend accidents on Carbon Canyon Road west of here.

On Sunday afternoon, a car driven by Lori Jayne Burner, 15, of Placentia ran off the road on a curve and tumbled down an enbankment east of Ginsing Avenue.

Miss Burner, who was driving on a learners' permit, sustained head and internal injuries. She is said to be in guarded condition in the intensive care unit of Chino General Hospital.

Also in the car was Sergio B. Kingston of Anaheim. He received only minor injuries and was treated and released at the hospital.

Saturday night a car driven by Michael Allen Shepard, 22, of Anaheim, went out of control on sharp turn west of Rosemary Lane and struck a stone wall.

Shepard suffered cuts to the face and neck, while his companion, Debra Ann Clubb, 21, of Buena Park, received bruises and contusions. Both are listed in satisfactory condition at Chino General Hospital.

Highway Patrol officers said that Shepard is being charged with drunken driving.

Pomona liquor store robbed

POMONA — A lone bandit, gesturing as if he had a gun in his pocket, took cash Sunday night at the Jug and Jigger liquor store, 1571 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

The robber was described as a tall Negro man wearing gray trousers and black tennis shoes. Misso said the bandit forced him to remain under a counter while he fled out the front door.

Pomona College commencement

Humanized society next big task, speaker says

CLAREMONT — "An educated person must be prepared to experience genuine community beyond his own tribal affiliation and look for depth of character and personality in persons who look different, sing different songs, eat different food and dance a different dance." So said Dr. Samuel D. Proctor at the 81st annual commencement of Pomona College Sunday in Bridges Auditorium.

"There lies before American education, now, a laboratory for trying and testing every promising notion about the creation of a humanized society that the best minds can conceive. Our own society is the best live situation that can be found. Our political structure, our natural abundance, our youth as a nation, our pluralistic population, our present tensions and unsolved problems are unparalleled opportunities," Dr. Proctor asserted.

Dr. Proctor is the pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in New York City and professor of education at the Graduate School of Education, Rutgers University. The theme of his address was the education and humanization of American society. He was the first black commencement speaker in the college's history.

More than 2,300 persons attended the ceremony.

The graduating class consisted of 331 degree winners, 126 of whom graduated with honors. Included among the honor winners were 14 who received their bachelor of arts diplomas summa cum laude (with highest honors), 44 who were magna cum laude (with great honors), and 68 who were graduated cum laude (with honor).

Vicki Hugh Black of Davis, a 22-year-old botany major, won th Rena Gurley Archibald High Scholarship Prize. Miss Black will attend graduate school at the University of Wisconsin in the field of environmental communications.

Wig Distinguished Professorship Awards of $2,500 were given to seven members of the Pomona College faculty, one of them posthumously. The posthumous award went to the widow of Dr. Frederick L. Mulhauser, professor of English, who died on Feb. 25 after 33 years at the college.

Answer in letter revealed after departure

Nixon again refuses to comply with subpoena

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon refused again today to comply with a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 45 White House tapes and documents, saying there would be no end to the impeachment panel's request "unless a line were drawn somewhere."

He added: "Since it is clear the committee will not draw such a line, I have done so."

The President's response to the subpoena, issued May 30 on a 37-1 vote by the committee, had been expected in view of Nixon's statement May 22—in turning down an earlier subpoena—that he would not comply with any further demands.

Nixon's reply, in a letter to Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., was made known at the White House shortly after the President departed on his Middle East trip and just after the 10 a.m. deadline set by the committee for surrender of the materils.

In his letter to Rodino, Nixon maintained the committee would be wrong to draw any inferences from his actions and he was merely exercising his proper powers by claiming executive privilege in refusing to turn over subpoenaed materials.

"From the start of these proceedings, I have tried to cooperate as far as I reasonably could in order to avert a constitutional confrontation," Nixon said.

"But I am determined to do nothing which, by the precedence it set, would render the executive branch henceforth and forever more subserviant to the legislative branch, and would thereby destroy the constitutional balance," Nixon said.

The President previously had refused to turn over 42 tapes subpoenaed by the committee. Instead, he made public on April 30 voluminous White House transcripts of Watergate conversations of 32 of the tapes. Officials said tapes either did not exist for the other conversations subpoenaed or were not available.

Nixon said if he yielded to the committee demands, it would simply lead to further requests for tapes.

"Once embarked on a process of continually demanding additional tapes whenever those the committee already has failed to turn up evidence of guilt, there would be no end unless a line were drawn somewhere by someone," Nixon said.

The subpoena was the committee's fourth and it was issued along with a letter in which committee members warned Nixon that his refusal to comply with the request was "a grave matter" and that they would feel free to draw "adverse inferences" as well ultimately recommend his impeachment as a result.

The subpoena requested materials covering the period from Nov. 15, 1972 to June 4, 1973.

The bulk of the committee's subpoena dealt with recordings of conversations between Nixon and former top aide H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Charles W. Colson, John W. Dean and Gorden Strachan.

Most of the tapes and other material involved also are sought by Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who has successfully argued for a Supreme Court review of the President's policy in resisting subpoenas.

Nixon, in his letter today to Rodino, disputed the committee's claim that he was trying to control the inquiry into his own impeachment and contended that the panel had had "unprecedented cooperation from the White House.

Nixon said the way to resolve "whatever ambiguities the committee may feel still exists is not to pursue the chimera of additional evidence from additinal tapes but rather to call live witnesses who can place the existing evidence in perspective, and subject them to cross-examination under oath."

The committee was scheduled to hold closed hearings Tuesday and Wednesday with a new black-bound volume of evidence before each member, this one dealing with the 1971 burglary by White House "plumbers" at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Last week, former presidential aide Charles W. Colson pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice in connection with alleged efforts to smear Ellsberg while he was on trial for releasing the Pentagon Papers. The Judiciary committee assigned staff investigators to interview Colson, presumably this week, as a potential witness before the panel.

The White House has said the "plumbers" investigative unit was assigned to gather information on Ellsberg in the interest of national security. Colson, in making his plea, said the objective was to discredit Ellsberg politically.

A smiliar question of motive arose from the panel's initial review of the White House spying issue last week, when the investigation focused on wiretaps of 17 administration officials and newsmen.

Nixon has said he authorized the taps to combat the leaking of classiifed information, including the Pentagon Papers. But many Democratic and some Republican committee members have said the evidence suggests the taps were meant for illegal spying on political enemies.

Thursday, the committee may hold a long-deferred public session with the issue of a fifth subpoena for presidential tapes at the top of the agenda. The President has ignored four previous committee subpoenas, and has been twice remprimanded by letter for ignoring them.

French president fires minister over nuclear atmospheric testing

PARIS (UPI) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing told his cabinet today he fired a newly-appointed minister because his criticism of France's nuclear tests in the atmosphere was "inexact."

The president, embroiled in an front-paged government crisis a scant two weeks after he took office, dismissed Minister of Reform Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber late Sunday.

Servan-Schreiber, owner of the news weekly magazine l'Express, said at a news conference Sunday he opposed the decision of the president to resume atmospheric tests this summer despite Giscard d'Estaing's promise that after 1974 the explosions would be set off underground.

After the cabinet meeting, Minister of Interior Michel Poniatowski told reporters the president had termed Servan-Schreiber "inexact" when he charged that the Defense Ministry resumed the tests without consulting the rest of the government.

Poniatowski quoted the president as saying the decision to set off more explosions in the air over Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific had been taken by the president himself as chief of the armed forces.

Giscard d'Estaing also informed the cabinet he had cancelled one of this summer's planned explosions, the spokesman told reporters.

The president did not say how many explosions would be set off.

Radio commentators said the new president was trying to keep to a minimum any objections from other countries on the tests.

The spokesman said the ministers at the cabinet meeting agreed to propose a new law to lower the voting age in France to 18, fulfilling a campaign promise by Giscard d'Estaing.

Servan-Schreiber long had been a critic of the test blasts before becoming a minister two weeks ago in an effort by the president to to bring members of the reformers movement into his government.

Defense Minister Jacques Soufflet, also criticized by Servan-Schreiber, was expected to reaffirm the government's hydrogen bomb testing policy during the cabinet meeting.

New Zealand and Australia took their protests against the French tests to the International Court of Justice in The Hague but France disputed the court's jurisdiction in what it called its own national security affairs.

Servan-Schreiber denounced a presidential declaration Saturday that France would continue open-air testing this summer and change to underground blasts next year.

As columnist for the news magazine l'Express and as a Radical party deputy, Servan-Schreiber castigated H-bomb testing last year. He led an expedition into the waters near Mururoa atoll, where the tests take place, in sign of protest.

"This was my position last year," he said Sunday, "and it remains my position now with just as much conviction."

German chancellor suffers another electoral setback

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and his Social Democratic party suffered their fourth electoral setback in three months in a cliff-hanging state election decided only at dawn today.

Final official returns from the legislative election in Lower Saxony showed the opposition Christian Democrats had gained three percentage points to win the greatest number of votes, but Schmidt's Social Democrats still held a one-man majority in the state legislature in coalition with the Free Democrats.

Official results of Sunday's balloting were known only at dawn because of an election day computer breakdown on election day.

They gave the Christian Democratic Union 48.9 per cent of the vote and 77 seats; the Social Democrats 43 per cent and 67 seats, and the Free Democrats 7.1 per cent and 11 seats.

Schmidt's party lost more than three percentage points, confirming a downhill trend that began in the Hamburg state elections last March and continued through two more rounds of municipal polling.

Former Chancellor Willy Brandt, who resigned in Schmidt's favor in the wake of a spy scandal three weeks ago, said the lower Saxony election indicated his Social Democratic party was now beginning to "climb out of the cellar of the Hamburg election."

"I think we have stabilized ourselves in the voter's favor," Brandt said. Both Schmidt and Brandt, who continues as party chairman, campaigned in the state for several days, as did national Christian Democrat leaders.

But Helmut Kohl, chairman of the Christian Democratic Union, said his party had polled more than any other single political group in Lower Saxony since World War II.

Social Democratic leaders who put Schmidt in office thought the peppery Hamburg politician would stop the voter erosion that began under what they considered Brandt's recent weak leadership.

But three weeks proved too short a time for Schmidt to demonstrate his talent. The Bavarian and Hessen state elections on October 27 should be a better test of his administration.

Mandatory voting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ralph Nader believes it should be made mandatory to vote in elections.

Only 49 per cent of the voters turned out last Tuesday for the California primary, the consumer advocate noted in a panel discussion at a conference on urban environment Saturday.

He said a compulsory voting law would eliminate the time and energy spent in registering voters, prevent politicians from "pandering" to certain blocs of voters, and also prevent what he called government obstructions to voting, especially for poor people.

Nader stressed that under his plan, citizens would have the right to "vote to abstain" from selecting any candidate and also could write in candidates.

Could wed comoner

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles says his future wife could be a commoner but probably won't be.

The heir to the British throne was asked in an interview published Sunday whether he might marry a girl who was neither an aristocrat nor a member of a royal family.

"There's no essential reason why I shouldn't," the 25-year-old prince said. "I'd be perfectly free to."

But Charles, who has been linked romantically with several young women —all bluebloods —indicated he thought it unlikely he would wed a commoner.

"A woman not only marries a man," he said. "She marries into a way of life, into a job, into a life in which she has a contribution to make.

"She's got to have some knowledge of it, some sense of it, or she wouldn't have a clue about whether she's going to like it, and if she didn't have a clue, it would be risky for her, wouldn't it?"

Four violations found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday he has found evidence in recent Pentagon testimony to Congress of four direct U.S. violations of the Vietnam peace agreement.

Aspin, a frequent critic of the Defense Department, said all four violations involved providing airplanes to the Saigon government that were superior to those it had when the agreement was signed 17 months ago.

Impeachment analysis

Many charges considered

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has about three dozen possible charges it could level against President Nixon in any bill of impeachment. But only a few of them deal specifically with Watergate.

The main question is how many of the other allegations might constitute grounds for impeachment.

Last week, the accusations concerned Nixon and ITT, Nixon and the milk contribution, Nixon and wiretaps.

Still to come are the Ellsberg break-in, Nixon's income taxes, federal expenditures on San Clemente and Key Biscayne, the use of government agencies to "get" political enemies, and the secret, unauthorized bombing of Cambodia.

Committee members find the answer is evasive as they weigh each allegation against the question: Is this an offense on which impeachment can be justified?

That was the case during the two weeks the committee spent on Watergate in its closed sessions, where counsels John M. Doar and Albert E. Jenner played tapes, read the accumulated evidence from thick, black "fact books" and took note of the evidence the President has refused to provide.

There was no agreement on Nixon's culpability even when members heard the March 21, 1973 tape recording, the most sensitive of all.

In that conversation with John W. Dean III, Nixon — according to those who heard the tape —said, "For Christ's sakes, get it!" when Dean told of E. Howard Hunt's demand for money to maintain his silence. That night, $75,000 passed to Hunt's lawyer.

Some members said they found evidence warranting Nixon's impeachment right there. Others said they wanted more facts, and wanted to hear from Dean and other witnesses before drawing conclusions.

Others said the tape itself showed Nixon had engaged in an obstruction of justice. They said no reasonable person could draw any other conclusion.

And so it goes, too, with evidence concerning non-Watergate matters.

On Thursday, the committee heard evidence on 17 wiretaps undertaken against government officials and newsmen in 1969. Nixon loyalists say the wiretaps were needed to counter news leaks damaging to national security. Some Democrats on the committee say there were used at least partly to gather political intelligence.

The committee's differences are not merely over what Nixon did or did not do. They are also on what constitutes an impeachable offense.

The Democrats, generally, say it is a gross abuse or misuse of power, a failure, in the words of the Constitution, to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

But the Republicans, generally, argue that to he impeached a president must be proven to have broken a law. Nothing short of that will do, they say.

Finally, the President's supporters and opponents disagree over the degree of proof the committee must come up with.

The Democrats think the standard is the one applied to grand juries: "Probable cause" to believe that an indicted person committed the crime of which he is accused. The Republicans say more is needed. They demand that Nixon's guilt be proven "beyond a reasonable doubt" before an impeachment vote is taken.

And it is these issues —What did Nixon do? Is it impeachable conduct? Is the proof strong enough to sustain a conviction? —that must be thrashed out in the weeks ahead before the committee acts on a bill of impeachment.

Authorities ponder problem

Avocado thefts rise in San Diego County

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — There's an epidemic of avocado rustling in San Diego County.

Even the American Civil Liberties Union in involved in the controversy over what to do about it.

Last year one of every 10 avocados produced for sale was stolen —$4 million of the $38 million crop —70 per cent of which is grown in San Diego County.

The beauty of the thievery for the rustlers, and the bane of authorities, is that there is no way to mark the thick-skinned fruit.

"Avocados have no identity —they aren't like cars or cows," said sheriff's Capt. Kenneth Deering. "If we stop a person carrying a large amount of avocados there is no way we can identify them, even though we know they are stolen."

More than a million pounds of avocados were stolen in the state last year, said G.L. Clasen, president of the Avocado Growers Bargaining Council in nearby Fallbrook.

"With the laws the way they are now, we just can't get a conviction," he said. "I know of local growers who have lost from one box (25 pounds) up to 1,600 pounds of avocados."

County Supervisor Lee Taylor proposed that an ordinance be drafted to require that any person transporting commercial quantities of the fruit have in his possession documents proving origin and ownership.

As initially contemplated, the ordinance would fix the lower limit of commercial quantities at 40 pounds. It was not known what protection a home gardener or noncommercial grower carrying his own fruit would have.

Enforcement of such an ordinance against criminal acts would place the burden of proof on the prosecution, not the accused, said attorney Mary Harvey of the American Civil Liberties Union. She suggested care should be exercised on considering the proposal to avoid a "Pandora's box of false arrests suits."

Deering saw the ordinance as a lever for law enforcement officers investigating thefts.

"The guys doing the stealing know where to look," Clasen said. "There are some packers who will buy stolen avocados for cash and there's nothing we can do about it."

A Whiplash Injury Can Save Your Life!

By Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

Whiplash neck injuries are among the nation's fastest growing health problems. Why?

The ever increasing number of automobiles rolling onto our congested streets and highways, the mass migration to the suburbs, the increased speed of our freeway systems, power brakes and more powerful engines all contribute to the growing frequency of the type of accident that can result in whiplash neck injuries.

But in one sense, they can
You see, whiplash is by its very nature a problem for the modern doctor of Chiropractic. He best understands the whiplash injury and is best equipptd to cope with it. Consequently, we see many new faces who visit us because of our reputation in dealing with the whiplash. In our examination and care of these people we often discover that their whiplash is but one of their problems. And proper treatment of the whiplash may well remove what might ultimately cause chronic migraine headaches, extreme nervousness or arthritis, although these problems may not have yet manifested themselves.

Don't misunderstand me, the whiplash is in itself a most serious injury and is often itself tht cause of arthritis, for instance, in time.

This of course means that the whiplash injury can't be left untreated. It will only be that 'blessing in disguise' if the person who sustains the whiplash comes in for a thorough examination and is treated effectively.

Too many people do, in fact, let whiplash injuries go untreated.

A typical misunderstanding of the seriousness which a whiplash could involve, for instance, is a young suburban housewife. Let's say her auto is struck from behind as she is waiting at a traffic light. There is only minor damage to her car and, at the time, no one seems to be hurt. However, later in the day she develops a headache and begins to notice a slight stiffness in her neck.

The next morning she feels a bit worse, but since the headache is just a 'slight, pesky one' and the stiffness is not unbearable she decides in her own mind that 'these things take time'. However, the conditions persist and she becomes nervous and irritable. (A young husband once said . . . 'after our accident my wife changed from a pleasant young wife and mother into an irritable, nagging grouch').

Hopefully, our 'typical case' will decide that her self-recovery is taking too much time and will visit us.

If our preliminary exam reveals the presence of pressure on the nerves in the upper part of the spine and the possible displacement of vertebraes we know that her condition wil respond to the proper effective treatment.

I might add that after the first effective treatment, a whiplash sufferer such as our 'typical case' is virtually assured of a first restful sleep since an accident.

It is indeed apparent that a persons who has had an accident owes it to himself and his family to have an examination to find out for sure. Since every health problem has a cause, it's obvious that the cause must be found before a person will get well. (Note: Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 9461 Flower, Bellflower. Abacus still big in Japan

Am surprised to hear the report that four out of five of Japan's business calculations still are done on the abacus . . . Smokey the Bear, like Mickey Mouse, Lassie and Snoopy, is a millionaire . . . One pollster contends more citizens nationwide recognize a picture of Andy Granatelli than of Robert Redford . . .

As many as 10 bank robberies a day were reported this winter in Paris . . . Gambling was outlawed in ancient Egypt on the popular theory thereabouts then that it made men effeminate.

Feminine client asks why the ladies of the liberation movement don't quote the great Aesop who claimed you always should judge a woman by her mind, never by her appearance. Maybe so. Still, our Love and War man says it's exceedingly difficult to ignore somebody's looks, man's or woman's. How Lady Godiva looked when she appeared in public lingers larger in human history than why she so appeared.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's a big fat rattlesnake worth, if anything?"

A. Its venom, about $35 per milligram. Its meat, about $4 per pound.

Q. "The so-called 'long dozen,' sometimes called the 'baker's dozen,' is 13. What's a 'long hundred'?"

A. That's 120.

Q. "Where'd we get the word 'potato'?"

A. All I know is the Indians used to call a sweet potato a "batata."

No, saltwater fish are not necessarily saltier than fresh water fish, young lady.

LANGUAGE MAN

Those descending lines on a geological chart look something like the footprints of a crane. Or so an imaginative Frenchman once thought. He identified such a chart as a "pie de grue" meaning "crane foot." Whence cometh, says the Language man, our word "pedigree."

The class ring originated in this country at West Point.

Remember, that gallon of white paint will cover a lot better if you toss a couple of ounces of lamp black into it.

This nationwide firm of private detectives tracks down missing persons. Twenty five years ago, it reports, the ratio of runaway husbands to runaway wives was about 200 to one. Just 15 years ago, it was approximately 100 to one. Today, it's almost but not quite two to one. Surely, still more husbands than wives take off. But you can see from these statistics that more and more wives every year are going over the hill.

Population swells

San Francisco had a population of 450 at the beginning of 1848 as the Gold Rush began. By the end of 1849 the population had swelled to nearly 30,000.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful of your associations today. Otherwise, you'll get caught in the midst of intrigue that you're better off avoiding.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A friend isn't as open and frank with you as she should be about something you're both involved. Watch out!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An alliance that you put considerable faith in is rather flimsy. Rely on yourself more than depending on another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of your indifferent days when you'll only give your tasks limited attention. You'll neglect entirely something important.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) It won't work out to your advantage if you try today to hide something from your loved one. It's best you keep it all out in front.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to make an agreement that you have small intention of keeping just to maintain harmony in a relationship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23) "Don't do today what you can put off until tomorrow" is apt to be your motto. Tomorrow the tasks will seem even more difficult.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll feel deprived and neglected if you don't indulge your slightest whims and fancies today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Situations that revolve around the family are exceptionally confusing and complicated. You'll be a major contributor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You tend to tune in on things more negatively than positively. This gives you a defeatist outlook before you try.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep a weather eye on your money and other valuable possessions today. Otherwise, you might suffer a loss through carelessness or theft.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It would be very difficult for you to get away with anything unethical. Do everything in accordance with your highest ideals.

June 11, 1974

This year should be devoted to advancing yourself where status and respect in the eyes of others is concerned. Real achievements can be made if you truly try.

The doctor comments

Face lifts can help, but not that much

By Lawrence E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 56-year-old woman, and I'm very interested in having a face lift. Are there any after effects? Does this type of surgery always turn out perfect? How long does one stay in the hospital? Which season of the year is best, or doesn't it matter whether it is cold or warm weather? And, how can I get a surgeon who is highly skilled in this work?

DEAR READER — There isn't any reason why people should not have a face lift if they want to improve their appearance. This applies to both men and women.

The best reason for wanting a face lift is to help you look better. That, in turn, means it can help your outlook on life, and it often helps people in their careers or work. The only thing I have against them is that they usually cost too much. The operation is really not that difficult.

It is important not to expect too much from a face lift. The change in appearance will not reverse the effects of age on your body. A person will not have a new improved sex life unless the psychic response simply removes old inhibitions or other psychological problems. The confidence may help her or him enjoy life more.

There is quite a bit of difference in the techniques used. Incisions in the hair can pull the hairline back and enlarge the face. The facial appearance is greatly affected by the framing of the face with the natural hairline. Some techniques do very little to disturb the natural hairline. In a woman, the scars can be easily hidden by the hair style. It can be done just as well for men with the current longer hair style.

In general, though, if you are willing to accept some small changes in appearance and don't expect to have a completely youthful face, the results are usually quite good. I am a bit concerned, though, about your description of "perfect."

There is commonly residual swelling of the face, but this is temporary. You can often have the procedure done with just an overnight stay or a day in the hospital. You will need to be available, though, for the doctor to see you regularly, usually for about two weeks. It doesn't make any difference what time of year you have the procedure done.

Ask your doctor for a referal. If you don't want to ask him then call the county medical society and ask them to recommend a good plastic surgeon who specializes in cosmetic surgery. If you live in a small community, you can write the state capital or write to the nearest medical university. Address your letter to the chairman of the department of plastic surgery.

Before surgery you must talk the matter over carefully with the surgeon. Be sure what his technique is and how much it costs. I think this pre-operative consultation is absolutely essential for cosmetic surgery. No good surgeon will operate on you without it. He will want to be sure you are not expecting too much and are really a good candidate for the surgery.

Chaffey alumni set recital at college

ALTA LOMA — Tenor Mathew Scully will present a recital in the Chaffey College Little Theater at 11 a.m. Thursday, accompanied by pianist Dan Light. Both young men are Chaffey College graduates and now music majors at USC.

Admission is free.

Scully teaches choral music and music theory at Chaffey Highh School and is minister of music at the First Presbyterian Church of Upland. His part in the recital will be a preview of his role in a USC concert to complete requirements for the degree.

While at USC, Scully sang in Opera Theater productions of Hans Werrer Henze's "The Bassarids," a West Coast premier, and Janacek's "Jenufa."

At Chaffey College he sang top roles in Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" and Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors." He appeared also as a soloist in many choral programs under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Shannon, head of the music department here.

Light, a 1973 graduate, performed solo recitals at the college and served as rehearsal accompanist for the Chaffey productions of "Man of La Mancha" and "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

At the end of his Chaffey College period, he received the Winifred Bailey Scholarship for a distinguished record in the arts, along with a state tuition scholarship.

The artists will present two song cycles, Robert Schumann's "Dichterliebe" ("Poet's Love"), created in 1840, and contemporary British composer Benjamin Britten's "On This Island."

Rattles & straws

Little wonder roses blush!

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

I am no more squeamish than the next man (who happens to be VERY squeamish) but I wish these rose growers would soft petal the sex in their press releases.

A rose by any other name, as Shakespeare wrote, is just a lousy flower, but rose breeders (see what I mean?) write up their germinations in prose as livid as "Lady Chatterley's Lover." Browsing recently through a folder from my friendly manure merchant, I came across an erotic account of how roses came to be, and I have been keeping a watchful eye on my garden ever since. I blushed like a rose.

I'm no prude, but all this chatter about planned genetics, cross-pollination and such—how does it all get by the Postal Service?

How does it work, anyway, this cross-pollination? (If it can be discussed in a family newspaper.) Do you plant two roses side-by-side and hope for issue?

Perhaps you drape a little curtain around the two lovers, turn down the lights, and pipe seductive music into the fiber bed. But what if they don't get on together? She's armed with those sharp thorns, bud—better not try any funny stuff.

Some of the, hem, matings in the ancestral bush make spicy reading, if you are one of those who turns to rose pollination charts for his kicks.

Dame Edith Helen and Sensation begat Rome Glory; Admiral Ward and Lemanis begat Congo; and Congo and Rome Glory begat Unnamed Seedling (isn't that the saddest thing?).

Unnamed Seedling, who are you, mysterious stranger, father and grandfather of champions? Just some gay Lothario who blew into the garden when no one was looking and took advantage of Mlle. Van de Voorde while the gardener was napping?

Rose lineage is a ripping study. What went on, for example, between President Hoover and Sister Therese? What did Baby Chateau see in Rosa Roxburghi? Is it true what we hear about Robin Hood and Mrs. Sam McGredy?

There is drama here, the stuff of great literature. And the movies that could be made! "I was a Teen-age Grandiflora," "Son of Crimson Glory," "Floribunda's Last Tango," "Love With a Proper Hybrid Tea."

If they keep on in this inflamatory style, the rose breeders will soon have to mail their catalogues in a plain wrapper.

Palestinian problem still clouds Mideast

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The heavy blanket of security thrown around Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger during his visits to Damascus and the similar treatment to be given President Nixon in his upcoming visit there provide grim evidence of the central and as yet untouched problem blocking the way to Mideast peace.

That problem is the future of the Palestinians, and in Damascus the fear was a Palestinian attempt against Kissinger's life in an attempt to block his peace efforts.

Another bit of grim evidence concerning the same problem is provided in Khartoum, in the Sudanese trial of eight Palestinian terrorists who have confessed the slaying of U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel Jr., and two other diplomats last year, but have entered a plea of innocent.

Rounding out a picture of uncertainty and frustration is the meeting in Cairo of Palestinians seeking to determine the part, if any, they will play in Mideast peace negotiations in Geneva.

Under the general umbrella of the Palestine Liberation organization, Palestinian guerrillas operate in five groups. They are Al Fatah, the largest, headed by Yassir Arafat, who also is chairman of the Palestine Liberation organization; Saiqa, which is under Syrian influence and is headed by Zuhair Mohsin; the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, headed by Nayef Hawatmeh; the Arab Liberation Front, which is backed by Iraq and is headed by Abdel Kayyali; and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine headed by George Habash, a Marxist.

The first three are considered moderate, although it was the group headed by Hawatmeh which took responsibility for the slaughter of Israeli school children at Maalot on May 15.

The moderates are said to favor joining the negotiations at Geneva provided the conference recognizes "legitimate" Palestine rights.

The last two have made known they will reject any attempt at accommodation.

Differences between moderate and radical elements have led to several shootouts among thmselves.

Terrorists have been described as intellectual radicals who turn to violence because they are political losers.

As the possibilities of peace improve, their cause becomes the more desperate.

Syria, for example, is said to have given assurances to Kissinger that it will do its best to prevent guerrilla action against Israel from across the Golan Heights.

Barred from Jordan, the guerrillas' main access to Israel then becomes hapless Lebanon, which currently houses 300,000 Palestinian refugees.

Since Israel already has announced it will strike back sharply against any guerrilla attack from Lebanon, the possibilities of disaster for Lebanon become very real, including possible overthrow of its evenly balanced Moslem Christian government.

An alternative to guerrilla blows from Lebanon is a revival of that undeclared war which a year ago threatened to become worldwide as Arab members of the Black September movement sought to sow death and destruction among Israeli targets wherever they found them, and the Israelis sought to retaliate.

Obviously a solution must be found, and obviously it must be found with Arab help. So far no Arab nation ever has punished any terrorist action.

The outcome of the trial in Khartoum may provide the outline of the future.

Know Your P's and Q's about Plate Collecting?

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and another selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 145X Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by June 22, 1974.

New state law

Knife, razor barred on school campuses

After July 1 it will be against the law to carry a knife or razor onto the grounds of any public school in California.

The new law, recently passed by the legislature and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, is an attempt to combat the increasing incidence of school violence.

The law makes it a misdemeanor to carry a knife, dagger, folding knife or straight-edge razor onto any public school property, from kindergarten through high school. It also will enable school employes to confiscate such knives.

Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Busch said he is hopeful the bill will reduce violence in schools. He noted that it already is against the law to possess a firearm on school property.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The action of the stock market during the week was the most favorable in weeks," according to A.W. Zelomek Associates. A nominal decline in the prime rate by a major Midwestern bank turned the market around, the firm continues, although volume still is lagging. "Excellent values are available and certainly warrant retention, especially prime securities," it adds.

"The new emphasis on credit quality has had the dual effect of limiting the growth in bank liabilities, notably CD's, and increasing the banking community's scrutiny of the corporate borrower's eroding liquidity position," says Lionel D. Edie & Co. Even though credit demands are high in spite of soaring interest rates, banks are more reluctant to float loans. "The move to quality consciousness on the part of lenders should effectively cool the fever of credit expansion," it concludes.

Inflation probably will recede to an annual rate range of 5 to 7 per cent for the 1974-1975 period, says Chase Manhattan Bask. "April was encouraging," the bank continues, "but May is likely to be terrible, at least for non-food products, because of the bunching of price increases following the end of controls on April 30." It says the picture should remain glum through June, and then inflation will begin to taper off.

"Los Angeles, California, January 31, 1974, 2:30PM— In a filmed demonstration of strength, technicians position the door lock from a Mercedes-Benz 450SE Sedan as the only link between the 4000-pound automobile and a lifting device. The lock, weighing little more than two pounds, lifts the car, weighing more than two tons, for the first of more than fifteen times. There was no sign of fatigue.

A Mercedes-Benz door lock proves a point about automotive safety with a daring television demonstration.

Strength. That's what you're seeing. In an automobile, strength can be critical to safety. That's why the Mercedes-Benz engineers designed the unique, patented safety cone door locks found in every Mercedes-Benz.

The entire weight of this 450SE Sedan—more than 2 tons—is being suspended by one of its door locks.

This automobile was lifted over fifteen times in the course of producing a television commercial. The lock showed no signs of failure. That's strength—and engineering.

And it's only a part of our safety story. Come in. Test drive the car engineered like no other car in the world. The Mercedes-Benz 450SE.

Guinea pig and rat wouldn't get along

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I think my guinea pig, Slovenly, is lonesome sometimes. My sister just got a new (for her) rat, Lydia. Do you think it would a good idea to put Lydia and Solovenly together? —D.T.

Dear D.T.: No, they probably wouldn't get along. You could put their cages fairly close to each other to make life perhaps a little more interesting for Slovenly without the danger of an actual conflict.

DEAR DR. MILLER: In starting in to teach a puppy, in training him, that is, how do you keep him from getting bored? —A.L.

Dear A.L.: When working with your pup, never repeat an exercise to the point of boredom. Five times would be the maximum, otherwise he will become tired or bored, thus contributing to an unpleasant association with training. Also, after each lesson series it helps to have a short play period, (for instance with a ball.) The play period should mainly be fun, though if it's enjoyable and the pup learning something, too, that's bonus.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When a hawk has the "croaks", does that mean he's going to die? —J.E.

Dear J.E.: It's a possibility but not a certainty. "Croaks" referes to a respiratory disease in hawks characterized by noisy breathing. With proper care and treatment—especially early treatment — many affected birds may make it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Corky, my cocker, gets medication all the time for his bad eye. A condition called glaucoma. Besides Corky, I worry about Jiggers, my cat. Could he get it? —F.W.

Dear F.W.: Jiggers could bet glaucoma, but he's not likely to for two reasons: One, it's not a contagious disease and two glaucoma is rare in cats compared to dogs, and particularly when compared to the cocker (which has a higher than average incidence of glaucoma compared with other canines.)

Administration concedes: inflation is major villain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With plenty of hoopla, inflation has been designated No. 1 on the administration's list of economic enemies.

President Nixon, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and others have consecrated the soaring cost of living as the arch villain of the season.

Most Americans will applaud the choice.

Even in the midst of a political scandal of historic proportions, polls continue to show the average citizen more concerned about the size of his paycheck than the stability of his government.

But it is interesting to note that inflation only recently received official top billing as the nation's chief economic worry. Just five months ago, the administration was trumpeting recession and excessive unemployment as the curse to be avoided at all costs.

In fact, Nixon's fiscal lieutenants were pledging to drive the fiscal 1975 budget beyond the projected $9.4 billion deficit level, if necessary, to fulfill the chief executive's State-Of-The-Union promise that "There will be no recession in the United States of America."

The latest policy flip-flop reflects the administration's changing view of the economic situation. In brief, Nixon's advisers think the current economic slump has bottomed out, or nearly so, and that it's too late to improve the situation with more federal spending.

Injecting extra government money into the economic bloodstream would actually have the opposite effect, they argue, increasing an already virulent inflationary fever.

Budget Director Roy L. Ash says the decision to shift the emphasis from unemployment to inflation is "very consistent." The depressed automobile and housing industries have suffered big layoffs but the overall jobless rate has stabilized for the moment around 5 per cent, far below the dire 8 per cent predictions of a few pessimistic forecasters.

This has meant a saving of billions of budget dollars in unemployment compensation and emergency benefits that the government was prepared to spend.

Ash calls it "the fire engine you didn't have to take out to the fire."

But on the opposite front, inflation is flaring almost out of control. Between January and March, consumer prices rose at an astronomical 12.1 per cent and Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers has grudgingly revised its 1974 inflation outlook up to 7 per cent by the end of the year.

"We now see...that the real fire and the real issue is inflation and the expectation of inflation, which requires a completely different kind of revenue," says Ash.

Hence, the administration's new emphasis on budget cutting where possible and its continued opposition to boosting consumer spending by means of a tax cut.

The anti-inflation campaign has obvious partisan overtones, too. Inflation touches everyone and thus is a hotter political potato than even a 1 per cent jump in the jobless rate that directly affects less than 1 million workers and their families.

"Times have changed," Ash says. "So it seems to me the right thing to do is to change the response. Who knows what things will be six months or nine months or 12 months from now?

"Hopefully we can be in front of those and act on those as well."

The reasons why

Low-cost compacts gone forever

DETROIT (UPI) — Like the 5-cent cigar and the 30-cent gallon of gasoline, an American-built car with a price tag below $2,500 soon will be nothing more than a fond memory.

It hasn't been too long since U.S. automakers were touting their below-$2,000 subcompacts and there still are dealers who remember their astonishment when they put a full-size 1950 Chevrolet out the door at more than $2,000. That was with all the options.

The lowest priced U.S. car now is the subcompact AMC Gremlin with a base price of $2,481. Add on the tax and even the smallest option and the price tag is above $2,500.

And you can bet the same car will cost at least $200 more when the 1975 model is introduced in October or November.

Only four years ago —on April 1, 1970 — AMC introduced the Gremlin and priced it at $1,999. Last summer, the car carried a tag of $2,098 and now is $482 more than it was when it first came on the market.

Ford's subcompact Pinto has gone up $563 from its original $1,919 price to its present $2,482. The Chevrolet Vega, which boasted a $2,091 sticker when it was introduced in 1970, now costs $2,504.90.

Unlike the small cars of the early 1960s that increased in size as well as price, today's small cars have remained virtually unchanged since they were introduced four and five years ago. But these cars have changed internally. Increased government safety and emission control equipment is adding costs to the car which are being paid for by the consumer.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of the company that bears his name, estimates that safety, damageability and emission standards have added about $400 to the price of the average car and will add another 700 in the next few years.

"The total direct cost of these regulations to the consumer would then be nearly $1,200 per car —which amounts to $12 billion or more per year out of the pockets of the American consumer," says Ford. "These numbers suggest that a bit more common sense in government regulation of the automobile is an essential part of the struggle against runaway inflation."

Infationary pressures get a good share of the blame for pushing up prices. Between Aug. 1, 1973, and April 30 of this year, Chrysler Corp. estimated increases in materials, component costs and labor totaled $307 per vehicle.

After handing out that estimate, Chrysler in rapid succession announced two price hikes averaging $168 per car and truck.

"The drastic cost increases we are witnessing are in large part the result of shortages which have been intensified by a prolonged period of government price controls," Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend said. "These controls on the one hand have discouraged production and on the other have diverted goods to more favorable free markets in other parts of the world.

"In our judgment, a return to a free market economy will in the long run correct many of these imbalances and slow the inflationary spiral."

Kissinger to meet with German aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet with West German Foreign Minister Hans D. Genscher Tuesday near the German-Austrian border for discussions of common interest, the State Department has announced.

Kissinger will meet with Genscher during a stopover in Salzburg with President Nixon on their way to the Middle East next week. An earlier meeting was postponed because of the length of Kissinger's last trip to Israel and Syria.

Neither works in IMP game

Oswald: "In match-point duplicate there is a tendency to prefer three notrump to a minor-suit game contract. The idea is that three notrump making four counts more than five clubs making five or six."

Jim: "There is a corollary theory that if you do get to five clubs or five diamonds you might as well go on to six in order to bet notrump game bidders."

Oswald: "Here is a hand from a recent IMP team match that shows why this should not apply to IMP contests. The bidding in the box shows the bidding at table one. West opened the six of spades and South gave the hand the best possible play. He went up with dummy's queen of spades, led the ten of clubs and played his queen. West took the trick with the king, thought a while, decided his only chance to get a profit would be to lay down the ace of spades. He caught South's king and wound up setting declarrer two tricks."

Jim: "I suppose the other table got out of the notrump trap, but went to six clubs."

Oswald: "They sure did. Furthermore, West doubled and set them one trick to cause a tie board."

Almanac

The "Dust Bowl" farms of the Great Plains suffered severely in the 1930s when wind erosion carried billions of tons of rich topsoil to the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts. This ecological tragedy was caused by unplanned removal of the natural grass by plowing and overgrazing, destruction of forests and the worst drought conditions in the nation's history, The World Almanac recalls.

Capacity to expand, no price hike

La Verne hits jackpot by buying two water firms

LA VERNE — A lot of hard, drag-out negotiations during the past two years will pay off for this community with considerably more water capacity than originally figured.

Next year, when an expansion project is completed, the city is going to wind up with a larger storage distribution system and despite the spiraling inflation, the price is not going up.

The two-pronged payoff was made possible by the acquisition of two small water companies in the La Verne area as part of the expansion program.

Instead of constructing a new one-million-gallon reservoir north of Golden Hills Road as originally proposed, the city has bought the La Verne Water Association and its three-million gallon reservoir for $200,000, and the La Verne Plateaus Mutual Water Co. and its two-million gallon reservoir for $226,000.

City Manager George Caswell said it would cost "at least double, probably triple that money" to build comparable new reservoirs.

With those two reservoirs and the two three-million gallon reservoirs the city is now completing the capacity of the city's water system will go beyond 12 million gallons.

The last of the $2½-million bond issue, which voters approved 8-1 four years ago, is about to be sold to finish the project. Bids will be opened at 4 p.m. July 1 at the city hall to sell $750,000 worth of bonds to the institution that offers the lowest rate of interest.

Caswell said the 12-million-gallon capacity will ensure residents of adequate water supply for the foreseeable future.

Caswell is now breathing a sigh of relief as the end moves into sight. But it was a tough road.

Both water companies had held off on the city's first offers in an attempt to protect their shareholders. And while negotiations for the purchase of the La Verne Water Association were concluded comparatively quickly, owners of the "Plateaus" held out for most of those two years.

It wasn't until the city took over all the obligations of that company in addition to the $226,000 payment, that the contract was signed. The obligations included a $100,000 reroofing job over the reservoir.

Caswell said the money for that job, as well as for the "domestication" of the La Verne Water Association reservoir so it can be tied to the La Verne City lines, will come from the sale of the last bonds.

$100 rental deposit source of problem

I gave a check for $100 to a landlord more than three months ago as payment for the first month's rent of an apartment which was to be available for occupancy eight days later.

No lease was signed.

The day before the apartment was to be vacant, I phoned the landlord to inform him I could not move in as planned because of sickness in the family.

At that time the landlord said he would refund the entire $100. He added that he had a lot of bills to pay but would get my refund to me as soon as he could.

Since then I have called him twice. Each time he has assured me that I would receive the money. The second time I called him, two months ago, he promised he would get my refund to me within two weeks even if he had to borrow the money.

Since then I have not received any refund or any other communication from the landlord.

As I am going to school now and have bills of my own to pay, will you please help me get my money back? If not, what kind of legal action should I institute?—I.P., Claremont.

Your landlord told us that he rented the apartment to you, turning a dozen others down, and a few days later you said you didn't want it.

He agreed that he had said he would give you back the $100 if he had to borrow it but then, he said, a friend of yours, a man, got tough about it.

"I told him I wouldn't give her a plugged nickel," he told us.

You decided to take the matter to small claims court. We sent you a simplified list of procedure prepared by the California State Department of Consumer Affairs.

The landlord failed to appear in court and you were awarded $117—the month's rent plus fees.

He didn't come through with the money so you had papers served him again. This time he paid.

MORE ABOUT RENTING

If you are planning to rent an apartment or house, the Department of Consumer Affairs urges you to take a few precautions before signing a rental agreement.

Find out what repairs you will be responsible for and what repairs are to be paid for by the landlord.

Read the agreement carefully. Be sure the responsibilities are stated clearly.

Determine what will happen if you move before the agreement terminates and how much notice you must give before leaving.

Make sure you obtain a copy of the agreement and of any other regulations the landlord expects you to follow.

Find out the owner's name, address and phone number.

Before you move into an apartment, go through it thoroughly and make a list of any and all damage. Prepare the list in duplicate, date it and have the landlord sign both copies. Keep one copy for your records.

While living in an apartment, says the Department of Consumer Affairs, you are usually responsible for damage beyond normal wear-and-tear. Needed repairs should be made as soon as possible.

When you move, ask the landlord to go through the apartment in your presence to determine the damage, etc., he is going to charge against your refundable deposit.

Under California law, regardless of whether the deposit was called a cleaning, damage or rental deposit, a landlord may use it to pay back rent, clean the premises or repair damages but he must give back to you, within two weeks after you move out, any part of the deposit not used for these purposes.

Non-refundable deposits or fees are not covered by the law as the landlord imposes these flat charges whether or not you meet your rental obligations.

Seismic study, impact study, Claremont agenda

CLAREMONT — Adoption of the city's seismic element, an appeal of a requirement for an environmental impact report on a condominium project, and continued discussion of the 1974-75 city budget are among items on the agenda for the City Council meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The council had continued its public hearing on the seismic element from its May 28 meeting, while the Planning Commission considered suggested changes by Councilman Gene Block. The commission at its meeting Tuesday night sent the seismic element back to the council in its orignnal form without Block's changes.

The commission noted that it had already approved what appears to be a critical sentence: "While it is generally agreed that Claremont has three local faults, there is lack of agreement regarding their activity."

Block had suggested that the city would be required to determine that an undue hazard would not result from construction on a particular piece of property before a building permit was issued.

To commissioner James Norris, it appeared that a county building official would be the one to bear the burden as to whether a building permit should be issued.

In other items, Rufus Turner, representing H.B.W. Enterprises, has appealed an Environmental Quality Board requirement on an impact report being necessary for a condominium project at Yale Avenue and Seventh Street.

Planning Director Paul King had ruled that an environmental impact report was not required for the project, but two residents appealed his decision. The matter went to the board.

Sharon Hightower, when she was planning director, had also ruled that the report was not necessary.

City, chamber agreement up for discussion

CLAREMONT — City-Chamber of Commerce contract negotiations for the 1974-75 fiscal year will highlight the chamber board of directors meeting Tuesday at 8 a.m. at the chamber office.

The board will be looking at a proposed budget for the coming year and will discuss what to do about its quarters since a 20-year lease with the city expired in April. The chamber is in its present quarters on a month-to-month basis.

The board must decide on a performance plan and a job description for the hiring of a single executive for both the chamber and the conventinn bureau. Chamber manager Alex Turner resigned April 15 after three years to go into private business, and the chamber is seeking a replacement.

The board also will consider a resoultion from the Pomona Chamber of Commerce urging the county Board of Supervisors to adopt a "no tax increase" position for 1974-75.

The recommended county tax increase is 83 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

South Hills Center: no need goes unattended

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — "A Bridge Over Troubled Waters" is the theme and controlling principle of the South Hills Neighborhood Service Center which provides a variety of services for minority and poor people within the community.

Ken Stewart, director, recently detailed the specifics of its employment, health, youth, psychiatric counseling, senior citizen and children programs.

The center, located at 1170 W. Fremont St., is funded by the Greater Los Angeles County Action Agency and the Presbyterian Synod of Southern California.

Job development and geferral services are offered through contracting with the state Department of Human Resources Development for the use of its job bank and cooperating with local industry and business for placement. A leaflet on a wall at the center warns "Landing a job is not just luck" and urges attendance at job interview workshops. A bulletin board is literally covered with pamphlets and brochures for jobs throughout the valley.

Employment counseling

Counseling for those seeking employment is conducted at the center Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Emmanuel Baptist Church in San Dimas on the first and third Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Goodwill Church of God in Pomona on the second and fourth Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the Beta Center, 1095 W. Grand Ave., Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The emergency social service attempts to deal with the more than 25 per cent of Pomona students from families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, said Stewart. It provides food assistance, clothing, furniture and appliances, transportation and help with utility disconnection.

"Going hand in hand with economic deprivation is the problem of maintaining adequate health," Stewart said. Therefore, a community preventive medical clinic is offered on Monday nights from 7 to 10.

It is staffed on a rotating basis by volunteer professional medical doctors and nurses and medical students from USC, the Claremont Colleges and Citrus College. Basically, it is a diagnostic clinic and services are offered free, although a $1 donation is requested but not required.

Psychiatric help

Severe economic hassles can lead to mental health problems. With this in mind, the center personnel organized the psychiatric counseling program for both children and adults.

This program is conducted Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. and is also staffed by volunteer professional psychiatric and social workers.

The senior citizen program, coordinated by Elsie Manning and Mary McNeal, seeks to deal with the unique situation of poverty, age and minority status. Many of the black and brown elderly are penalized financially in Social Security benefits because they worked during the years that minorities were extremely low on the economic structure, said Stewart.

A hot lunch daily, crafts, social activities and home visitation and assistance from volunteers are part of the senior citizen program headquartered at Goodwill Church of God.

The youth program deals with bored juveniles in a "suburban ghetto."

"We have felt particular concern in viewing our young people. Black and brown children have been low achievers in school, seldom overcome environmental handicaps and come into contact with the criminal justice system at a frequency much greater than nonminority children," the director noted.

"Without attacking the major sources for these deficiencies in our society, we have developed a stop-gap program. A program that includes academic tutoring, counseling services for predelinquency behavior and a continuation school for youngsters who have been expelled from the school district."

A LITTLE HELP

Debbie Wallace, second from left, gives a student at South Hills Presbyterian Junior School a helping shove down the slide as other youngsters wait their turn.

Continuation school

Stewart and his staff are currently taking referrals for the Martin Luther King Jr.-Benito Juarez Continuation School. Through a "gentleman's agreement" with Pomona Unified School District, it will be possible for students re-entering the traditional school program to transfer credits earned at King-Juarez.

The South Hills Presbyterian Junior School provides preschool activities and child care services from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. The fees are on a graduated scale according to parents' income. Emily Munding is current director with Debra Wallace as teacher, Rosa Newton and Charlita Shields as teacher's aides, Katharyn Newton as cook and Ruth Pratt as custodian.

The school is located to the north of the service center in the same building. Children attending are drawn from throughout the valley. The program takes in basic shapes and colors, field trips, nutrition, music participation, a monthly fire drill, numbers, alphabet, Sesame Street, films and safety.

Besides Stewart, the South Hills staff includes Kathryn Hill, manager; Tobby Baca, social service coordinator; Lorraine Williams, employment coordinator; Irene Reyes health clinic coordinator; Thomas Castanos, psychiatric clinic coordinator; Mrs. Manning and Mrs. McNeal, senior citizens coordinators; and students from Cal State Northridge, Cal Poly's SPAN Project and the Mexican-American Opportunities Programs of Cal Poly and East Los Angeles.

Party-crasher, 17, slain in Compton

CARSON (UPI) — A 17-yearold Compton youth was shot to death Saturday night when he and some other youths attempted to crash a party, sheriff's deputies said.

Michael Day was shot outside a home where as many as 150 youths were attending the party. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Deputies said witnesses reported members of two youth gangs, the Crips and Pirus, were involved in the shooting, but officers declined to confirm the report.

Authorities said everyone who attended the party was being questioned, but there had been no arrests.

Opinion

Nuclear death is too easy to steal

The theft from private industry of sufficient nuclear material to make an atomic bomb is a growing threat.

A series of small "bookkeeping" alterations or materials substitutions could cover the theft. Such alterations would require no more ingenuity than the methods used by bank embezzlers to hide the stealing of millions of dollars over a period of years.

Transposed figures and misread instruments are already a burdensome problem for government and business in accounting for fissionable materials under existing Federal regulations. But a frightening amount of confusion can be introduced by men who are skilled in nuclear physics and chemistry. For example:

—Instruments can be made to give erroneous results.

—Measurements can be altered by putting false numbers in the record.

—Contents of a measured batch of fissionable material can be changed after measurement.

—One material can be substituted for another of similar properties.

The lengthy process involved in producing fissionable materials is so complex it invites tampering of a kind which defies detection. Uncertainties in measuring, tabulating and altering the fissionable material already produced in this country are so great that no one knows for certain whether an explosive mass has or has not already been stolen.

Once fissionable material is in illegal hands, making a nuclear weapon is no problem. The precise techniques of bombmaking have been widely published.

Information gathered on computer and white collar industrial crime in the past six months indicates the number of highly-educated, technically-competent men and women who are not adverse to theft of money or trying to "beat the system" is increasing.

Of course, it will not be enough to deal with theft in just the U.S. The scheduled growth of nuclear power reactors means large quantities of fissionable materials will be at hand in scattered plants and stations worldwide.

Today it is impossible to keep track of fissionable material with accuracy greater than one per cent. Even with improved methods, loopholes of a tenth of one per cent can be expected.

These percentages seem small. But the amounts of fissionable material already handled is so great that an insider with the same ingenuity of a computer crook could sequester sufficent material for one or several bombs through that tenth of one per cent loophole.

For large plants, the best that can be done in checking on fissionable materials is to produce a monthly balance or accounting. When this accounting suggests material has been lost or stolen, it is normally necessary to recheck the whole inventory process for error and to resurvey the processes and movements step by step to generate better statistics before it can be definitely stated some fissionable material has disappeared. This rechecking takes several weeks more.

If the thieves, by methods outlined above, take the fissionable material in small enough dribs and drabs, they may have "all the time in the world" to make a bomb. Even if the culprits are more ambitious, and sequester slightly larger amounts, the time delay involved in accurately checking and accounting for what's on hand makes it possible for a skilled man with stolen ingredients to build a bomb well before officials could be certain fissionable material was missing.

The 4th of July

Silence shrouds the great Liberty Bell in its resting place at Independence Hall, Philadelphia. Never again will its melodious voice herald important occasions such as the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence. Yet for millions of Americans, the cracked and battered 222-year old bell symbolizes the rugged spirit of independence that founded these United States so many years ago.

As the traditional Fourth of July celebrations burst forth this year, the U.S. finds itself at crossroads similar to those faced by our forefathers that first "Independence Day" in 1776. Our national purpose is being questioned, and myriad problems assail us on every front. But as long as Americans keep alive the principles of individual dignity and justice under law, the U.S. will always be able to follow the message inscribed on the Liberty Bell to: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

Thoughts for today

'BUT IF WE WENT ON STRIKE WITH EVERYONE ELSE, WE'D BE DEPRIVIN' THE COUNTRY OF A VITAL SERVICE...'

More on Klassen's empire building

WASHINGTON — In a series of columns, we have carefully documented how Postmaster General Ted Klassen has lavished himself with the appurtenances of power, doled out jobs and contracts to his cronies and put politics ahead of delivering the mail.

He has managed to get away with these abuses by intensely wooing the board of governors and the members of Congress who are supposed to supervise him.

The board of governors is dominated by the lions of industry, who were expected to bring businesslike efficiency to the Postal Service. But like Daniel, Klassen has turned the lions into pussycats who purr their approval wherever he appears before them.

The full board doesn't even bother to meet regularly. Sometimes it directs the $10-billion postal organization by telephone, rubber-stamping Klassen's decisions by conference call.

The likeable Klassen is even more skillful at stroking the fur of the congressional watchdogs, who have been assigned to keep an eye on him. He makes frequent trips to Capitol Hill to butter up the members of the Senate and the House post office committees. At least once a month, he breakfasts or lunches with them.

When Klassen is unavailable, postal lobbyist Norm Halliday is on the Hill ready to attend to their wants.

One House committee member, Rep. Charles Wilson D-Calif., wanted help in his primary election campaign. Suddenly, the postmaster general turned up in the unlikely town of Lynwood, Calif., which had just been added to Wilson's congressional district.

Although Klassen is a Republican and Wilson a Democrat, they appeared together at a luncheon, dutifully attended by postal workers. The invitations were mailed at the taxpayers' expense in official Postal Service envelopes.

For the most powerful members of the Post Office committees, Klassen has arranged to place a friend of their choice on the board of governors. Among those who were able to plant a political supporter on the board were Senate Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyn.; Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, the ranking Senate Republican; and Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill, who will be the ranking House Republican next year.

Klassen's slick congressional stroking may explain why the Post Office committees have made no move to investigate our revelations.

Meanwhile, House Post Office Chairman Thaddeus Dulski, D-N.Y., actually headed off a planned investigation of the Postal Service by the House Small Business Committee.

Claiming jurisdiction, Dulski insisted it was his job to investigate the Postal Service. But instead of an investigation, he merely fired off a stern but meaningless letter warning Klassen that his patience "has worn thin." That was six months ago; yet Dulski's patience still hasn't been exacerbated.

Elsewhere, officials of the American Postal Workers Union, citing our columns have called for Klassen's removal.

Footnote: Rep. Wilson denied that Klassen came to California to campaign for him, claiming the postmaster general happened to be in the area attending a regional conference. A spokesman for Dulski said the House chairman wanted to give the postal managers time to work things out but now is ready to move.

HARD OF HEARING: Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who has a hearing problem himself, has called upon the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission to protect the hard of hearing against "quackery, which is all too rampant" in the $150 million hearing-aid industry.

Unscrupulous salesmen and dealers often sell hearing aids to people, particularly the elderly, who don't need them. Others who need medical attention for ear problems, rather than hearing aids, are seriously injured because they trusted some smooth-talking salesman.

State hearing aid licensing boards "are often packed with dealers," Percy complained in a private letter to Food and Drug Commissioner Alexander Schmidt.

The salesmen themselves, Percy charged, often "are neither professionally qualified nor adequately equipped to diagnose and treat acute ear disorders."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: The prestigious, nonprofit Population Reference Bureau, which coined the term "population explosion," is short $85,000. The FBI has charged that the money wound up in the bank account of the foundation's former acting president, Alvaro Garcia-Pena. We spoke to Garcia-Pena who refused to comment . . . Lt. Gen. Wallace Robinson, director of the Defense Supply Agency, recently flew to the Far East for a three-week "logistics tour." The general and two aides were the sole passengers aboard a huge Air Force 707. The flying behemoth, said a spokesman, was going to the Orient anyway . . .

Government auditors have charged that the armed forces ran up more than $7 billion in extra charges on 55 weapons systems during the last six months of 1973. The confidential audit identified the Air Force as the worst offender with more than $3 billion in cost overruns. The Army exceeded its cost estimates by $1.7 billion, the Navy by more than $1 billion. A Pentagon spokesman blamed inflation . . . The House Judiciary Committee is transcribing President Nixon's famous Watergate tapes in three rooms which used to be occupied, ironically, by the House Select Committee on Crime . . . The original Watergate grand jury has been kept on to consider some additional indictments . . . The original Watergate prosecutors, meanwhile, have been notified that their testimony will be needed at the trials.

PAUL HARVEY

Simplifying the income tax problem

No two tax accountants would have computed President Nixon's tax bill similarly. Had you taken his file to a dozen different offices of the Internal Revenue Service, you'd have a dozen different opinions on how much he owed. That's right, the interpretation of tax law is that inconsistent.

There is no avalanche of taxpayer protest because most taxpayers are content to try to shift the burden to somebody else: "Soak the rich;" "tax big business," "plug the loopholes!"

But, inevitably, the complexity of tax laws punishes the poorest most. Big business does not pay taxes. No, it doesn't. Big business passes all such costs on to consumers in higher prices. Only people pay taxes.

And the rules change from year to year sufficiently to confound the most astute and to penalize the most conscientious.

It's got so the workaday man on the most modest income has to hire a professional accountant every year to compute his deductions. Every IRS commissioner, when out of office, agrees that the system is deplorably, inexcusably complicated.

Some political party these next two years — if it dared oppose those who feed on this tax fiasco — could capture the White House with a platform promise to abolish the Internal Revenue Service.

Why not tax everybody 25 per cent of his annual income with no exceptions and no loopholes? The Federal Treasury would take in more money and the army of tax accountants, lawyers and paper handlers presently employed by government, industry and individuals — all those hundreds of thousands of paper jugglers — would be released for productive work.

The farmer, with a lot of overhead for seed and feed, would be taxed as a business. What we are discussing here are the individual incomes of individuals.

The major resisters to tax simplification are the churches, charities and endowed schools who fear nobody would support them any more.

But to admit that they are depending on government to get us to give is to confess that church and state are partners in a conspiracy to coerce — and they shouldn't want to admit that.

If you knew for sure that six bits of every dollar you earned would be all yours to do with as you wish, there would be no daily bookkeeping for tax purposes, no annual hassle, nobody dodging. Everybody would pay a proportionate share including the people on welfare.

It seems to me you'd solve a lot of problems.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . . . . letters

Challenges Anderson

In a recent column, Jack Anderson said that our ambassador to Vietnam, Graham Martin, had advised the Department of State "to be dishonest with senators."

Mr. Anderson's statement is false. Ambassador Martin sent a confidential cable to the State Department giving his suggestions on how to handle a letter from Senator Kennedy which raised questions about Vietnam policy. He advised giving the senator a "very short routine reply from the Assistant Secretary for Congressional Relations stating that the department had noted his letter and was sure that its substance would be thoroughly covered in the testimony to be given in the near future by the Executive Branch witnesses before the appropriate Congressional committees which would consider foreign assistance legislation for FY 74."

The ambassaador said that it would be unwise to provide the information requested to Senator Kennedy "as an individual senator so close before the full Administration position is presented" to the appropriate committees of Congress.

Ambassador Martin did not suggest that the Department of State be dishonest with "senators," or even with one senator. What he suggested was that the one senator in question be advised that the information he sought would be provided very shortly in testimony before two congressional committees. That is a far cry from a recommendation of dishonesty. — Reed J. Irvine, Accuracy in Media, Inc., Washington, D.C.

Gossip for today

Truly dedicated ecologists and conservationists miss few, if any, opportunities to help make this a better world in which to live. And high on the list of those who deserve special mention is that housewife who thinks it a mortal sin to remove any living thing from its natural habitat simply for ornamental or decorative purposes. She's the one who not only fills her vases with plastic flowers but also recently had another brilliant inspiration. Her fish tank now contains plastic goldfish. Such all-out dedication to ecological ideals would most certainly be hard to equal but at least one other housewife should also be given honorable mention for conservational effort and beyond the realm of duty. She is the one who has turned out all the pilot lights on her kitchen range in order to cut down on gas consumption.

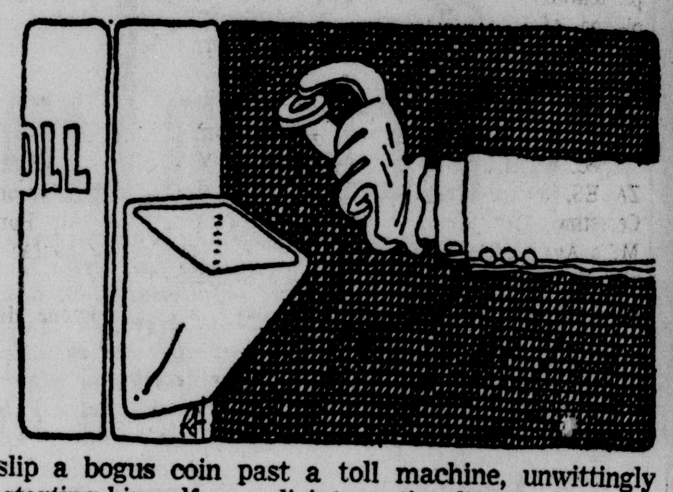
RALPH NOVAK

For whom the booth tolls

This is the era of law enforcement in television—fictionally, anyway. You can hardly turn on your television set without confronting a private detective or police officer of some description: black or white, thin or fat, handsome or ugly, crippled or healthy, urban or rural, intellectual or physical. So it is only natural that soon we'll be seeing series on the order of "Toll Booth," starring someone like Desi Arnaz Jr. as an exact change lane attendant on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Imagine an interview with the producer of "Toll Booth," who would be named something like Phoenicius Ersatz:

Ersatz announced that the first episode would be entitled "The Slug," with Ricardo Montalban making a rare guest appearance as an ordinarily law-abiding citizen who runs out of change and tries to slip a bogus coin past a toll machine, unwittingly starting himself on a disintegrating life of crime.



"This series will deal with the pressing moral issues of our time," Ersatz said. "We will confront the question of good vs. bad and come out in favor of good. We will confront the question of morality vs. immorality and come out in favor of morality. We will confront the question of profit vs. cancellation and come out in favor of profit."

Ersatz conceded that a series about a toll booth attendant was not something that seemed like a surefire hit but he added that most of the good law enforcement areas have already been used. "What was left?" he asked with a shrug. "A meter maid in Topeka? A dog catcher in Muscle Shoals? A security guard at Watergate? Look, we had sponsors clamoring for a nice cops and robbers show and we had to come up with something; do you expect us to put on a half hour of blank air?

"There are all kinds of possibilities for this series. We'll have one show on the youth problem you know, where a five-year-old tries to run the booth on his tricycle without paying and the attendant shows compassion but resolve, arresting the kid while recommending that he be paroled after five years. Then we've got another topical show where a radical group of blacks takes over the toll booth to protest against the white majority's hoarding of change. And for a little light touch, we've got an episode where Desi finds some romantic interest when a pretty little model's quarter becomes stuck in the machine."

Critics have suggested that "Toll Booth" may be so ridiculous that nobody in America will ever watch it but Ersatz scoffs at that idea.

"NO program is that ridiculous," he says. "What do you think people should do? Read books? Plant vegetables? Play chess? Paint pictures? Don't be silly. 'Toll Booth' has the potential to be as big a success, financially and artistically, as 'Bridget Loves Bernie' and it could be the biggest thing to hit television since 'The Keefe Braselle Show.' "

New law aims at counterfeit food stamps

The recent confiscation by federal agents in Orange County of more than $1 million in conterfeit food stamps has resulted in passage of a new law regulating the use and possession of the stamps.

The law amends the Welfare and Institutions Code to make it a felony to use or possess food stamps, or authorizations to purchase stamps, illegally if the face value of the stamps is more than $200. If less than $200, the violation is a misdemeanor.

The law also makes it a felony to possess or use authorizations to purchase food stamps with the intent to defraud, and specifies that the alteration or counterfeiting of authorizations or stamps is forgery.

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Busch said that in view of the federal seizure of bogus stamps, passage of the bill appears timely.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie and chantilly lace fashioned with crystal pleated ruffles at the neckline and cuffs. The skirt flowed to a chapel train. A cap of lace and pearls held the bride's fingertip-length veil.

A nosegay of white roses, daisies and stephanotis was carried by the bride.

Mrs. Harold Lloyd Jr. of Pomona was matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Richard Mann of Yucaipa, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Kathy Mizysak handled the guest book.

Patrick McGraw was best man. Serving as ushers were Rick Mann and Jim Exon.

The couple greeted guests at a reception in the church auditorium.

. . . And Johnny does it again in Milwaukee

By United Press International

Johnny Rutherford, who survived a crash eight years ago that broke both arms, is now cradling the lion's share of the purse on the USAC championship circuit.

The affable Texan earned a quarter-million dollars for his McLaren team two weeks ago by winning the Indianapolis 500-mile race. On Sunday, Rutherford again picked up the top prize—this time $17,268—by capturing the 150-mile Rex Mays Classic in Milwaukee.

Across the Atlantic, jubilant Jody Scheckter of South Africa won his first Grand Prix race in two years on the Formula One circuit by leading from start to finish in the Swedish GP at Anderstorp.

With the new bond of USAC--SCCA cooperation, there's a chance Rutherford and Scheckter will hook up wheels in the near future.

Rutherford, driving a McLaren, averaged 110.225 miles an hour on the one mile State Fair Park speedway as he beat Gary Bettenhausen by 31 seconds. A spin-out on the eighth lap almost cost Rutherford the race. But he recovered without hitting anybody and finally took the lead for good during the 124th lap.

Scheckter said once [illegible] the lead of the Swedis[illegible], winning the race proved easier t[illegible] he anticipated.

"When I won the start, I wa[illegible] determined to hang on with all the strength I had. Now that I've done it once, I hope I can do it again. There are still a lot of races left this season and my position in the field is strong now."

Scheckter beat Tyrrell teammate Patrick DePallier of France by less than a second in the 200-mile race and moved into a third place tie with Nikki Lauda of Austria in the world driver championship standings. Emerson Fittipaldi, who finished fourth in Sweden Sunday, leads the pack with 27 points.

Gerard Larrousse of France and Amilcare Ballestrieri of Italy, driving a Lancia Stratos, won the Targa Florio race in Cerda, Sicily, with an average speed of 68.167 mph for the 312-mile event.

Gary Beck of Canada hit a record-tying 247.25 mph at Columbus, Ohio, while beating Carl Olson of El Toro, Calif., in the top fuel category of the National Hot Rod Association Spring Nationals.

RIVERSIDE — The NASCAR Grand [illegible]ational stock car circuit won't return [illegible]the Riverside International Raceway [illegible] course for another seven months, [illegible]le Yarborough is marking the [illegible]on his calendar already.

[illegible]rough's eager anticipation is [illegible]e than understandable; Riverside has been very, very good to the 35-year-old native of Timmonsville in 1974, so why not look forward to '75?

For the second time this year in as many races, Yarborough's '74 Chevelle outdistanced NASCAR's finest Sunday to capture the Tuborg 400 and the points lead for the season.

Last January, Yarborough patiently waited out a week's rain delay to grab the Winston Western 500 at Riverside.

But Yarborough's sixth victory of the year didn't qualify as his easiet.

As a matter of fact, the crowd of 41,000 figured that the Chevrolet of Bobby Allison was going to take it all as late as eight laps left in the race.

Allison led Yarborough by 10 seconds—a comfortable if not substantial margin—when he ducked into the pits for a quick shot of fuel. That opening was all Yarborough needed.

Allison put his foot to the floor for the final eight laps, but a 2.7 second margin when the checkered flag dropped was as close as he could get.

It was an exhausted Yarborough that crawled out of the car after 400 miles in 92-degree heat.

"It was about 130 degrees in the car," Cale wheezed after Winner's Circle ceremonies. "I had a gallon jug of water in the car, and I finished it early. Sometimes down the back stretch, I could stick my hand out the wndow and deflect a little bit of air into the car."

Allison, meanwhile, was totally spent by his final charge. The Hueytown, Alabama driver lay prone in a garage after the race, and was unavailable for comment on the late pit stop that cost him the race.

Yarborough opened up an early lead, and paced the field for most of the race until a yellow flag on lap 104 scrambled the field and allowed Allison to inch in on Yarborough and finally draft past him on the back straight of lap 106.

And there Allison sat for 24 laps until his fuel gauge forced him into the pits.

Allison was the only driver on the same lap with the winner at the end of the race. Benny Parsons, Ellerbe, North Carolina, was two laps down in third place in his '72 Monte Carlo.

Cecil Gordon, Horse Shoe, N.C., finished fourth a full four laps down in another Monte Carlo.

It was not a good day for some high qualifiers and crowd favorites.

Arcadia's George Follmer had qualified the Roger Penske Matador for the pole position, but he barely finished seven laps when a broken camshaft retired the American Motors entry for the day.

Richard Petty, Randleman, N.C., who usually has 90 per cent of the crowd on his side anyway, lasted only 50 laps before the temperature gauges went wild on the red-and-blue Dodge, putting King Richard away for the rest of the race.

Buy maybe the unkindest cut of all was directed at veteran Grand National West driver Hershell McGriff of Bridal Veil, Oregon.

McGriff opened the day by winning the California 100 for late-model stocks that preceded the actual running of the 400. Local favorite Ivan Baldwin could stay only 40 seconds in back of him.

McGriff qualified his Chevrolet 19th for the 400, and trackside public address announcers were just getting done speculating on his chances for a sweep when his transmission failed one lap into the race.

McGriff's was the first car out of the race, thereby sending McGriff from an exhilirating first to an annoying last place finish in the space of one half hour.

Jim Insolo of Mission Hills qualified his '72 Chevrolet in sixth but retired on lap 71 for a variety of mechanical ills.

Yarborough's average speed of 102.442 set a new record for the energy crisis-shortened 400.

Unhappy Joshua a Dodger hero

By BILL ALNGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Being a hero isn't changing Von Joshua's unhappiness.

Joshua lined a pinch-hit single in the ninth inning to score Willie Crawford with the winning run to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday afternoon.

But Joshua would just as soon be somewhere else next year where he could earn a regular job in the outfield.

The 26-year-old lefthanded swinger is unhappy about being used mostly as a pinch-hitter and has expressed his desire to be traded. He even met with Dodger president Peter O'Malley earlier in the week.

"No, this hit doesn't change my mind," Joshua told the reporters after the dramatic victory. "I don't want to say any more about it this season. It's up to the Dodgers now. The situation looks hopeless for me to be traded now and I don't want to be the one to cause trouble on this team with the club doing so well.

"After the season, I definitely want to be traded unless the situation changes and Mr. O'Malley has told me the club will try to grant me my wish at that time."

Joshua didn't realize he had driven in the winning run until after he rounded second base and saw the Cubs leaving the field.

"I forgot what the score was and didn't know what inning it was," Joshua said with a sheepish grin. "I was just running. The situation didn't register with me. I guess it comes from inactivity."

As it turned out, Joshua agreed not knowing the situation probably helped him.

"I was pretty relaxed at the plate today," he said. "If I would have known what the situation was, I would have probably been tight. Pinch-hitting is one of the toughest jobs in this sport."

Crawford, who played with glasses for the first time in his career, opened the bottom of the ninth with a single off Chicago reliever Horacio Pina, Saturday night's winner.

Bill Russell sacrificed Crawford to second to set the stage for Joshua's game-winning hit.

The ninth-inning victory, the third for the Dodgers this week, maintains an eight-game advantage for L.A. in the National League West entering tonight's opener of a three-game series against the St. Louis Cardinals at Dodger Stadium.

Chicago pitcher Burt Hooton deserved a better fate than a no-decision Sunday as the Dodgers' first three runs were unearned thanks to four Cub errors.

Meanwhile, the Cubs belted three doubles and one home run to deny Tommy John (9-1) his 10th victory of the season. Charlie Hough picked up for John in the eighth, blanking the Cubs the rest of the way for his sixth victory in seven decisions.

Hough is getting the reputation as "the Buzzard" for his knack of picking up victories in the relief in the manner of ex-Dodger Phil "the Vulture" Regan.

The Dodgers grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning thanks to Chicago errors plus Steve Garvey's 51st run batted in on a sacrifice fly plus Joe Ferguson's run-producing single.

Chicago cut it to 2-1 in the fourth when John walked Billy Williams and gave up a double to Jose Cardenal. But the Dodgers got the run back in the bottom half of the fourth when Garvey doubled, advanced to third on shortstop Don Kessinger's error and came home on Willie Crawford's sacrifice fly.

However, John couldn't protect the lead.

Carmen Fanzone opened the Chicago fifth with a double and George Mitterwald followed with a two-bagger to make it 3-2. Mitterwald was later out at the plate when he tried to steal home on a missed bunt by Hooton.

Williams slammed his eighth home run of the season in the sixth with two outs to tie the score.

John went to the showers in the eighth when Rick Monday and Williams hit back-to-back singles after two outs. Hough came in to get Jose Cardenal on a fly ball to end the threat.

Chicago missed an opportunity to take the lead in the ninth when a walk to Fanzone and a single by Mitterwald put runners on first and third with one out.

Hough got pinch-hitter Chris Ward on a short fly to left then struck out pinch-hitter Bill Madlock to get out of the jam.

DODGER DATA — Doug Rau (5-1) will face Sonny Siebert (6-3) in this evening's game. Tuesday's probables are Andy Messersmith (6-1) vs. Lynn McGlothen (7-3) with Don Sutton (6-4) slated against John Curtis (3-6) in Wednesday's homestand finale . . .

The Dodgers and Cardinals are the two top hitting teams in major league baseball with respective team averages of .288 and .285 . . .

Dodger management announced the signing of five of its first 10 players in last week's free agent baseball draft. Shortstop Fred Tisdale of Centennial High, the third choice, signed Saturday . . .

The Dodger-Cardinal series will highlight the four leading RBI men in the National League — Jimmy Wynn and Steve Garvey with 51, the Cardinals' Reggie Smith at 50 and Ron Cey fourth at 45.

Lose all three at Detroit

Angels try Yankees next

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fading California Angels hope to find things easier in Shea Stadium here tonight when they open a three-game series against the New York Yankees.

Rudy May (0-1) will draw tonight's pitching assignment against the Yanks' Doc Medich (7-4).

The Angels limped here after losing all three games over the weekend in Detroit. The finisher came Sunday afternoon when Willie Horton's booming two-run double capped a three-run fourth inning and led the Tigers to a 5-3 victory.

Detroit now prepares for ex-manager Billy Martin to bring in his Texas Rangers for the first time since being fired by the Tigers last August 3.

But while the press is making a pretty big deal out of Martin's return, and the Rangers' manager is doing his volatile best to pick up ticket sales, the paying public is strangely apathetic.

Advance sales for the game are not overly large, although General Manager Jim Campbell, who fired Martin, noted the size of a "family night" crowd is heavily dependent on gate sales. Monday nights are family nights in Detroit, with family members getting in for 50 cents if one adult pays the regular price.

"The people in Detroit forget easily," noted relief ace John Hiller, who pitched three scoreless innings Sunday to notch his 10th save.

Ancient Title, Finalista skip Bel Air Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Bel Air Handicap was supposed to have been the last major prep before the $150,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, but Ancient Title and Finalista failed to prove it.

Ancient Title, the multi-stakes winning 4-year-old gelding which would have been bidding for his fifth stakes win of the season, was scratched just before the start of Sunday's program.

Trainer Keith Stucki apparently decided the high-weighed ancient title could be readied for the Gold Cup on workouts alone.

Meanwhile, rallying on the comeback trail, finalista captured the eighth running of the $53,750 Bel Air in the excellent time of 1:47, just 3-5 of a second slower than the track record.

It was his second impressive victory of the year, having beat Quack, the expected heavy favorite in the Gold Cup, in the Caballero Handicap earlier this spring.

"We'll take alook at the Gold Cup, but we'll have to see," trainer L. J. Brooks said.

Finalista, which was limited to just four starts last year because of a suspensory injury, has been running about every three or four weeks this year in his six starts.

In 11 starts as a 3-year-old in 1972, Finalista won six of them and more than $135,000.

Jockey Alvarado Pineda brought Finalista to the outside after the 5-year-old was kept in third position until the turn for home. Finalista then outgamed Tree of Knowledge to score a $5.60 neck victory.

Plunk was third.

Apprentice rider Kenneth Skinner, 17, had his biggest day of the meeting by riding both ends of a $553.20 daily double. Laffit Pincay Jr. had to wait until the ninth race to keep alive his win-a-day streak at 24, five short of Bill Shoemaker's Hollywood Park record.

Twixt proved a good horse can run on any track by winning the $56,400 Milady Handicap Saturday in her California debut and her first appearance on a West Coast track.

Twixt, 1973 Maryland Horse of the Year and only one stakes victory short of Secretariats's production last year with eight, took on nine of the west's top distaffers and drove to a nose victory over Tallahto.

La Zanzara was third.

One of the country's top older mares, Twixt increased her career earnings to close to $340,000.

NFL players pick July 1

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Football League Players Association said Sunday it will go on strike if a new agreement is not reached with club owners by July 1.

Edward R. Garvey, the association's executive director, said the walkout would include newly-signed rookies slated to play against the Miami Dolphins in a charity All-Star game in Chicago on July 26.

"We have 12 days of negotiations with the owners between now and July 1," Garvey told a news conference. "If nothing is settled by that time, we will declare a strike."

He said union representatives would be talking to the 1974 rookie crop, including those on the All-Star roster, in the intervening days, "so that everything will be all set by the July 1 deadline."

The players association and the owners are scheduled to resume talks Tuesday for the first time since the union's long list of demands were presented to the bosses.

The owners responded with a quick no to the 63 demands when handed the list April 4.

A federal mediator persuaded both sides to renew their talks starting Tuesday in New York.

Expansion club shines

Aztecs collect eighth straight, and a record

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — A crowd of 4,904 saw the unbeaten Los Angeles Aztecs win their eighth straight game here Sunday, defeating Rochester, 3-0.

The eighth consecutive victory was a new North American Soccer League record, with Rochester holding the old mark of seven, set in 1971.

Jerry Kazarian dumped in two goals and Doug McMillan added one in the Aztec victory, but the big story was Blas Sanchez' excellent play as goaltender.

Sanchez turned back 21 Rochester shots — some from point blank range — en route to his second shut out since he joined the Aztecs four games ago.

An official was pelted with stones thrown by some 20 to 30 fans near the end of the game and had to be escorted off the field at the game's end by police.

The incident involving referee Billy Maxwell was an apparent reaction to Maxwell's ejection of a Rochester player.

When Maxwell ejected Roverto Lonardo for punching Aztec captain Ramon Moraldo, the spectators rushed to the sidelines, stones in hand. Two other players were thrown out earlier for fighting, one from each side.

The Aztecs, now 6-0-2 in NASL play, host the San Jose Earthquakes next Sunday afternoon at East Los Angeles College.

College World Series delayed by more rain

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Officials waited 30 minutes in a sporadic drizzle Sunday night before postponing for a second time the Seton Hall-Southern Illinois College World Series contest here.

The two teams were scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the first of four contests to be played at Rosenblatt Stadium Monday, weather permitting.

At 1 p.m., the loser of that game will meet Texas, which lost to the University of Southern California 9-2 Saturday night. At 5 p.m., first round winners Miami and Oklahoma will play, and at 8 p.m., Southern California will take on the winner of the Southern Illinois-Seton Hall contest.

Poile promoted in WHA ranks

LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Bud Poile, a veteran hockey executive, was named Thursday as vice president in charge of hockey operations for the World Hockey Association.

Poile, 50, active in the sport since 1942, resigned last January from the front office of the National Hockey League's Vancouver Canucks. He was one of the builders in 1966 of the expansion Philadelphia Flyers, who won the Stanley Cup this year.

The announcement of his appointment was made by WHA President Dennis Murphy after the first day of a three-day league meeting.

Anthony wins bowling title

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI) — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., the leader since play began last week, took a 218-188 decision Sunday over Mark Roth of New York to defend his Brunswick-PBA National Bowling Championship.

Anthony, 36, who captured the Firestone Tournament of Champions last April to close out the winter tour, tacked on another $9,000 to his money winnings. With the $25,000 he earned for the T of C, Anthony has earned more than $53,000.

Roth, who was trying for his first PBA championship, won $5,000 in finishing second for the second time and ran his season winnings to $26,000.

Roth, who had downed a pair of tour veterans on his way to the championship game, led Anthony midway 206-199.

But Anthony posted strikes in the sixth, seventh and eighth frames and put the game away when Roth split in the ninth.

The four-game finale started with 24-time champion Dick Weber of St. Louis disposing of Marty Piraino, Syracuse, N.Y., 218-209.

In the second match, Weber strung strikes from the third through the seventh frames but left splits in the eighth and 10th frames and Roth came through with a 228-211 victory.

Gary Mage, Seattle, Wash., in the day's closest match, dropped a 205-204 decision to Roth, who struck on three of his final four attempts.

Anthony averaged over 219 to gain the top-seeded spot in the finals.

Hubie claims third victory of the year

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Four summers ago, an unhappy fledgling assistant pro, Hubert Green, was dusting shelves and sweeping floors in the pro shop of a nearby country club, too new and too busy to be able to play at the nearby Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

Sunday, Green walked away with a $30,000 check for winning the $150,000 IVB Golf Classic at the Whitemarsh course that, he jokingly claimed, he "couldn't afford to play" when he was a young assistant at the nearby Merion Golf Club.

The 27-year-old Green, now the second leading money winner on this year's PGA tour, shot a blistering 17-under par 72-hole total of 271 Sunday, a record for this tourney, and ran away with the $30,000 and his third tour victory of the year.

Green shook off the hot and humid weather and an early double bogey to shoot a four-under par 68 for the four-stroke victory over Hale Irwin, who realized early he was "playing for second place and that's what I played for."

Green, starting the day with a two stroke lead, played every hole calmly and methodically to card six birdies and only one double bogey for the victory that increased his money winnings to $156,165, second only to U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller.

Miller was two strokes behind Green when they started the final round but a double-bogey on the par-three third hole, when his drive sailed over the green and out of bounds, quickly put him out of contention.

Miller wound up with an even-par final round of 72 to finish in a tie for third with sophomore pro Tom Jenkins at 277.

Two strokes back of them was defending champion Tom Weiskopf, who had a final round 69. Mike Hill was at 280 while Joe Inman finished with a 281.

Jim Dent, Tom Kite and John Schlee were back at 282 while Masters champion Gary Player finished with a 285 total.

Green, who served only three months as an assistant pro at Merion in 1970 and was ineligible to play in area PGA tourneys, said he "considered himself a local son of some type" and was happy with the victory.

His double bogey came on the par-four eighth hole when his drive just caught the left rough and then his approach shot flew over the green.

After having to chip twice to the green, Green got on in five and sank an eight-footer.

Strings hold Aces, 25-21

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Los Angeles Strings, leaders of the Pacific Section, defeated the Chicago Aces 25-21 Sunday night in World Team Tennis action at the Lake Shore Racquet Club.

Sue Stap continued her fine play for the Aces, downing Kathy Harter and Merita Redondo, 6-3, but the overall play of the Strings was too much for the Aces. John Alexander beat Ace Coach Butch Buchols 6-2 and Miss Harter and Karen Susman defeated Stap and Janet Young 7-5 in doubles play.

Baseball roundup

Stargell belts two

By United Press International

Willie Stargell may have left his heart in San Francisco but the Pittsburgh Pirates hope he didn't forget to bring along his bat for tonight's game in San Diego against the Padres.

Stargell broke out of an 0-23 slump with his ninth career grand slam Sunday and also smashed a two-run homer to lead the Pirates to a 14-1 rout of the Giants. Pittsburgh's 17-hit offense was also greatly aided by Richie Zisk, who hit for the cycle and drove in five runs.

"I know a lot of visiting players don't like to hit in Candlestick Park because of the wind," said Stargell, who grew up in nearby Alameda, Calif., where he was an eight-letter man in high school. "But I've always liked it here. I think I've had some success, too. Of course, I never expected to drive in six runs but I was due for a good day."

The Pirates as a team were due for a good day. Picked by many to win the National League East Division title, Pittsburgh still finds itself languishing in last place, eight games off the pace, with a less-than-impressive 20-32 record.

"We haven't had too many laughers this year," said Pirate Manager Danny Murtaught. "Hitting has been our problem but it wasn't this day. I don't expect my men to do this all the time but they should be hitting better than they have."

Stargell and Manny Sanguillen had three hits apiece while Bob Robertson clubbed his eighth homer for Pitsburgh and Zisk, in addition to a three-run homer in the first inning, doubled in the fifth, singled in the sixth and tripled in the ninth.

The beneficiary of all this hitting was Jerry Reuss, who went the distance while scattering 10 hits to raise his record to 5-4. Ron Bryant, who allowed three runs and four hits in only 1 1-3 innings, was charged with his sixth loss in eight decisions.

In other NL games, Montreal beat Atlanta 7-3 after losing the opener of the doubleheader 3-2, Los Angeles edged Chicago 4-3, Cincinnati thumped Philadelphia 14-7, Houston walloped New York 11-1 and San Diego shaded St. Louis 6-5.

In the American League, Texas nipped Baltimore 3-2, New York got by Minnesota 4-3, Boston downed Chicago 10-6, Oakland edged Milwaukee 5-4 and Cleveland defeated Kansas City 8-6.

Braves 3-3, Expos 2-7

Willie Davis paced a 12-hit Montreal attack with a double and two singles to lead the Expos to victory in the second game after the Braves won the opener despite getting only four hits. Davis doubled in the first inning and scored, along with Ken Singleton who had walked, on Bob Bailey's single. Davis' first single drove in Barry Foote in the second inning and he singled and scored in the sixth when Singleton's sacrifice fly accounted for one run and Davis romped home on a passed ball.

The Braves maade the most of their hits in the first game with Ralph Garr getting three of the four with a triple and two singles. Garr singled home winning pitcher Phil Niekro with the first run of the game and the Braves' other two runs came in the fifth when Dave Johnson and Mike Lum led off with walks and were driven in by a fielder's choice by Craig Robinson and a single by Niekro.

Reds 14, Phils 7

Terry Crowley and Johnny Bench hit two-run homers and Joe Morgan chipped in with a solo shot as Cincinnati used a seven-run seventh inning to defeat Philadelphia. Mike Schmidt and Mike Anderson each hit three-run homers for the Phils. Don Gullett pitched the first six innings for the Reds to pick up his sixth win in nine decisions. Bench's homer and a two-run single by pinchhitter Hal King were the big blows in the Reds' seven-run inning.

Astros 11, Mets 1

Tommy Helms' two-run single in the second inning staked Houston to an early lead and a barrage of 13 hits allowed Astros' righthander Tom Griffin to coast to victory over the Mets. Griffin struck out eight en route to his seventh win of the season and his fourth complete game. Doug Rader scored three times and drove in two runs for the Astros, one of them with his sixth homer.

Padres 6, Cardinals 5

Bobby Tolan slammed a three-run homer with two out in the eighth inning to give San Diego its win over St. Louis and a sweep of their three-game series. Tolan's round-tripper, his fourth of the year, came just after both clubs had spilled onto the field for a 10-minute scuffle when Derrel Thomas of the Padres and second baseman Ted Sizemore of the Cards exchanged shoves at second base. Reliever Dave Tomlin got the win, his first decision of the year.

A's 5 Brewers 4

Sal Bando and Deron Johnson hit homers to help spoil Milwaukee's Jacket-Day promotion, which drew a crowd of 46,812, and earned Ken Holtzman his seventh victory for the A's. Holtzman went 6 2-3 innings, with Paul Lindblad finishing up, while Jim Slaton suffered the loss. Pedro Garcia homered for the Brewers.

Rangers 3 Oriales 2

Jim Fregosi drove in two runs with his fourth homer and a single and Jim Bibby won his eighth game for the Rangers, who dealt the Orioles' Ross Grimsley his seventh setback. Fregosi's homer came in the eighth inning and snapped a 2-2 deadlock. Steve Foucault came out of the bullpen in the eighth inning and earned his fourth save.

Red Sox 10 White Sox 6

Bob Montgomery drove in three runs with two singles and Carl Yastrzemski had three singles leading an 11-hit attack which brought Bill Lee his seventh win with the relief help of Reggie Cleveland. The Red Sox scored four runs off Skip Lockwood in the first inning and clinched the decision with five runs in the sixth, during which they kayoed Rich Gossage and Jim Kaat. Ron Santo hit two homers and Dick Allen hit one for the White Sox.

Indians 8 Royals 6

Homers by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan were the big blows for the Indians, who handed Steve Busby his sixth loss against seven wins. Steve Kline went only five innings but received credit for his fourth victory compared with eight losses.

Yankees 4 Twins 3

Sparky Lyle came out of the bullpen to record his fourth consecutive victory when his teammates scored three runs in the bottom half of the night to delight a bat day crowd of 50,083 at Shea Stadium. Lou Piniella and Rick Dempsey singled home the first two runs of the inning and then Graig Nettles, who homered in the sixth, knocked in the winning run with a single. Bobby Darwin tripled home the Twins' first run and hit a key single to contribute to their third tally.

Hutchinson now a king

INGLEWOOD , Calif. (UPI) — Defenseman Dave Hutchinson has jumped from the world Hockey Association and signed a multi-year contract with the Los Angeles Kings, the National Hockey League club announced tody.

Hutchinson, a 6-foot-3, 215-pounder, becomes the tallest, heaviest and most penalized member of the Kings.

Hutchinson, 22, was penalized 151 minutes with the Vancouver Blazers last season to finish among the WHA's top 20 in that category. He has averaged more than 105 penalty minutes in his two seasons with the Blazers.

He was originally drafted by the Kings in 1970, but signed with Vancouver.

"He will help fill the void left by the defection of defenseman Barry Long and should give us some needed muscle on the Blue line," said John Milford, general manager of the Kings.

Long left the Kings to join the WHA.

Upland lass will compete in AAU meet

Upland High's Linda Hightower, a junior who competes for the Southern California Cheetahs, qualified Sunday in the 100 meter hurdles in the California State AAU Championships held at Drake Stadium at UCLA.

She ran a 15.5 in finishing fourth in the meet.

Linda will accompany her Highlander teammate Steve Scott to the Junior National Track and Field Championships in Gainesville, Florida, to be held Friday and Saturday.

The top two finishers of each event will be selected to compete with the United States Junior team against the Russian Junior team at Austin, Texas, June 28-29.

Hightower then joins her Cheetah teammate Jenny Starry of Claremont High who has already qualified for the Senior Women's Pentathalon championship at UCLA, June 23-24, where she also has a shot at making the junior team since two pentathlon athletes will be selected from there to make the meet at Austin.

Both girls have qualified for the National AAU Girls Championship at Bakersfield, June 24-25.

Carner wins golf classic with luck

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Joanne Carner has some new found confidence in her game, but a positive approach had little to do with her quirkish victory Sunday in the $100,000 Desert Inn-LPGA Golf Classic.

The 5-foot-7 strawberry blonde resident of Lake Worth, Fla., admitted what took place in the final holes of the 72-hole tournament was better suited for a longshot hunch player at the nearby gaming tables.

"I think I could win anything today," confessed Mrs. Carner, who collected $20,000 and a new car in earning her richest victory ever on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

The 35-year-old Mrs. Carner shot a three-under-par 70 in Sunday's final round at the 6,255-yard, par 73 Desert Inn Country Club layout for a 284 total of eight under par.

But her one-stroke victory was only possible because Sandra Palmer, then seven under, triple bogeyed the 17th and three of Mrs. Carner's drives to the green on the 16th and the 18th holes found their way back onto the fairway because of a tree and two spectators.

Carole Jo Skala finished in second place with a four-under-69 Sunday and a 285 total. She picked up $12,000 from one of the four richest purses on the women's tour.

Miss Palmer, who fired rare bogeyless rounds Friday and Saturday to start the day with a two stroke lead over Mrs. Carner, ended up with a 71 Sunday and a 287 total for third place. Her winnings were $7,000.

"All the way I thought Palmer was still seven under and would birdie the 18th green," said Mrs. Carner, who rolled in a two-foot putt for a par on the last green that she needed for the victory.

Miss Palmer birdied the 18th also but her disastrous experience on the 17th hole left her without a chance to force a playoff.

Mrs. Carner, who had rounds of 74-68-72-70, captured her third LPGA victory in the last four tournaments. Her other wins were at the Hoosier Classic and at Louisville, but they were only worth $5,000 each.

Gail Denenberg, Jane Blalock, Carol Mann and Shelly Hamlin were bunched at 288 in a tie for fourth, four strokes back, and Laura Baugh and South Africa's Sally Little were knotted with 289s.

"I was really not confident in my game until I worked with Gardner," said Mrs. Carner, whose tutoring sessions with Gardner Dickinson produced tips about 11 of her faults which she calls "Gardner's Bible."

Her closing drive to the clubhouse Sunday, however, was based less on what the men's touring pro could have told her than on an unbeatable show of good luck.

Driving from the tee on the 16th, Mrs. Carner bounced her shot off a tree but instead of bounding into some nearby water it landed nicely on the fairway.

Claremont Legion downs La Verne

By BILL MORRIS
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Claremont Post 78 took advantage of a La Verne error to score four unearned runs and win, 5-4 in American Legion District 18 play on Sunday.

The big inning for Claremont was the fifth when it scored four unearned runs. It all started when Rich Tullis hit what looked like a fly out to rightfield. La Verne rightfielder Jim Richards apparently caught the ball but he dropped it and it was ruled an error.

Attempting to sacrifice, Robby Haerr forced Tullis at second base while reaching first on a fielder's choice. With a one strike count to pitcher Paul Sokolowski, Haerr broke to steal second. As Post 330 shortstop Bruce McNaught went to cover the bag, Sokolowski poked a hit-and-run ground ball into left with Haerr taking third.

Todd Ervin drew a walk to load the bases with one out. Chris Tracey hit a ground ball to short forcing Ervin for the second out as Haerr scored Sokolowski took third and Tracey reached first on the fielder's choice.

As Bill Bumstead came to a set holding the runners on, Tracey broke for second base. Bumstead turned and threw to first baseman Jay Lacheur. When Lacheur threw to second attempting to nail Tracey, Sokolowski went home. Giving up on getting Tracey, McNaught tried to throw out Sokolowski at the plate but failed as both runners were safe.

Harry Brown drew a walk to put runners on first and second. Tony Janusz ripped a single down the third baseline to score Tracey and again put runners on first and second.

Jim Ayers hit another single down the third base line to score Brown and make the score, 5-1. Bumstead then struck out Post 78 catcher Lou Caudillo to end the inning.

The other Claremont run came in the first when Ervin doubled, went to third on a ground out and scored on a Janusz infield single. Ayers then forced Janusz at second to end the inning.

La Verne scored for the first time in the third when Harold Drake hit an one-out double to deep center. Sokolowski got Post 330 catcher Carl Davis on a grounder to second as Drake moved to third. Shortstop Rick Ortega then singled to left to score Drake before McNaught struckout to end the inning.

La Verne added two more in the seventh when Richards drew an one-out walk. Drake followed with another double, this time to left, to score Richards. Davis singled to right, moving Drake to third.

Drake scored when Ortega hit a ground ball to third which was misplayed for an error. Sokolowski then got out of the inning on two fly outs to centerfielder Tracey.

The final La Verne tally came in the eighth when Steve Barnard got an one-out single. Bumstead walked and after Richards flied out, Drake walked to load the bases.

Sokolowski walked Davis to score Barnard and was relieved by John Huddleston after throwing a ball to Ortega. Huddleston got Ortega to fly out and finished the game allowing only one runner on a walk.

Claremont is now 1-3 in league play with La Verne being 1-2. Claremont travels to Mount San Antonio College for a Tuesday game with Walnut. La Verne will play Tri-City at Alta Loma High on Tuesday with both games set for 5:30 starts.

Chaffey's Rankin takes scholarship

ALTA LOMA — Pierre Rankin, a starter on this year's Chaffey College basketball team, has accepted a scholarship to the University of Hawaii.

The scholarship was to the Hilo branch of the university, and there is a trip to Japan on Hilo's schedule next year.

What is interesting is that Chaffey's basketball team took the trip to Hilo for a series against the Hawaiian team this past season.

Hosts picked in World Cup

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — Bookmakers have made West Germany the 9-4 favorite to win the World Cup on its own ground and opinion polls show there are about 40 million West German soccer fans who would not argue with that.

But manager Helmut Schoen is more guarded about the "Deutschland uber alles" theme. "Let us keep both feet on the ground", said Schoen. "I will be more than satisfied if we get through to the final and so should everybody else.

"I would like to point out there are some other good teams—Brazil, Italy, Holland and Scotland—who have always been great fighters."

The German 22-man squad is in the finishing stages of its 17-dy taraining stint in a Malente sports school in a lonely lake region north of Hamburg.

Schoen has two injury problems—one of which is himself. He bruised a knee in a training session recently and has been limping slightly.

NHL begins meetings

MONTREAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League opens its annual four-day meeting today, with new rule proposals the first item on the agenda.

One of the major items of business was scheduled for Wednesday, when the new Washington and Kansas City clubs each choose 24 players, including two goalies, during the expansion draft.

Several new rules, mainly involving delaying tactics, are expected to be implemented by the Rules Committee.

"There are too many arguments with officials," said NHL president Clarence Campbell. "We hope to give minor penalties for that and also for the player who starts a fight and causes delay in the game."

One team is attending the meetings without a coach. The Boston Bruins, who were eliminated by the Philadelphia Flyers in the Stanley Cup finals, have not yet found a replacement for Bep Guidolin. Guidolin has signed on as coach with the new Kansas City Scouts.

Former Montreal Canadiens' star John Ferguson was reported to have the inside track on the Boston job, but Bruins' general manager Harry Sinden isn't talking.

CLIFF KING Says:

Everyone remembers Judith Lowry although few actually know her by name. She's the sweet little old lady who has appeared in hundreds of commercials. You've watched her hold up a bank, selling soap, ballpoint pens, candy, wine or whatever. She's the one who concluded a sales pitch by climbing on her motorcycle and tearing off at 60 mph with a sensational "rear wheel stand."

The motorcyle tricks were done by a double but everything else about Judy is real. Born in 1890, she raised nine children, then launched a career in commercials and TV bit parts that made her a very prosperous octogenerian.

Terry Murphy's crew trailed 2-1 when they retook the lead 4-2 with three runs in the eighth. Sefo Purcell singled to right with one out and Jeff Corkill followed with a single to left. Lance Parrish doubled to score Purcell and tie the game, 2-2, and Bob Veselic singled to right to score Parrish with the go-ahead run. Ken Czarnecki drove home Parrish with the final run of the frame on a single.

Walnut, now 9-1 overall and 4-0 in league play, added a pair of insurance runs in the ninth as Bob Flores reached on an error and scored on Corkill's triple. Corkill, who wound up three-for-rive with two RBI's scored the final run on a wild pitch.

Veselic also had a fine offensive day with twohits in four at-bats while Parrish added a pair of hits in five trips to the plate. They each drove home a run.

Jim Vallandingham (5-0) went seven innings and had allowed two singles to start off the West Covina eighth. Murphy then summoned Parrish who came in and got the first hitter to ground into a double play and the next batter on a ground out.

Corkill gave Walnut a first inning 1-0 lead with a two out homer.

West Covina is now 1-1-1 in leageu play.

Pomona '30' rolls to 10th straight

Pomona Post 30 notched its 10th straight win Sunday afternoon while Rowland Heights dropped a 4-2 American Legion decision to South Pasadena Post 140.

Post 30, who started out the legion campaign with a 1-4 slate, pushed five runs across in the sixth inning to break a 1-1 tie and go on to rout La Puente Post 47, 7-1, at Los Altos High.

The Gems, 11-4 overall and 3-0 in District 18 action, erupted for the five-run rally as Wil Lewallen began the sixth with a one out triple. Larry Pekarcik put Post 30 on top 2-1 with a double to score Lewallen. Dean Sickles and Mike Wooten followed with walks to load the bases and Dave Lahar singled home two runs. John Souza gave Post 30 a 6-1 lead by singling home two more markers.

Pomona's seventh frame run was the result of John Freeman's single. He then moved to second on an errant pick off attempt and scored on Lewallen's single.

La Puente, 2-2 in league play, took a 1-0 lead off Pomona starter and winning pitcher Vince Garcia in the third on Ron Hertel's RBI hit.

The Gems tied it in the fourth on Sickles' run producing safety.

Garcia threw well through seven innings before being relieved by Paul Madrigal who retired six of the seven batters he faced. It was Garcia's (2-0) second win of the week.

Ruben Ruiz will be on the mound for Post 30 tonight in a 7 p.m. game with West Covina at Ralph Welch Park. Tuesday, Roger Slayton will battle Upland at Ralph Welch.

South Pasadena Post 140 (3-1) scored two unearned runs in the eighth inning to edge Rowland Heights legion 4-2 in a District 18 game played at Rowland High School.

Byron Smith went the initial four frames alowing no runs and three hits before developing a blister. Ed Jimenez (1-1) replaced Smith and gave up all four runs, three unearned, in four innings of work before giving way to Smith who threw a scoreless ninth.

Rowland (4-5 overall and 1-3 in league play) tied the game at 1-1 in the fifth as Kirk Kennedy singled, went to third on an error, and scored on Kurt John's squeeze bunt.

Rowland, starting seven sophomores against a veteran Pasadena club, scored its final run in the ninth on an infield out. Ray Duffy had reached base on an error and advanced to second on a wild pitch. One later he scored from third on Pat Roldan's grounder.

Freshman Andy Anderson (0-1) will be on the mound for Rowland Tuesday in a 5:30 p.m. game with Arcadia at Rowland High.

Seales kayos Sullivan in 2nd

LACEY, Wash. (UPI) — Former Olympic star Sugar Ray Seales knocked out John L. Sullivan with a barrage of punches in the second round Saturday night to win the Pacific Northwest middleweight championship.

Sullivan, at 154 pounds, of Olympia, was never in it. He appeared tense in the opening round and was felled three times in the second round before the bout ended at the 2:43 mark.

Seales, of Tacoma, also weighing 154, extended his unbeaten string to 20 bouts. He dropped Sullivan first with an overhand left.

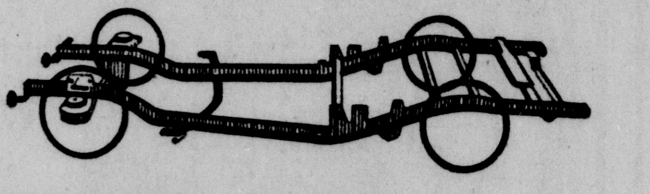
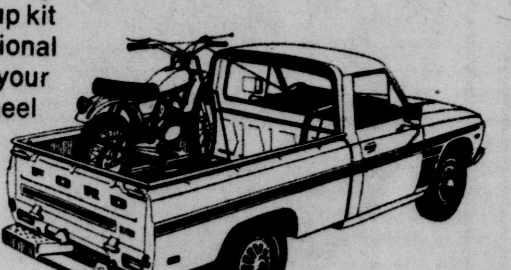
Gutsy

Ford Courier durability starts with a box-section frame reinforced with seven crossmembers. An independent front suspension features big coil springs and a stabilizer bar. Long, wide rear springs have six leaves. Dual cylinder brakes have 2 brake cylinders at each wheel. The all-steel box is all-welded. And a Courier easily carries up to 1,400 lbs. of payload and people.



Sporty

The Courier pictured at right and below sports a dress-up kit that includes such optional features as stripes (in your choice of 4 colors), wheel covers, mirrors and a rear step rail or bumper. There's also a popular bike-bar option (right). And a deluxe box cover option (not shown) has tinted side windows. Automatic transmissions and air conditioning are also available options.



Thrifty

Courier's spirited 1800-cc. engine gives you all the operating economies you'd expect from a 4-cylinder import. And the engine's 5 main bearings . . . for rigidity and strength . . . are designed to help promote trouble-free service over the long haul. For more details on this gutsy little economy pickup . . . and its little import price . . . see your Ford Dealer.

Tornadoes leave vast destruction

By United Press International

Those who live in the country's mid-section known as "Tornado Alley" are hardened veterans of weather catastrophies but Red Cross volunteer Peggy Glen spent the weekend with tears in her eyes.

"It's hard to believe what I've seen," she said while operating one of four disaster relief centers set up in Tulsa, Okla.

"People are coming in without any homes. I stopped at a neighbor's on my way here and where four houses had stood, there was nothing there but vacant lots."

At least two dozen tornadoes, torrential rains and flash floods smashed Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with by far the most damage occurring Saturday from midafternoon until nightfall. As the last vestiges of the weather moved peacefully eastward, the official death count stood at 25, with over 350 injured, over 2,000 left homeless and property damage in excess of $40 million.

President Nixon today added Oklahoma as a national disaster area. Arkansas was given that designation Saturday, making it eligible for extensive federal aid, following heavy flooding and a tornado which killed four at Forrest City last Thursday.

Oklahoma was the hardest hit state. Red Cross officials said there were 1,617 families homeless in central and eastern Oklahoma, 15 dead and over 300 persons injured.

It began Saturday night with a tornado ripping the roof of a crowded nursing home at Drumright, Okla., and cutting a mile-long, three-block wide swath through the community of 3,000. But the violent weather quickly spread to other sections of the state and to Kansas.

At Emporia, Kan., a tornado cut a mile-long path through the town destroying all but five of a 103-unit trailer park and wrecking 22 businesses in a shopping center.

Five of the city's victims were found in the rubble of the mobile homes. The sixth body was found in an apartment near the shopping center.

"It looked like an explosion, a big green explosion," Liz Wilson, 14, said of the tornado which swept by her home.

By the time the storm system reached Arkansas, the twisters had died out but a deluge in the form of more than a foot of rain sent creeks and rivers over their banks and into homes.

Two persons drowned in El Dorado, Ark., Saturday when their car stalled on city streets and was swept away. Two youths were killed Sunday near Magnolia, Ark., when raging waters swept away the gravel embankment under a culvert.

Farther west at Guthrie, Okla., a creek swelled by almost five inches of rain drove about 100 families from their homes Sunday. City officials said the small town was cut in two by the raging waters.

Rancher files $1.5 billion suit against 2 supermarket chains

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A Nebraska cattleman filed a $1.5 billion suit today against two of the nation's largest supermarket chains charging them with conspiracy to fix meat prices.

The anti-trust, class action suit was filed in U.S. District court against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Inc., known as A&P Stores, and Safeway stores.

The cattleman, state Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, contended in his petition that through combined buying and selling power the two chains conspired to "pay suppliers uniform, arbitrary, non-competitive and artificially low prices on fresh, frozen and processed meat products."

In turn, the petition said they conspired to "charge noncompetitive and artificially high prices for fresh, frozen and processed meat products sold at retail."

The senator contended the result of their actions, in his own case as in the case of other Nebraska meat producers, were substantial losses which wouldn't have occurred in a truly open market.

In addition to damages, the cattleman asked the court to enjoin the chains from any future actions involving meat pricing.

Kennedy proposes sweeping overhaul of tax structure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said today the nation's tax system is "the biggest welfare bill of all" and called for comprehensive reform before the end of the year.

Kennedy proposed a three-point program —an immediate tax cut, prompt measures to offset the losses, and a major overhaul of the tax structure.

In testimony before the Senate Finance Committee, Kennedy said tens of billions of dollars escape taxation through loopholes every year and have to be made up by higher taxes on ordinary citizens.

"In fact, the Internal Revenue Code is America's biggest welfare bill of all," said Kennedy.

"But it is the sort of welfare that only Alice in Wonderland can understand because the greatest benefits of tax welfare go entirely to the richest individuals and the nation's largest corporations."

Kennedy proposed an immediate "across-the-board antirecession" tax cut for every citizen, totaling $6.5 billion in relief.

The cut would come through raising the personal exemption from $750 to $825; an optional tax credit of $190 in lieu of the higher exemption; and a partial refund of Social Security payroll taxes for low-income workers with children.

A tax cut is vigorously opposed by the administration.

To offset revenue losses from a tax cut and comprehensive reform, Kennedy outlined four measures which would raise $4 billion this year and $7 billion by 1978.

Kennedy recommended:

—Repeal of the oil depletion allowance.

—Repeal of the accelerated depreciation system.

—Repeal of the tax incentive system for exports.

—Strengthening of the minimum tax by reducing the current exclusion from $30,000 to $10,000 and by eliminating the deduction for taxes paid.

As part of comprehensive reform, which Kennedy said could generate $10 billion a year in revenues, Kennedy recommended a halt to the increasing number of tax shelters and a shift from tax deductions to tax credits in a number of major areas.

Kennedy also suggested simplification of the tax code and chances in capital gains, oil taxation, state and local bonds, interest, personal deductions, investment credit, foreign income.

Nixon off for Mideast, 'new journey for peace'

EUROPE, THEN MIDEAST

President Nixon waves as he and the First Lady prepare to board plane at Andrews AFB near Washington to head for Europe on the first lap of a 15,000-mile journey to consolidate peace in the Middle East. His first stop will be Austria.

President's party will stop first in Austria

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Expressing hope that he is starting on "a new journey for peace," President Nixon left today for a tour of five Middle East nations.

"We believe this trip, like the other journeys we have taken, will contribute to that lasting peace which we as Americans are so deeply dedicated," Nixon said in a brief speech as he and Mrs. Nixon left the White House on the 15,000-mile, nine-day trip.

Nixon thanked a large group of foreign diplomats and government officials for coming to see them off and said "we hope and believe this will be another journey for peace."

The President likened his trip to historic 1972 visits to mainland China and the Soviet Union. Those were the first trips to either Communist capital by a sitting American President and he noted that he would be the first President to visit four of the countries on his Mideast agenda.

"Both of those journeys were ones that had a profound impact not only on the relations of the nations involved but also on building a structure of peace for the whole world.

"This trip will take us to a part of the world that has known nothing but war over the past 30 to 40 years. And as we go to five nations —four that have never been visited by an American President before — we realize that one trip is not going to solve differences that are very deep, that go back in some cases, many years, and in some cases centuries.

"But we also realize that a begining must be made."

Referring to cease-fire agreements that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger —who accompanied him on the trip — negotiated between Israel and Egypt and between Israel and Syria, Nixon said:

"A beginning has been made toward a different relation and a better relation between the nations in that area. We have been proud to play a part in that beginning."

His trip, the President said, will "provide an opportunity to reaffirm our support for these initiatives that have been undertaken, to explore ways that we can have new and better relations between the United States and each nation in the area ... and also explore ways in which those nations in the area may have better relations with each other and build toward the permanent and lasting and just and equitable peace that all of them, we know, want and certainly that we want."

Before heading for Cairo on Wednesday, the President and his party will stop off for two nights in the Austrian city of Salzburg. This will give him time to get accustomed to the so-called jet lag. There is a seven-hour time differential between Washington and the Middle East stops on his schedule.

He flies to the Egyptian capital for a lavish welcome Wednesday morning following a three-hour, 45-minute flight from Salzburg. From Cairo, he will go, in order, to Jiddah, Saudi Arabia; Damascus, Syria; Tel Aviv, Israel, and Amman, Jordan, before returning to Washington —after an overnight stop in the Azores —a week from Wednesday.

Egyptians hang out American flags, preparing massive security for Nixon

CAIRO (UPI) — For the first time in a decade Egypt hung American flags in the streets today in salute to President Nixon's visit this week.

The Stars and Stripes the size of baby blankets waved in light breeze on poles on the road from Cairo to the Pyramids and the Sphinx.

Not since before the 1967 Arab-Israeli war had the U.S. emblem decked Cairo streets. Then it was for American businessmen taking part in a fair. Today they hung out flags for a man the Egyptians see as a creator of current peace progress and a maker of more peace tomorrow.

"We Egyptians are a grateful people. We wear our gratitude with pride, and with joy," said Ali Amin, editor of the newspaper Al Akhbar and a confidant of President Anwar Sadat, Nixon's host Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

"President Nixon will enjoy himself," Amin told UPI.

Sadat mustered more than flags.

Intelligence sources said 30,000 uniformed and plainclothes officers have been organized to guard Nixon in Cairo, in Alexandria, on the Mediterranean and at the Pyramids.

At dawn today Sadat sent platoons of army explosives experts down the 132 mile railway track he will ride with Nixon Thursday from Cairo to Alexandria. U.S. secret servicemen hovered overhead in a helicopter, monitoring the security check.

Security men watched the Nile Hilton hotel hand out white notices to guests, asking them to clear out. The White House asked for all eight floors of rooms.

Next door, at Arab League headquarters, Arabs who do not share Sadat's warmth for the Nixon-Henry A. Kissinger peacemaking left town. The Palestine National Council, the "parliament" of the Palestinians fighting to regain the homes they left in the 1948 Arab-Israeli war, Sunday issued a final vow to fight and fight and fight. And then, watched by security men, they went to the airport.

Russ, Portugal will exchange diplomats

LISBON (UPI) — Portugal and the Soviet Union established diplomatic relations effective immediately Sunday and agreed to exchange ambassadors, both governments said in a joint communique released simultaneously in Lisbon and Moscow.

The communique said both countries "agree to cooperate in observance of the principles of the United Nations charter and both are convinced this will promote security and cooperation in Europe and all the world."

The communique did not say where or when the agreement was reached, but diplomatic sources said a Russian trade mission which visited Lisbon last week probably paved the way for the agreement.

Having impact on health care

State officials press for quick settlement of nurses' strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — State officials said today a three-day-old strike by 4,000 nurses was having a severe impact on health care in the Bay Area and called for the parties to get together promptly to settle it.

Ralph F. Duncan, head of the state Conciliation Service, requested the parties to meet with him Tuesday. It will be the first meeting since the walkout began last Friday morning against more than 40 major hospitals and clinics in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The hospitals have been operating on an emergency basis and were discharging all noncritically ill patients during the weekend.

California Nurses Association spokesman Burton White said nurses were being provided for intensive care and emergency patients.

However, a spokesman for the Affiliated Hospitals of San Francisco, one of the three hospital groups affected, said there were "some difficulties" in deciding how many nurses were needed for such patients.

"The impact of the nurses' strike on hospital patients and the public is severe enough that all concerned, including the state Conciliation Service, are obliged to exert every effort to resolve it," Duncan said in a telegram to the parties setting up new talks.

The hospitals discharged about one-third of the patients who had been admitted for noncritical treatment. Elective surgery was postponed until the nurses returned to work.

The nurses are seeking a $60 a month pay increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1974. If granted, top pay would be $1,095 a month. They also asked for another $30 increase to be effective July 1.

A hospital spokesman said the pay package had been agreed to during earlier negotiations, but problems existed over distribution of the money, a pension plan, a request for every other weekend off, and workload changes.

The nurses currently receive off every third weekend, with an extra payment if they must work.

Nurses are also asking for increased staffing of intensive care and nursery units.

One striker at Children's Medical Center in Oakland said: "They make assignments on a head count. We are actually there with the children, and we can see if they need extra care, even if it's just tender loving care. These kids really need a little more time."

Another said, "We don't want to be out here picketing. We'd much rather be inside caring for those kids. But there are bad situations that have to be corrected."

Austrian police poised to prevent demonstrations

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI) — Austrian police reinforcements massed in this "Sound of Music" city today to prevent a repetition of demonstrations that bloodied President Nixon's last visit here.

The President was flying in late tonight from Washington for 34 hours of rest and relaxation in a country castle to shake off "jet lag" before going on to his five-nation Middle East tour Wednesday.

Police officials said they expected one or two small demonstrations by Trotskyite and Maoist student groups, but nothing like the mass anti-war march on May 20, 1972, that ended in a battle at the airport on the night Nixon arrived.

Nevertheless, 1,500 police — some sent from Vienna and other Austrian cities —stood ready to protect Nixon at the airport and at Schloss Klesheim, the 18th century castle where he and his wife will stay.

On that earlier visit, Nixon was on his way to his first Moscow summit. He stopped over two days in Salzburg for the same quiet rest in a neutral country, but ran into 2,500 shouting, fighting demonstrators.

The Vietnam war was still on and an antiwar march through Salzburg —the home of Mozart and the place where "The Sound of Music" was filmed — quickly turned violent when the marchers pushed on toward the airport for Nixon's arrival.

Police tried to stop them but 500 broke through and clambered over highways and fields to the airport, where they battled police less than an hour before Nixon's arrival. At least 25 persons, including two policemen, were hurt.

Peter Kreisky, son of Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky who is Nixon's official host here, was a leader of the demonstrations. This year, young Kreisky said he did not know whether he would even bother to come.

Socialist student groups decided to stay home today, leaving the field to two fringe groups —the Marxist Revolutionary Group and the Marxist Student Union.

FMC workers defy court order, continue to strike

POMONA — Workers ignored a court injunction today and continued their "wildcat" strike against FMC Wayne sweeper plant in their protest against working conditions and alleged losses in profit sharing.

The workers reported more than half and the company reported fewer than half of the employes were staying off their jobs today. The strike began Thursday.

Since the strike is not authorized by the International Machinists Union, to which the workers belong, those who continue the walkout can be fired on the spot, the company maintained.

A company spokesman said the firm was "encouraged" today by increasing attendance on the job. He said this morning's shift was operating normally despite continued picketing.

Julian Arellano, a spokesman for the workers, said his group would continue to defy the court order, because the company was "not living up to the terms of its contract."

He said the walkout was triggered by the suspension of three men Wednesday night. He claimed the suspensions were illegal in that the three were not allowed representation by the union before they were taken off their jobs.

Arellano said the wildcat strike would continue until "someone big talks to us." By "someone big," he said he meant an official of the parent company.

He said that in addition to the current dispute, the workers also wanted a cost of living increase, an improvement of on-the-job safety conditions and a review of profit sharing practices.

He emphasized the the strike was not authorized by the union. Officials of the IAM sent the striking workers separate letters Friday advising them that the strike was illegal and urging them to go back to work.

Drug seized, 4 men arrested in Montclair

MONTCLAIR — San Bernardino County Narcotics Task Force officers and Montclair police seized nearly one-hlaf pound of halluncainogenic drug and arrested four men Saturday on the north side of the Montclair Plaza, according to a task force spokesman.

The seizure and arrests were the result of a month-long investigation in the alleged sales of the halluncinogenic drug Phencyclidine (PCP), nicknamed "angel dust."

According to the task force spokesman undercover officers purchased about a half, pound of the "angel dust" at a wholesale price of $1,000 in the Montclair Plaza parking lot.

The pair were charged with suspicion of sales of PCP and carrying a concealed weapon. Also arrested and charged with sales of PCP were Russell Jones of Fontana, and Michael Barksdale, 21, of 1272 Palomreas Ave., Pomona.

Task force officers said they will seek forml camoplaints against the men through the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office.

Five instructors will be involved in the program, teaching the basic swim lesson plan put out by the national YMCA.

Weekend accidents injure 4 on Carbon Canyon Road

CHINO — Four persons were injured, three seriously, in two weekend accidents on Carbon Canyon Road west of here.

On Sunday afternoon, a car driven by Lori Jayne Burner, 15, of Placentia ran off the road on a curve and tumbled down an enbankment east of Ginsing Avenue.

Miss Burner, who was driving on a learners' permit, sustained head and internal injuries. She is said to be in guarded condition in the intensive care unit of Chino General Hospital.

Also in the car was Sergio B. Kingston of Anaheim. He received only minor injuries and was treated and released at the hospital.

Saturday night a car driven by Michael Allen Shepard, 22, of Anaheim, went out of control on sharp turn west of Rosemary Lane and struck a stone wall.

Shepard suffered cuts to the face and neck, while his companion, Debra Ann Clubb, 21, of Buena Park, received bruises and contusions. Both are listed in satisfactory condition at Chino General Hospital.

Highway Patrol officers said that Shepard is being charged with drunken driving.

Fire crackles --with bullets

POMONA — A garage and contents were damaged Sunday at 1066 E. Alvarado St. in a blze caused by a short circuit in wiring.

The loss included a quantity of 38 caliber bullets which were stored there, and which, according to firemen, "kept popping away causing small explosions," during the fire.

Loss to the garage and its contents was estimated by the fire department at $2,000.

Firemen said the short was in a fence charger located in the garage. The equipment was used to keep dogs in the yard.

The home is owned by Donald Shupe.

Pomona liquor store robbed

POMONA — A lone bandit, gesturing as if he had a gun in his pocket, took cash Sunday night at the Jug and Jigger liquor store, 1571 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

An employe, George A. Misso, 25, said he was placing money in the safe when the man walked up behind him and demanded the cash. Misso said he surrendered the cash, which was in a cloth bank money sack. Included in the loot were two $100 bills.

The robber was described as a tall Negro man wearing gray trousers and black tennis shoes. Misso said the bandit forced him to remain under a counter while he fled out the front door.

Changes in North Pomona school boundaries to end optional areas

POMONA — Pomona school board members will be asked to approve some boundary changes to eliminate optional attendance areas in North Pomona when they meet Tuesday.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Education Center. It will be open to the public.

Sidney Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, said that for several years optional attendance boundaries have created situations where students could attend either Arroyo or Roosevelt elementary schools, Lincoln or Roosevelt elementary schools, Palomares or Marshall junior high schools and Pomona or Ganesha high schools.

Most families living in optional areas opted to send their children to Roosevelt, Palomares and Pomona, Moses said.

New boundaries will be proposed which clearly define which school children in previously optional areas should attend.

"In all cases," said Moses, "parents of children presently attending any of the schools will be given the option to continue at their present school or attend the school in the new proposed attendance boundary.

"Parents who choose to continue to send children to their present schools rather than the new schools will be required to obtain intradistrict transfers.

"As new families move into these areas, students will be enrolled in the school designated for that area."

Boundaries will be explained and maps displayed at the meeting.

Board members will be asked by Moses to approve a pilot summer school counseling program for junior high and high school pupils effective this summer.

Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz will recommend that a special board meeting be held July 2, for the purpose of reorganizing the board. Currently Dr. James Bell is board president.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, will tell the board that the tentative budget for 1974-75 will be presented June 28, not Tuesday as previously planned.

Nichols said that the defeat of Proposition T on the June 4 ballot "makes a meaningful revision of the budget impossible at this time."

Nichols presented a $24.7 million balanced budget for next year at the May 14, board meeting. However, it contains no funds for cost-of-living salary increases for employes.

The district's Proposition T was a tax override which would have brought in an estimated $1.5 million. Employes, other than administrators, are asking 16 per cent pay hikes. Administrators are requesting unspecified cost-of-living raises, plus 2 per cent.

Three students arrested over Claremont vandalism

CLAREMONT — Police today are continuing an investigation into a vandalism problem at Claremont High School, following the arrest of three students over the weekend.

Continuing controversy over the "wall" separating the school and Cahuilla Park erupted into a disturbance Friday afternoon, ending in an egg-throwing incident.

Officers booked three students, 15 and 16, for disturbing the peace and interfering with police. John Botkin, school proctor, was slightly injured when he was hit in the head by an egg, thrown by a student.

Police arrived on campus about 2 p.m. and witnessed students throwing eggs from the "wall" at cars and faculty members. Many of the students dispersed when ordered to, but several stayed around and continued to throw eggs.

Police Sgt. Bob Nichol said about 65 to 70 students were "hanging around" at the wall but only a handful were involved in the disturbance when officers arrived.

One student was arrested after throwing the egg at Botkin, and two others were booked for interfering with officers.

There was damage to a school truck when a rock was thrown through its windshield, but no other damage at the school was reported by officers.

Five teens arrested after shooting incident in L.V.

LA VERNE — Five teen-age youths were arrested late Saturday night in connection with shots that were fired into the side of another youth's car here.

The shooting occurred in the 3800 block of Fruit Street. The driver Peter Perez, 16, San Dimas, said he and his passengers, Raymond Lopez, 15, and Ronald Acosta, 13, both of La Verne, were followed by youths in another car. Without provocation, Perez said, the other car passed them and one of its occupants fired two shots. The bullets, .22 caliber, struck a couple of inches below the window frame. None one was hurt.

About two hours later police arrested Richard Anthony Cuevas, 19, Chino, and four juvenile boys, three from Pomona and one from Montclair. Police said they were stopped because of a description of the car in the shooting.

There were several other incidents of shots being fired within the city limits that night, but police said they were not sure they were related to the one involving Perez' car.

Answer in letter revealed after departure

Nixon again refuses to comply with subpoena

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon refused again today to comply with a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 45 White House tapes and documents, saying there would be no end to the impeachment panel's request "unless a line were drawn somewhere."

He added: "Since it is clear the committee will not draw such a line, I have done so."

The President's response to the subpoena, issued May 30 on a 37-1 vote by the committee, had been expected in view of Nixon's statement May 22—in turning down an earlier subpoena—that he would not comply with any further demands.

Nixon's reply, in a letter to Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., was made known at the White House shortly after the President departed on his Middle East trip and just after the 10 a.m. deadline set by the committee for surrender of the materils.

In his letter to Rodino, Nixon maintained the committee would be wrong to draw any inferences from his actions and he was merely exercising his proper powers by claiming executive privilege in refusing to turn over subpoenaed materials.

"From the start of these proceedings, I have tried to cooperate as far as I reasonably could in order to avert a constitutional confrontation," Nixon said.

"But I am determined to do nothing which, by the precedence it set, would render the executive branch henceforth and forever more subserviant to the legislative branch, and would thereby destroy the constitutional balance," Nixon said.

The President previously had refused to turn over 42 tapes subpoenaed by the committee. Instead, he made public on April 30 voluminous White House transcripts of Watergate conversations of 32 of the tapes. Officials said tapes either did not exist for the other conversations subpoenaed or were not available.

Nixon said if he yielded to the committee demands, it would simply lead to further requests for tapes.

"Once embarked on a process of continually demanding additional tapes whenever those the committee already has failed to turn up evidence of guilt, there would be no end unless a line were drawn somewhere by someone," Nixon said.

The subpoena was the committee's fourth and it was issued along with a letter in which committee members warned Nixon that his refusal to comply with the request was "a grave matter" and that they would feel free to draw "adverse inferences" as well ultimately recommend his impeachment as a result.

The subpoena requested materials covering the period from Nov. 15, 1972 to June 4, 1973.

The bulk of the committee's subpoena dealt with recordings of conversations between Nixon and former top aide H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Charles W. Colson, John W. Dean and Gorden Strachan.

Most of the tapes and other material involved also are sought by Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who has successfully argued for a Supreme Court review of the President's policy in resisting subpoenas.

Nixon, in his letter today to Rodino, disputed the committee's claim that he was trying to control the inquiry into his own impeachment and contended that the panel had had "unprecedented cooperation from the White House.

Nixon said the way to resolve "whatever ambiguities the committee may feel still exists is not to pursue the chimera of additional evidence from additinal tapes but rather to call live witnesses who can place the existing evidence in perspective, and subject them to cross-examination under oath."

The committee was scheduled to hold closed hearings Tuesday and Wednesday with a new black-bound volume of evidence before each member, this one dealing with the 1971 burglary by White House "plumbers" at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Last week, former presidential aide Charles W. Colson pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice in connection with alleged efforts to smear Ellsberg while he was on trial for releasing the Pentagon Papers. The Judiciary committee assigned staff investigators to interview Colson, presumably this week, as a potential witness before the panel.

The White House has said the "plumbers" investigative unit was assigned to gather information on Ellsberg in the interest of national security. Colson, in making his plea, said the objective was to discredit Ellsberg politically.

A smiliar question of motive arose from the panel's initial review of the White House spying issue last week, when the investigation focused on wiretaps of 17 administration officials and newsmen.

Nixon has said he authorized the taps to combat the leaking of classiifed information, including the Pentagon Papers. But many Democratic and some Republican committee members have said the evidence suggests the taps were meant for illegal spying on political enemies.

Thursday, the committee may hold a long-deferred public session with the issue of a fifth subpoena for presidential tapes at the top of the agenda. The President has ignored four previous committee subpoenas, and has been twice remprimanded by letter for ignoring them.

French president fires minister over nuclear atmospheric testing

PARIS (UPI) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing told his cabinet today he fired a newly-appointed minister because his criticism of France's nuclear tests in the atmosphere was "inexact."

The president, embroiled in an front-paged government crisis a scant two weeks after he took office, dismissed Minister of Reform Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber late Sunday.

Servan-Schreiber, owner of the news weekly magazine l'Express, said at a news conference Sunday he opposed the decision of the president to resume atmospheric tests this summer despite Giscard d'Estaing's promise that after 1974 the explosions would be set off underground.

After the cabinet meeting, Minister of Interior Michel Poniatowski told reporters the president had termed Servan-Schreiber "inexact" when he charged that the Defense Ministry resumed the tests without consulting the rest of the government.

Poniatowski quoted the president as saying the decision to set off more explosions in the air over Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific had been taken by the president himself as chief of the armed forces.

Giscard d'Estaing also informed the cabinet he had cancelled one of this summer's planned explosions, the spokesman told reporters.

The president did not say how many explosions would be set off.

Radio commentators said the new president was trying to keep to a minimum any objections from other countries on the tests.

The spokesman said the ministers at the cabinet meeting agreed to propose a new law to lower the voting age in France to 18, fulfilling a campaign promise by Giscard d'Estaing.

Servan-Schreiber long had been a critic of the test blasts before becoming a minister two weeks ago in an effort by the president to to bring members of the reformers movement into his government.

Defense Minister Jacques Soufflet, also criticized by Servan-Schreiber, was expected to reaffirm the government's hydrogen bomb testing policy during the cabinet meeting.

New Zealand and Australia took their protests against the French tests to the International Court of Justice in The Hague but France disputed the court's jurisdiction in what it called its own national security affairs.

Servan-Schreiber denounced a presidential declaration Saturday that France would continue open-air testing this summer and change to underground blasts next year.

As columnist for the news magazine l'Express and as a Radical party deputy, Servan-Schreiber castigated H-bomb testing last year. He led an expedition into the waters near Mururoa atoll, where the tests take place, in sign of protest.

"This was my position last year," he said Sunday, "and it remains my position now with just as much conviction."

German chancellor suffers another electoral setback

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and his Social Democratic party suffered their fourth electoral setback in three months in a cliff-hanging state election decided only at dawn today.

Final official returns from the legislative election in Lower Saxony showed the opposition Christian Democrats had gained three percentage points to win the greatest number of votes, but Schmidt's Social Democrats still held a one-man majority in the state legislature in coalition with the Free Democrats.

Official results of Sunday's balloting were known only at dawn because of an election day computer breakdown on election day.

They gave the Christian Democratic Union 48.9 per cent of the vote and 77 seats; the Social Democrats 43 per cent and 67 seats, and the Free Democrats 7.1 per cent and 11 seats.

Schmidt's party lost more than three percentage points, confirming a downhill trend that began in the Hamburg state elections last March and continued through two more rounds of municipal polling.

Former Chancellor Willy Brandt, who resigned in Schmidt's favor in the wake of a spy scandal three weeks ago, said the lower Saxony election indicated his Social Democratic party was now beginning to "climb out of the cellar of the Hamburg election."

"I think we have stabilized ourselves in the voter's favor," Brandt said. Both Schmidt and Brandt, who continues as party chairman, campaigned in the state for several days, as did national Christian Democrat leaders.

But Helmut Kohl, chairman of the Christian Democratic Union, said his party had polled more than any other single political group in Lower Saxony since World War II.

Social Democratic leaders who put Schmidt in office thought the peppery Hamburg politician would stop the voter erosion that began under what they considered Brandt's recent weak leadership.

But three weeks proved too short a time for Schmidt to demonstrate his talent. The Bavarian and Hessen state elections on October 27 should be a better test of his administration.

Mandatory voting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ralph Nader believes it should be made mandatory to vote in elections.

Only 49 per cent of the voters turned out last Tuesday for the California primary, the consumer advocate noted in a panel discussion at a conference on urban environment Saturday.

He said a compulsory voting law would eliminate the time and energy spent in registering voters, prevent politicians from "pandering" to certain blocs of voters, and also prevent what he called government obstructions to voting, especially for poor people.

Nader stressed that under his plan, citizens would have the right to "vote to abstain" from selecting any candidate and also could write in candidates.

Could wed comoner

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles says his future wife could be a commoner but probably won't be.

The heir to the British throne was asked in an interview published Sunday whether he might marry a girl who was neither an aristocrat nor a member of a royal family.

"There's no essential reason why I shouldn't," the 25-year-old prince said. "I'd be perfectly free to."

But Charles, who has been linked romantically with several young women —all bluebloods —indicated he thought it unlikely he would wed a commoner.

"A woman not only marries a man," he said. "She marries into a way of life, into a job, into a life in which she has a contribution to make.

"She's got to have some knowledge of it, some sense of it, or she wouldn't have a clue about whether she's going to like it, and if she didn't have a clue, it would be risky for her, wouldn't it?"

Four violations found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday he has found evidence in recent Pentagon testimony to Congress of four direct U.S. violations of the Vietnam peace agreement.

Aspin, a frequent critic of the Defense Department, said all four violations involved providing airplanes to the Saigon government that were superior to those it had when the agreement was signed 17 months ago.

END OF AN ERA — With boaters in the foreground and a helicopter above, the 28-year-old Kenilworth Hotel bows out Sunday to the tune of demolition dynamite. It was razed to make way for a condominium.

Former site of Godfrey show razed

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) The old Kenilworth Hote from which Arthur Godfre once said a daily "How a yuh? to 10 million America housewives, is a pile of rubb today.

It was dynamited into ob vion Sunday to make way f still another luxury co dominium apartment co plex.

Explosives experts e ployed by Controlled Demo tion Inc., Baltimore, place charges of Nitro Glycerin throughout the 10-story hot and at 8:30 a.m. Sunday wi a series of sharp poppi sounds, the building collaps into a heap of broken co crete and torn steel.

It will be replaced by 17story condominium wi apartments prices from $115 000 to $300,000.

Demise of the Kenilwor came a half hour behi schedule and two years sho of its 30th birthday. A crow of about 200 persons stood nearby sidewalks to watc the demolition and about 5 others watched from sma boats moored in the area.

Smoke and dust rose in cloud, obscuring the buil ing's collapse, but nearb buildings were unharmed.

The Kenilworth was opene in December, 1946, and Go frey brought the cast of hi daily radio and televisio shows to the hotel for th first of his annual winte sojourns in 1953.

Godfrey ultimately becam a part owner of the hotel an the Arthur Godfrey Show wa broadcast from there eac winter on the Columbi Broadcasting System until th late 1960s.

Impeachment analysis

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has about three dozen possible charges it could level against President Nixon in any bill of impeachment. But only a few of them deal specifically with Watergate.

The main question is how many of the other allegations might constitute grounds for impeachment.

Last week, the accusations concerned Nixon and ITT, Nixon and the milk contribution, Nixon and wiretaps.

Still to come are the Ellsberg break-in, Nixon's income taxes, federal expenditures on San Clemente and Key Biscayne, the use of government agencies to "get" political enemies, and the secret, unauthorized bombing of Cambodia.

Committee members find the answer is evasive as they weigh each allegation against the question: Is this an offense on which impeachment can be justified?

That was the case during the two weeks the committee spent on Watergate in its closed sessions, where counsels John M. Doar and Albert E. Jenner played tapes, read the accumulated evidence from thick, black "fact books" and took note of the evidence the President has refused to provide.

There was no agreement on Nixon's culpability even when members heard the March 21, 1973 tape recording, the most sensitive of all.

In that conversation with John W. Dean III, Nixon — according to those who heard the tape —said, "For Christ's sakes, get it!" when Dean told of E. Howard Hunt's demand for money to maintain his silence. That night, $75,000 passed to Hunt's lawyer.

Some members said they found evidence warranting Nixon's impeachment right there. Others said they wanted more facts, and wanted to hear from Dean and other witnesses before drawing conclusions.

Others said the tape itself showed Nixon had engaged in an obstruction of justice. They said no reasonable person could draw any other conclusion.

And so it goes, too, with evidence concerning non-Watergate matters.

On Thursday, the committee heard evidence on 17 wiretaps undertaken against government officials and newsmen in 1969. Nixon loyalists say the wiretaps were needed to counter news leaks damaging to national security. Some Democrats on the committee say there were used at least partly to gather political intelligence.

The committee's differences are not merely over what Nixon did or did not do. They are also on what constitutes an impeachable offense.

The Democrats, generally, say it is a gross abuse or misuse of power, a failure, in the words of the Constitution, to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

But the Republicans, generally, argue that to he impeached a president must be proven to have broken a law. Nothing short of that will do, they say.

Finally, the President's supporters and opponents disagree over the degree of proof the committee must come up with.

The Democrats think the standard is the one applied to grand juries: "Probable cause" to believe that an indicted person committed the crime of which he is accused. The Republicans say more is needed. They demand that Nixon's guilt be proven "beyond a reasonable doubt" before an impeachment vote is taken.

And it is these issues —What did Nixon do? Is it impeachable conduct? Is the proof strong enough to sustain a conviction? —that must be thrashed out in the weeks ahead before the committee acts on a bill of impeachment.

OLD HISTORY — An aerial view of the recent excavations in the Piazza della Signoria in Florence shows ruins dating to Roman times in the heart of the city. Little has been known about the history of Florence before the 1200s, but the recent digs are adding light to the early history of the city.

Authorities ponder problem

Avocado thefts rise in San Diego County

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — There's an epidemic of avocado rustling in San Diego County.

Even the American Civil Liberties Union in involved in the controversy over what to do about it.

Last year one of every 10 avocados produced for sale was stolen —$4 million of the $38 million crop —70 per cent of which is grown in San Diego County.

The beauty of the thievery for the rustlers, and the bane of authorities, is that there is no way to mark the thick-skinned fruit.

"Avocados have no identity —they aren't like cars or cows," said sheriff's Capt. Kenneth Deering. "If we stop a person carrying a large amount of avocados there is no way we can identify them, even though we know they are stolen."

More than a million pounds of avocados were stolen in the state last year, said G.L. Clasen, president of the Avocado Growers Bargaining Council in nearby Fallbrook.

"With the laws the way they are now, we just can't get a conviction," he said. "I know of local growers who have lost from one box (25 pounds) up to 1,600 pounds of avocados."

County Supervisor Lee Taylor proposed that an ordinance be drafted to require that any person transporting commercial quantities of the fruit have in his possession documents proving origin and ownership.

As initially contemplated, the ordinance would fix the lower limit of commercial quantities at 40 pounds. It was not known what protection a home gardener or non-commercial grower carrying his own fruit would have.

Enforcement of such an ordinance against criminal acts would place the burden of proof on the prosecution, not the accused, said attorney Mary Harvey of the American Civil Liberties Union. She suggested care should be exercised on considering the proposal to avoid a "Pandora's box of false arrests suits."

Deering saw the ordinance as a lever for law enforcement officers investigating thefts.

"The guys doing the stealing know where to look," Clasen said. "There are some packers who will buy stolen avocados for cash and there's nothing we can do about it."

A Whiplash Injury Can Save Your Life!

By Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

Whiplash neck injuries are among the nation's fastest growing health problems. Why?

The ever increasing number of automobiles rolling onto our congested streets and highways, the mass migration to the suburbs, the increased speed of our freeway systems, power brakes and more powerful engines all contribute to the growing frequency of the type of accident that can result in whiplash neck injuries.

be a blessing in disguise.

But in one sense, they can You see, whiplash is by its very nature a problem for the modern doctor of Chiropractic. He best understands the whiplash injury and is best equipptd to cope with it. Consequently, we see many new faces who visit us because of our reputation in dealing with the whiplash. In our examination and care of these people we often discover that their whiplash is but one of their problems. And proper treatment of the whiplash may well remove what might ultimately cause chronic migraine headaches, extreme nervousness or arthritis, although these problems may not have yet manifested themselves.

Don't misunderstand me, the whiplash is in itself a most serious injury and is often itself tht cause of arthritis, for instance, in time.

This of course means that the whiplash injury can't be left untreated. It will only be that 'blessing in disguise' if the person who sustains the whiplash comes in for a thorough examination and is treated effectively.

Too many people do, in fact, let whiplash injuries go untreated.

A typical misunderstanding of the seriousness which a whiplash could involve, for instance, is a young suburban housewife. Let's say her auto is struck from behind as she is waiting at a traffic light. There is only minor damage to her car and, at the time, no one seems to be hurt. However, later in the day she develops a headache and begins to notice a slight stiffness in her neck.

The next morning she feels a bit worse, but since the headache is just a 'slight, pesky one' and the stiffness is not unbearable she decides in her own mind that 'these things take time'. However, the conditions persist and she becomes nervous and irritable. (A young husband once said . . . 'after our accident my wife changed from a pleasant young wife and mother into an irritable, nagging grouch').

Hopefully, our 'typical case' will decide that her self-recovery is taking too much time and will visit us.

If our preliminary exam reveals the presence of pressure on the nerves in the upper part of the spine and the possible displacement of vertebraes we know that her condition wil respond to the proper effective treatment.

I might add that after the first effective treatment, a whiplash sufferer such as our 'typical case' is virtually assured of a first restful sleep since an accident.

It is indeed apparent that a persons who has had an accident owes it to himself and his family to have an examination to find out for sure. Since every health problem has a cause, it's obvious that the cause must be found before a person will get well. (Note: Dr. Helzer maintains chiropractic offices at 9461 Flower, Bellflower. Abacus still big in Japan

Am surprised to hear the report that four out of five of Japan's business calculations still are done on the abacus . . . Smokey the Bear, like Mickey Mouse, Lassie and Snoopy, is a millionaire . . . One pollster contends more citizens nationwide recognize a picture of Andy Granatelli than of Robert Redford . . .

As many as 10 bank robberies a day were reported this winter in Paris . . . Gambling was outlawed in ancient Egypt on the popular theory thereabouts then that it made men effeminate.

Feminine client asks why the ladies of the liberation movement don't quote the great Aesop who claimed you always should judge a woman by her mind, never by her appearance. Maybe so. Still, our Love and War man says it's exceedingly difficult to ignore somebody's looks, man's or woman's. How Lady Godiva looked when she appeared in public lingers larger in human history than why she so appeared.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "What's a big fat rattlesnake worth, if anything?"

A. Its venom, about $35 per milligram. Its meat, about $4 per pound.

Q. "The so-called 'long dozen,' sometimes called the 'baker's dozen,' is 13. What's a 'long hundred'?"

A. That's 120.

Q. "Where'd we get the word 'potato'?"

A. All I know is the Indians used to call a sweet potato a "batata."

No, saltwater fish are not necessarily saltier than fresh water fish, young lady.

LANGUAGE MAN

Those descending lines on a geological chart look something like the footprints of a crane. Or so an imaginative Frenchman once thought. He identified such a chart as a "pie de grue" meaning "crane foot." Whence cometh, says the Language man, our word "pedigree."

The class ring originated in this country at West Point.

Remember, that gallon of white paint will cover a lot better if you toss a couple of ounces of lamp black into it.

This nationwide firm of private detectives tracks down missing persons. Twenty five years ago, it reports, the ratio of runaway husbands to runaway wives was about 200 to one. Just 15 years ago, it was approximately 100 to one. Today, it's almost but not quite two to one. Surely, still more husbands than wives take off. But you can see from these statistics that more and more wives every year are going over the hill.

Population swells

San Francisco had a population of 450 at the beginning of 1848 as the Gold Rush began. By the end of 1849 the population had swelled to nearly 30,000.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful of your associations today. Otherwise, you'll get caught in the midst of intrigue that you're better off avoiding.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A friend isn't as open and frank with you as she should be about something you're both involved. Watch out!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An alliance that you put considerable faith in is rather flimsy. Rely on yourself more than depending on another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of your indifferent days when you'll only give your tasks limited attention. You'll neglect entirely something important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep a weather eye on your money and other valuable possessions today. Otherwise, you might suffer a loss through carelessness or theft.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It would be very difficult for you to get away with anything unethical. Do everything in accordance with your highest ideals.

June 11, 1974

This year should be devoted to advancing yourself where status and respect in the eyes of others is concerned. Real achievements can be made if you truly try.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) It won't work out to your advantage if you try today to hide something from your loved one. It's best you keep it all out in front.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to make an agreement that you have small intention of keeping just to maintain harmony in a relationship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23) "Don't do today what you can put off until tomorrow" is apt to be your motto. Tomorrow the tasks will seem even more difficult.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll feel deprived and neglected if you don't indulge your slightest whims and fancies today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Situations that revolve around the family are exceptionally confusing and complicated. You'll be a major contributor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You tend to tune in on things more negatively than positively. This gives you a defeatist outlook before you try.

The doctor comments

Face lifts can help, but not that much

By Lawrence E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 56-year-old woman, and I'm very interested in having a face lift. Are there any after effects? Does this type of surgery always turn out perfect? How long does one stay in the hospital? Which season of the year is best, or doesn't it matter whether it is cold or warm weather? And, how can I get a surgeon who is highly skilled in this work?

DEAR READER — There isn't any reason why people should not have a face lift if they want to improve their appearance. This applies to both men and women.

The best reason for wanting a face lift is to help you look better. That, in turn, means it can help your outlook on life, and it often helps people in their careers or work. The only thing I have against them is that they usually cost too much. The operation is really not that difficult.

It is important not to expect too much from a face lift. The change in appearance will not reverse the effects of age on your body. A person will not have a new improved sex life unless the psychic response simply removes old inhibitions or other psychological problems. The confidence may help her or him enjoy life more.

There is quite a bit of difference in the techniques used. Incisions in the hair can pull the hairline back and enlarge the face. The facial appearance is greatly affected by the framing of the face with the natural hairline. Some techniques do very little to disturb the natural hairline. In a woman, the scars can be easily hidden by the hair style. It can be done just as well for men with the current longer hair style.

In general, though, if you are willing to accept some small changes in appearance and don't expect to have a completely youthful face, the results are usually quite good. I am a bit concerned, though, about your description of "perfect."

There is commonly residual swelling of the face, but this is temporary. You can often have the procedure done with just an overnight stay or a day in the hospital. You will need to be available, though, for the doctor to see you regularly, usually for about two weeks. It doesn't make any difference what time of year you have the procedure done.

Ask your doctor for a referral. If you don't want to ask him then call the county medical society and ask them to recommend a good plastic surgeon who specializes in cosmetic surgery. If you live in a small community, you can write the state capital or write to the nearest medical university. Address your letter to the chairman of the department of plastic surgery.

Before surgery you must talk the matter over carefully with the surgeon. Be sure what his technique is and how much it costs. I think this pre-operative consultation is absolutely essential for cosmetic surgery. No good surgeon will operate on you without it. He will want to be sure you are not expecting too much and are really a good candidate for the surgery.

Chaffey alumni set recital at college

ALTA LOMA — Tenor Mathew Scully will present a recital in the Chaffey College Little Theater at 11 a.m. Thursday, accompanied by pianist Dan Light. Both young men are Chaffey College graduates and now music majors at USC.

Admission is free.

Scully teaches choral music and music theory at Chaffey Highh School and is minister of music at the First Presbyterian Church of Upland. His part in the recital will be a preview of his role in a USC concert to complete requirements for the degree.

While at USC, Scully sang in Opera Theater productions of Hans Werrer Henze's "The Bassarids," a West Coast premier, and Janacek's "Jenufa."

At Chaffey College he sang top roles in Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" and Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors." He appeared also as a soloist in many choral programs under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Shannon, head of the music department here.

Light, a 1973 graduate, performed solo recitals at the college and served as rehearsal accompanist for the Chaffey productions of "Man of La Mancha" and "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

At the end of his Chaffey College period, he received the Winifred Bailey Scholarship for a distinguished record in the arts, along with a state tuition scholarship.

The artists will present two song cycles, Robert Schumann's "Dichterliebe" ("Poet's Love"), created in 1840, and contemporary British composer Benjamin Britten's "On This Island."

Rattles & straws

Little wonder roses blush!

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

I am no more squeamish than the next man (who happens to be VERY squeamish) but I wish these rose growers would soft petal the sex in their press releases.

A rose by any other name, as Shakespeare wrote, is just a lousy flower, but rose breeders (see what I mean?) write up their germinations in prose as livid as "Lady Chatterley's Lover." Browsing recently through a folder from my friendly manure merchant, I came across an erotic account of how roses came to be, and I have been keeping a watchful eye on my garden ever since. I blushed like a rose.

I'm no prude, but all this chatter about planned genetics, cross-pollination and such—how does it all get by the Postal Service?

How does it work, anyway, this cross-pollination? (If it can be discussed in a family newspaper.) Do you plant two roses side-by-side and hope for issue?

Perhaps you drape a little curtain around the two lovers, turn down the lights, and pipe seductive music into the fiber bed. But what if they don't get on together? She's armed with those sharp thorns, bud—better not try any funny stuff.

Some of the, hem, matings in the ancestral bush make spicy reading, if you are one of those who turns to rose pollination charts for his kicks.

Dame Edith Helen and Sensation begat Rome Glory; Admiral Ward and Lemanis begat Congo; and Congo and Rome Glory begat Unnamed Seedling (isn't that the saddest thing?).

Unnamed Seedling, who are you, mysterious stranger, father and grandfather of champions? Just some gay Lothario who blew into the garden when no one was looking and took advantage of Mlle. Van de Voorde while the gardener was napping?

Rose lineage is a ripping study. What went on, for example, between President Hoover and Sister Therese? What did Baby Chateau see in Rosa Roxburghi? Is it true what we hear about Robin Hood and Mrs. Sam McGredy?

There is drama here, the stuff of great literature. And the movies that could be made! "I was a Teen-age Grandiflora," "Son of Crimson Glory," "Floribunda's Last Tango," "Love With a Proper Hybrid Tea."

If they keep on in this inflamatory style, the rose breeders will soon have to mail their catalogues in a plain wrapper.

Palestinian problem still clouds Mideast

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The heavy blanket of security thrown around Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger during his visits to Damascus and the similar treatment to be given President Nixon in his upcoming visit there provide grim evidence of the central and as yet untouched problem blocking the way to Mideast peace.

That problem is the future of the Palestinians, and in Damascus the fear was a Palestinian attempt against Kissinger's life in an attempt to block his peace efforts.

Another bit of grim evidence concerning the same problem is provided in Khartoum, in the Sudanese trial of eight Palestinian terrorists who have confessed the slaying of U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel Jr., and two other diplomats last year, but have entered a plea of innocent.

Rounding out a picture of uncertainty and frustration is the meeting in Cairo of Palestinians seeking to determine the part, if any, they will play in Mideast peace negotiations in Geneva.

Under the general umbrella of the Palestine Liberation organization, Palestinian guerrillas operate in five groups. They are Al Fatah, the largest, headed by Yassir Arafat, who also is chairman of the Palestine Liberation organization; Saiqa, which is under Syrian influence and is headed by Zuhair Mohsin; the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, headed by Nayef Hawatmeh; the Arab Liberation Front, which is backed by Iraq and is headed by Abdel Kayyali; and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine headed by George Habash, a Marxist.

The first three are considered moderate, although it was the group headed by Hawatmeh which took responsibility for the slaughter of Israeli school children at Maalot on May 15.

The moderates are said to favor joining the negotiations at Geneva provided the conference recognizes "legitimate" Palestine rights.

The last two have made known they will reject any attempt at accommodation.

Differences between moderate and radical elements have led to several shootouts among thmselves.

Terrorists have been described as intellectual radicals who turn to violence because they are political losers.

As the possibilities of peace improve, their cause becomes the more desperate.

Syria, for example, is said to have given assurances to Kissinger that it will do its best to prevent guerrilla action against Israel from across the Golan Heights.

Barred from Jordan, the guerrillas' main access to Israel then becomes hapless Lebanon, which currently houses 300,000 Palestinian refugees.

Since Israel already has announced it will strike back sharply against any guerrilla attack from Lebanon, the possibilities of disaster for Lebanon become very real, including possible overthrow of its evenly balanced Moslem Christian government.

An alternative to guerrilla blows from Lebanon is a revival of that undeclared war which a year ago threatened to become worldwide as Arab members of the Black September movement sought to sow death and destruction among Israeli targets wherever they found them, and the Israelis sought to retaliate.

Obviously a solution must be found, and obviously it must be found with Arab help. So far no Arab nation ever has punished any terrorist action.

The outcome of the trial in Khartoum may provide the outline of the future.

Know Your P's and Q's about Plate Collecting?

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and another selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 145X Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by June 22, 1974.

New state law

Knife, razor barred on school campuses

After July 1 it will be against the law to carry a knife or razor onto the grounds of any public school in California.

The new law, recently passed by the legislature and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, is an attempt to combat the increasing incidence of school violence.

The law makes it a misdemeanor to carry a knife, dagger, folding knife or straight-edge razor onto any public school property, from kindergarten through high school. It also will enable school employes to confiscate such knives.

Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Busch said he is hopeful the bill will reduce violence in schools. He noted that it already is against the law to possess a firearm on school property.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The action of the stock market during the week was the most favorable in weeks," according to A.W. Zelomek Associates. A nominal decline in the prime rate by a major Midwestern bank turned the market around, the firm continues, although volume still is lagging. "Excellent values are available and certainly warrant retention, especially prime securities," it adds.

"The new emphasis on credit quality has had the dual effect of limiting the growth in bank liabilities, notably CD's, and increasing the banking community's scrutiny of the corporate borrower's eroding liquidity position," says Lionel D. Edie & Co. Even though credit demands are high in spite of soaring interest rates, banks are more reluctant to float loans. "The move to quality consciousness on the part of lenders should effectively cool the fever of credit expansion," it concludes.

Inflation probably will recede to an annual rate range of 5 to 7 per cent for the 1974-1975 period, says Chase Manhattan Bask. "April was encouraging," the bank continues, "but May is likely to be terrible, at least for nonfood products, because of the bunching of price increases following the end of controls on April 30." It says the picture should remain glum through June, and then inflation will begin to taper off.

*Los Angeles, California, January 31, 1974, 2:30PM— In a filmed demonstration of strength, technicians position the door lock from a Mercedes-Benz 450SE Sedan as the only link between the 4000-pound automobile and a lifting device. The lock, weighing little more than two pounds, lifts the car, weighing more than two tons, for the first of more than fifteen times. There was no sign of fatigue.

A Mercedes-Benz door lock proves a point about automotive safety with a daring television demonstration.*

Strength. That's what you're seeing. In an automobile, strength can be critical to safety. That's why the Mercedes-Benz engineers designed the unique, patented safety cone door locks found in every Mercedes-Benz.

The entire weight of this 450SE Sedan—more than 2 tons—is being suspended by one of its door locks.

This automobile was lifted over fifteen times in the course of producing a television commercial. The lock showed no signs of failure. That's strength—and engineering.

And it's only a part of our safety story. Come in. Test drive the car engineered like no other car in the world. The Mercedes-Benz 450SE.

Guinea pig and rat wouldn't get along

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I think my guinea pig, Slovenly, is lonesome sometimes. My sister just got a new (for her) rat, Lydia. Do you think it would a good idea to put Lydia and Solovenly together? —D.T.

Dear D.T.: No, they probably wouldn't get along. You could put their cages fairly close to each other to make life perhaps a little more interesting for Slovenly without the danger of an actual conflict.

DEAR DR. MILLER: In starting in to teach a puppy, in training him, that is, how do you keep him from getting bored? —A.L.

Dear A.L.: When working with your pup, never repeat an exercise to the point of boredom. Five times would be the maximum, otherwise he will become tired or bored, thus contributing to an unpleasant association with training. Also, after each lesson series it helps to have a short play period, (for instance with a ball.) The play period should mainly be fun, though if it's enjoyable and the pup learning something too, that's bonus.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When a hawk has the "croaks", does that mean he's going to die? —J.E.

Dear J.E.: It's a possibility but not a certainty. "Croaks" referes to a respiratory disease in hawks characterized by noisy breathing. With proper care and treatment—especially early treatment — many affected birds may make it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Corky, my cocker, gets medication all the time for his bad eye. A condition called glaucoma. Besides Corky, I worry about Jiggers, my cat. Could he get it? —F.W.

Dear F.W.: Jiggers could bet glaucoma, but he's not likely to for two reasons: One, it's not a contagious disease and two glaucoma is rare in cats compared to dogs, and particularly when compared to the cocker (which has a higher than average incidence of glaucoma compared with other canines.)

Neither works in IMP game

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "In match-point duplicate there is a tendency to prefer three notrump to a minor-suit game contract. The idea is that three notrump making four counts more than five clubs making five or six."

Jim: "There is a corollary theory that if you do get to five clubs or five diamonds you might as well go on to six in order to bet notrump game bidders."

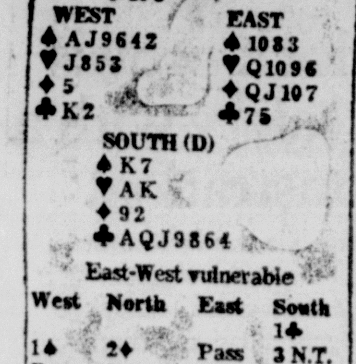
Oswald: "Here is a hand from a recent IMP team match that shows why this should not apply to IMP contests. The bidding in the box shows the bidding at table one. West opened the six of spades and South gave the hand the best possible play. He went up with dummy's queen of spades, led the ten of clubs and played his queen. West took the trick with the king, thought a while, decided his only chance to get a profit would be to lay down the ace of spades. He caught South's king and wound up setting declarrer two tricks."

Jim: "I suppose the other table got out of the notrump trap, but went to six clubs."

Oswald: "They sure did. Furthermore, West doubled and set them one trick to cause a tie board."

Almanac



The "Dust Bowl" farms of the Great Plains suffered severely in the 1930s when wind erosion carried billions of tons of rich topsoil to the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts. This ecological tragedy was caused by unplanned removal of the natural grass by plowing and overgrazing, destruction of forests and the worst drought conditions in the nation's history, The World Almanac recalls.

Kissinger to meet with German aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet with West German Foreign Minister Hans D. Genscher Tuesday near the German-Austrian border for discussions of common interest, the State Department has announced.

Kissinger will meet with Genscher during a stopover in Salzburg with President Nixon on their way to the Middle East next week. An earlier meeting was postponed because of the length of Kissinger's last trip to Israel and Syria.

Administration concedes: inflation is major villain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With plenty of hoopla, inflation has been designated No. 1 on the administration's list of economic enemies.

President Nixon, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and others have consecrated the soaring cost of living as the arch villain of the season.

Most Americans will applaud the choice.

Even in the midst of a political scandal of historic proportions, polls continue to show the average citizen more concerned about the size of his paycheck than the stability of his government.

But it is interesting to note that inflation only recently received official top billing as the nation's chief economic worry. Just five months ago, the administration was trumpeting recession and excessive unemployment as the curse to be avoided at all costs.

In fact, Nixon's fiscal lieutenants were pledging to drive the fiscal 1975 budget beyond the projected $9.4 billion deficit level, if necessary, to fulfill the chief executive's State-Of-The-Union promise that "There will be no recession in the United States of America."

The latest policy flip-flop reflects the administration's changing view of the economic situation. In brief, Nixon's advisers think the current economic slump has bottomed out, or nearly so, and that it's too late to improve the situation with more federal spending.

Injecting extra government money into the economic bloodstream would actually have the opposite effect, they argue, increasing an already virulent inflationary fever.

Budget Director Roy L. Ash says the decision to shift the emphasis from unemployment to inflation is "very consistent." The depressed automobile and housing industries have suffered big layoffs but the overall jobless rate has stabilized for the moment around 5 per cent, far below the dire 8 per cent predictions of a few pessimistic forecasters.

This has meant a saving of billions of budget dollars in unemployment compensation and emergency benefits that the government was prepared to spend.

Ash calls it "the fire engine you didn't have to take out to the fire."

But on the opposite front, inflation is flaring almost out of control. Between January and March, consumer prices rose at an astronomical 12.1 per cent and Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers has grudgingly revised its 1974 inflation outlook up to 7 per cent by the end of the year.

"We now see...that the real fire and the real issue is inflation and the expectation of inflation, which requires a completely different kind of revenue," says Ash.

Hence, the administration's new emphasis on budget cutting where possible and its continued opposition to boosting consumer spending by means of a tax cut.

The anti-inflation campaign has obvious partisan overtones, too. Inflation touches everyone and thus is a hotter political potato than even a 1 per cent jump in the jobless rate that directly affects less than 1 million workers and their families.

"Times have changed," Ash says. "So it seems to me the right thing to do is to change the response. Who knows what things will be six months or nine months or 12 months from now?

"Hopefully we can be in front of those and act on those as well."

The reasons why

Low-cost compacts gone forever

DETROIT (UPI) — Like the 5-cent cigar and the 30-cent gallon of gasoline, an American-built car with a price tag below $2,500 soon will be nothing more than a fond memory.

It hasn't been too long since U.S. automakers were touting their below-$2,000 subcompacts and there still are dealers who remember their astonishment when they put a full-size 1950 Chevrolet out the door at more than $2,000. That was with all the options.

The lowest priced U.S. car now is the subcompact AMC Gremlin with a base price of $2,481. Add on the tax and even the smallest option and the price tag is above $2,500.

And you can bet the same car will cost at least $200 more when the 1975 model is introduced in October or November.

Only four years ago —on April 1, 1970 — AMC introduced the Gremlin and priced it at $1,999. Last summer, the car carried a tag of $2,098 and now is $482 more than it was when it first came on the market.

Ford's subcompact Pinto has gone up $563 from its original $1,919 price to its present $2,482. The Chevrolet Vega, which boasted a $2,091 sticker when it was introduced in 1970, now costs $2,504.90.

Unlike the small cars of the early 1960s that increased in size as well as price, today's small cars have remained virtually unchanged since they were introduced four and five years ago. But these cars have changed internally. Increased government safety and emission control equipment is adding costs to the car which are being paid for by the consumer.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of the company that bears his name, estimates that safety, damageability and emission standards have added about $400 to the price of the average car and will add another 700 in the next few years.

"The total direct cost of these regulations to the consumer would then be nearly $1,200 per car —which amounts to $12 billion or more per year out of the pockets of the American consumer," says Ford. "These numbers suggest that a bit more common sense in government regulation of the automobile is an essential part of the struggle against runaway inflation."

Infationary pressures get a good share of the blame for pushing up prices. Between Aug. 1, 1973, and April 30 of this year, Chrysler Corp. estimated increases in materials, component costs and labor totaled $307 per vehicle.

After handing out that estimate, Chrysler in rapid succession announced two price hikes averaging $168 per car and truck.

"The drastic cost increases we are witnessing are in large part the result of shortages which have been intensified by a prolonged period of government price controls," Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend said. "These controls on the one hand have discouraged production and on the other have diverted goods to more favorable free markets in other parts of the world.

"In our judgment, a return to a free market economy will in the long run correct many of these imbalances and slow the inflationary spiral."

Capacity to expand, no price hike

La Verne hits jackpot by buying two water firms

LA VERNE — A lot of hard, drag-out negotiations during the past two years will pay off for this community with considerably more water capacity than originally figured.

Next year, when an expansion project is completed, the city is going to wind up with a larger storage distribution system and despite the spiraling inflation, the price is not going up.

The two-pronged payoff was made possible by the acquisition of two small water companies in the La Verne area as part of the expansion program.

Instead of constructing a new one-million-gallon reservoir north of Golden Hills Road as originally proposed, the city has bought the La Verne Water Association and its three-million gallon reservoir for $200,000, and the La Verne Plateaus Mutual Water Co. and its two-million gallon reservoir for $226,000.

City Manager George Caswell said it would cost "at least double, probably triple that money" to build comparable new reservoirs.

With those two reservoirs and the two three-million gallon reservoirs the city is now completing the capacity of the city's water system will go beyond 12 million gallons.

The last of the $2½-million bond issue, which voters approved 8-1 four years ago, is about to be sold to finish the project. Bids will be opened at 4 p.m. July 1 at the city hall to sell $750,000 worth of bonds to the institution that offers the lowest rate of interest.

Caswell said the 12-million-gallon capacity will ensure residents of adequate water supply for the foreseeable future.

Caswell is now breathing a sigh of relief as the end moves into sight. But it was a tough road.

Both water companies had held off on the city's first offers in an attempt to protect their shareholders. And while negotiations for the purchase of the La Verne Water Association were concluded comparatively quickly, owners of the "Plateaus" held out for most of those two years.

It wasn't until the city took over all the obligations of that company in addition to the $226,000 payment, that the contract was signed. The obligations included a $100,000 reroofing job over the reservoir.

Caswell said the money for that job, as well as for the "domestication" of the La Verne Water Association reservoir so it can be tied to the La Verne City lines, will come from the sale of the last bonds.

$100 rental deposit source of problem

I gave a check for $100 to a landlord more than three months ago as payment for the first month's rent of an apartment which was to be available for occupancy eight days later.

No lease was signed.

The day before the apartment was to be vacant, I phoned the landlord to inform him I could not move in as planned because of sickness in the family.

At that time the landlord said he would refund the entire $100. He added that he had a lot of bills to pay but would get my refund to me as soon as he could.

Since then I have called him twice. Each time he has assured me that I would receive the money. The second time I called him, two months ago, he promised he would get my refund to me within two weeks even if he had to borrow the money.

Since then I have not received any refund or any other communication from the landlord.

As I am going to school now and have bills of my own to pay, will you please help me get my money back? If not, what kind of legal action should I institute?—I.P., Claremont.

Your landlord told us that he rented the apartment to you, turning a dozen others down, and a few days later you said you didn't want it.

He agreed that he had said he would give you back the $100 if he had to borrow it but then, he said, a friend of yours, a man, got tough about it.

"I told him I wouldn't give her a plugged nickel," he told us.

You decided to take the matter to small claims court. We sent you a simplified list of procedure prepared by the California State Department of Consumer Affairs.

The landlord failed to appear in court and you were awarded $117—the month's rent plus fees.

He didn't come through with the money so you had papers served him again. This time he paid.

MORE ABOUT RENTING

If you are planning to rent an apartment or house, the Department of Consumer Affairs urges you to take a few precautions before signing a rental agreement.

Find out what repairs you will be responsible for and what repairs are to be paid for by the landlord.

Read the agreement carefully. Be sure the responsibilities are stated clearly.

Determine what will happen if you move before the agreement terminates and how much notice you must give before leaving.

Make sure you obtain a copy of the agreement and of any other regulations the landlord expects you to follow.

Find out the owner's name, address and phone number.

Before you move into an apartment, go through it thoroughly and make a list of any and all damage. Prepare the list in duplicate, date it and have the landlord sign both copies. Keep one copy for your records.

While living in an apartment, says the Department of Consumer Affairs, you are usually responsible for damage beyond normal wear-and-tear. Needed repairs should be made as soon as possible.

When you move, ask the landlord to go through the apartment in your presence to determine the damage, etc., he is going to charge against your refundable deposit.

Under California law, regardless of whether the deposit was called a cleaning, damage or rental deposit, a landlord may use it to pay back rent, clean the premises or repair damages but he must give back to you, within two weeks after you move out, any part of the deposit not used for these purposes.

Non-refundable deposits or fees are not covered by the law as the landlord imposes these flat charges whether or not you meet your rental obligations.

Seismic study, impact study, Claremont agenda

CLAREMONT — Adoption of the city's seismic element, an appeal of a requirement for an environmental impact report on a condominium project, and continued discussion of the 1974-75 city budget are among items on the agenda for the City Council meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The council had continued its public hearing on the seismic element from its May 28 meeting, while the Planning Commission considered suggested changes by Councilman Gene Block. The commission at its meeting Tuesday night sent the seismic element back to the council in its orignnal form without Block's changes.

The commission noted that it had already approved what appears to be a critical sentence: "While it is generally agreed that Claremont has three local faults, there is lack of agreement regarding their activity."

Block had suggested that the city would be required to determine that an undue hazard would not result from construction on a particular piece of property before a building permit was issued.

To commissioner James Norris, it appeared that a county building official would be the one to bear the burden as to whether a building permit should be issued.

In other items, Rufus Turner, representing H.B.W. Enterprises, has appealed an Environmental Quality Board requirement on an impact report being necessary for a condominium project at Yale Avenue and Seventh Street.

Planning Director Paul King had ruled that an environmental impact report was not required for the project, but two residents appealed his decision. The matter went to the board.

Sharon Hightower, when she was planning director, had also ruled that the report was not necessary.

City, chamber agreement up for discussion

CLAREMONT — City-Chamber of Commerce contract negotiations for the 1974-75 fiscal year will highlight the chamber board of directors meeting Tuesday at 8 a.m. at the chamber office.

The board will be looking at a proposed budget for the coming year and will discuss what to do about its quarters since a 20-year lease with the city expired in April. The chamber is in its present quarters on a month-to-month basis.

The board must decide on a performance plan and a job description for the hiring of a single executive for both the chamber and the conventinn bureau. Chamber manager Alex Turner resigned April 15 after three years to go into private business, and the chamber is seeking a replacement.

The board also will consider a resolution from the Pomona Chamber of Commerce urging the county Board of Supervisors to adopt a "no tax increase" position for 1974-75.

The recommended county tax increase is 83 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

South Hills Center: no need goes unattended

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — "A Bridge Over Troubled Waters" is the theme and controlling principle of the South Hills Neighborhood Service Center which provides a variety of services for minority and poor people within the community.

Ken Stewart, director, recently detailed the specifics of its employment, health, youth, psychiatric counseling, senior citizen and children programs.

The center, located at 1170 W. Fremont St., is funded by the Greater Los Angeles County Action Agency and the Presbyterian Synod of Southern California.

Job development and geferral services are offered through contracting with the state Department of Human Resources Development for the use of its job bank and cooperating with local industry and business for placement. A leaflet on a wall at the center warns "Landing a job is not just luck" and urges attendance at job interview workshops. A bulletin board is literally covered with pamphlets and brochures for jobs throughout the valley.

Employment counseling

Counseling for those seeking employment is conducted at the center Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Emmanuel Baptist Church in San Dimas on the first and third Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Goodwill Church of God in Pomona on the second and fourth Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the Beta Center, 1095 W. Grand Ave., Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The emergency social service attempts to deal with the more than 25 per cent of Pomona students from families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, said Stewart. It provides food assistance, clothing, furniture and appliances, transportation and help with utility disconnection.

"Going hand in hand with economic deprivation is the problem of maintaining adequate health," Stewart said. Therefore, a community preventive medical clinic is offered on Monday nights from 7 to 10.

It is staffed on a rotating basis by volunteer professional medical doctors and nurses and medical students from USC, the Claremont Colleges and Citrus College. Basically, it is a diagnostic clinic and services are offered free, although a $1 donation is requested but not required.

Psychiatric help

Severe economic hassles can lead to mental health problems. With this in mind, the center personnel organized the psychiatric counseling program for both children and adults.

This program is conducted Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. and is also staffed by volunteer professional psychiatric and social workers.

The senior citizen program, coordinated by Elsie Manning and Mary McNeal, seeks to deal with the unique situation of poverty, age and minority status. Many of the black and brown elderly are penalized financially in Social Security benefits because they worked during the years that minorities were extremely low on the economic structure, said Stewart.

A hot lunch daily, crafts, social activities and home visitation and assistance from volunteers are part of the senior citizen program headquartered at Goodwill Church of God.

The youth program deals with bored juveniles in a "suburban ghetto."

"We have felt particular concern in viewing our young people. Black and brown children have been low achievers in school, seldom overcome environmental handicaps and come into contact with the criminal justice system at a frequency much greater than non-minority children," the director noted.

A LITTLE HELP

Debbie Wallace, second from left, gives a student at South Hills Presbyterian Junior School a helping shove down the slide as other youngsters wait their turn.

"Without attacking the major sources for these deficiencies in our society, we have developed a stop-gap program. A program that includes academic tutoring, counseling services for predelinquency behavior and a continuation school for youngsters who have been expelled from the school district."

Continuation school

Stewart and his staff are currently taking referrals for the Martin Luther King Jr.-Benito Juarez Continuation School. Through a "gentleman's agreement" with Pomona Unified School District, it will be possible for students re-entering the traditional school program to transfer credits earned at King-Juarez.

The South Hills Presbyterian Junior School provides preschool activities and child care services from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. The fees are on a graduated scale according to parents' income. Emily Munding is current director with Debra Wallace as teacher, Rosa Newton and Charlita Shields as teacher's aides, Katharyn Newton as cook and Ruth Pratt as custodian.

The school is located to the north of the service center in the same building. Children attending are drawn from throughout the valley. The program takes in basic shapes and colors, field trips, nutrition, music participation, a monthly fire drill, numbers, alphabet, Sesame Street, films and safety.

Besides Stewart, the South Hills staff includes Kathryn Hill, manager; Tobby Baca, social service coordinator; Lorraine Williams, employment coordinator; Irene Reyes health clinic coordinator; Thomas Castanos, psychiatric clinic coordinator; Mrs. Manning and Mrs. McNeal, senior citizens coordinators; and students from Cal State Northridge, Cal Poly's SPAN Project and the Mexican-American Opportunities Programs of Cal Poly and East Los Angeles.

Party-crasher, 17, slain in Compton

CARSON (UPI) — A 17-yearold Compton youth was shot to death Saturday night when he and some other youths attempted to crash a party, sheriff's deputies said.

Michael Day was shot outside a home where as many as 150 youths were attending the party. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Deputies said witnesses reported members of two youth gangs, the Crips and Pirus, were involved in the shooting, but officers declined to confirm the report.

Authorities said everyone who attended the party was being questioned, but there had been no arrests.

Opinion

Nuclear death is too easy to steal

The theft from private industry of sufficient nuclear material to make an atomic bomb is a growing threat.

A series of small "bookkeeping" alterations or materials substitutions could cover the theft. Such alterations would require no more ingenuity than the methods used by bank embezzlers to hide the stealing of millions of dollars over a period of years.

Transposed figures and misread instruments are already a burdensome problem for government and business in accounting for fissionable materials under existing Federal regulations. But a frightening amount of confusion can be introduced by men who are skilled in nuclear physics and chemistry. For example:

—Instruments can be made to give erroneous results.

—Measurements can be altered by putting false numbers in the record.

—Contents of a measured batch of fissionable material can be changed after measurement.

—One material can be substituted for another of similar properties.

The lengthy process involved in producing fissionable materials is so complex it invites tampering of a kind which defies detection. Uncertainties in measuring, tabulating and altering the fissionable material already produced in this country are so great that no one knows for certain whether an explosive mass has or has not already been stolen.

Once fissionable material is in illegal hands, making a nuclear weapon is no problem. The precise techniques of bombmaking have been widely published.

Information gathered on computer and white collar industrial crime in the past six months indicates the number of highly-educated, technically-competent men and women who are not adverse to theft of money or trying to "beat the system" is increasing.

Of course, it will not be enough to deal with theft in just the U.S. The scheduled growth of nuclear power reactors means large quantities of fissionable materials will be at hand in scattered plants and stations worldwide.

Today it is impossible to keep track of fissionable material with accuracy greater than one per cent. Even with improved methods, loopholes of a tenth of one per cent can be expected.

These percentages seem small. But the amounts of fissionable material already handled is so great that an insider with the same ingenuity of a computer crook could sequester sufficent material for one or several bombs through that tenth of one per cent loophole.

For large plants, the best that can be done in checking on fissionable materials is to produce a monthly balance or accounting. When this accounting suggests material has been lost or stolen, it is normally necessary to recheck the whole inventory process for error and to resurvey the processes and movements step by step to generate better statistics before it can be definitely stated some fissionable material has disappeared. This rechecking takes several weeks more.

If the thieves, by methods outlined above, take the fissionable material in small enough dribs and drabs, they may have "all the time in the world" to make a bomb. Even if the culprits are more ambitious, and sequester slightly larger amounts, the time delay involved in accurately checking and accounting for what's on hand makes it possible for a skilled man with stolen ingredients to build a bomb well before officials could be certain fissionable material was missing.

The 4th of July

Silence shrouds the great Liberty Bell in its resting place at Independence Hall, Philadelphia. Never again will its melodious voice herald important occasions such as the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence. Yet for millions of Americans, the cracked and battered 222-year old bell symbolizes the rugged spirit of independence that founded these United States so many years ago.

As the traditional Fourth of July celebrations burst forth this year, the U.S. finds itself at crossroads similar to those faced by our forefathers that first "Independence Day" in 1776. Our national purpose is being questioned, and myriad problems assail us on every front. But as long as Americans keep alive the principles of individual dignity and justice under law, the U.S. will always be able to follow the message inscribed on the Liberty Bell to: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

More on Klassen's empire building

WASHINGTON — In a series of columns, we have carefully documented how Postmaster General Ted Klassen has lavished himself with the appurtenances of power, doled out jobs and contracts to his cronies and put politics ahead of delivering the mail.

He has managed to get away with these abuses by intensely wooing the board of governors and the members of Congress who are supposed to supervise him.

The board of governors is dominated by the lions of industry, who were expected to bring businesslike efficiency to the Postal Service. But like Daniel, Klassen has turned the lions into pussycats who purr their approval wherever he appears before them.

The full board doesn't even bother to meet regularly. Sometimes it directs the $10-billion postal organization by telephone, rubber-stamping Klassen's decisions by conference call.

The likeable Klassen is even more skillful at stroking the fur of the congressional watchdogs, who have been assigned to keep an eye on him. He makes frequent trips to Capitol Hill to butter up the members of the Senate and the House post office committees. At least once a month, he breakfasts or lunches with them.

When Klassen is unavailable, postal lobbyist Norm Halliday is on the Hill ready to attend to their wants.

One House committee member, Rep. Charles Wilson D-Calif., wanted help in his primary election campaign. Suddenly, the postmaster general turned up in the unlikely town of Lynwood, Calif., which had just been added to Wilson's congressional district.

Although Klassen is a Republican and Wilson a Democrat, they appeared together at a luncheon, dutifully attended by postal workers. The invitations were mailed at the taxpayers' expense in official Postal Service envelopes.

For the most powerful members of the Post Office committees, Klassen has arranged to place a friend of their choice on the board of governors. Among those who were able to plant a political supporter on the board were Senate Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyn.; Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, the ranking Senate Republican; and Rep. Ed Derwinski, R-Ill, who will be the ranking House Republican next year.

Klassen's slick congressional stroking may explain why the Post Office committees have made no move to investigate our revelations.

Meanwhile, House Post Office Chairman Thaddeus Dulski, D-N.Y., actually headed off a planned investigation of the Postal Service by the House Small Business Committee.

Claiming jurisdiction, Dulski insisted it was his job to investigate the Postal Service. But instead of an investigation, he merely fired off a stern but meaningless letter warning Klassen that his patience "has worn thin." That was six months ago; yet Dulski's patience still hasn't been exacerbated.

Elsewhere, officials of the American Postal Workers Union, citing our columns have called for Klassen's removal.

Footnote: Rep. Wilson denied that Klassen came to California to campaign for him, claiming the postmaster general happened to be in the area attending a regional conference. A spokesman for Dulski said the House chairman wanted to give the postal managers time to work things out but now is ready to move.

HARD OF HEARING: Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who has a hearing problem himself, has called upon the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission to protect the hard of hearing against "quackery, which is all too rampant" in the $150 million hearing-aid industry.

Unscrupulous salesmen and dealers often sell hearing aids to people, particularly the elderly, who don't need them. Others who need medical attention for ear problems, rather than hearing aids, are seriously injured because they trusted some smooth-talking salesman.

State hearing aid licensing boards "are often packed with dealers," Percy complained in a private letter to Food and Drug Commissioner Alexander Schmidt.

The salesmen themselves, Percy charged, often "are neither professionally qualified nor adequately equipped to diagnose and treat acute ear disorders."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: The prestigious, nonprofit Population Reference Bureau, which coined the term "population explosion," is short $85,000. The FBI has charged that the money wound up in the bank account of the foundation's former acting president, Alvaro Garcia-Pena. We spoke to Garcia-Pena who refused to comment . . . Lt. Gen. Wallace Robinson, director of the Defense Supply Agency, recently flew to the Far East for a three-week "logistics tour." The general and two aides were the sole passengers aboard a huge Air Force 707. The flying behemoth, said a spokesman, was going to the Orient anyway . . .

Government auditors have charged that the armed forces ran up more than $7 billion in extra charges on 55 weapons systems during the last six months of 1973. The confidential audit identified the Air Force as the worst offender with more than $3 billion in cost overruns. The Army exceeded its cost estimates by $1.7 billion, the Navy by more than $1 billion. A Pentagon spokesman blamed inflation . . . The House Judiciary Committee is transcribing President Nixon's famous Watergate tapes in three rooms which used to be occupied, ironically, by the House Select Committee on Crime . . . The original Watergate grand jury has been kept on to consider some additional indictments . . . The original Watergate prosecutors, meanwhile, have been notified that their testimony will be needed at the trials.

PAUL HARVEY

Simplifying the income tax problem

No two tax accountants would have computed President Nixon's tax bill similarly. Had you taken his file to a dozen different offices of the Internal Revenue Service, you'd have a dozen different opinions on how much he owed. That's right, the interpretation of tax law is that inconsistent.

There is no avalanche of taxpayer protest because most taxpayers are content to try to shift the burden to somebody else: "Soak the rich;" "tax big business," "plug the loopholes!"

But, inevitably, the complexity of tax laws punishes the poorest most. Big business does not pay taxes. No, it doesn't. Big business passes all such costs on to consumers in higher prices. Only people pay taxes.

And the rules change from year to year sufficiently to confound the most astute and to penalize the most conscientious.

It's got so the workaday man on the most modest income has to hire a professional accountant every year to compute his deductions. Every IRS commissioner, when out of office, agrees that the system is deplorably, inexcusably complicated.

Some political party these next two years — if it dared oppose those who feed on this tax fiasco — could capture the White House with a platform promise to abolish the Internal Revenue Service.

Why not tax everybody 25 per cent of his annual income with no exceptions and no loopholes? The Federal Treasury would take in more money and the army of tax accountants, lawyers and paper handlers presently employed by government, industry and individuals — all those hundreds of thousands of paper jugglers — would be released for productive work.

The farmer, with a lot of overhead for seed and feed, would be taxed as a business. What we are discussing here are the individual incomes of individuals.

The major resisters to tax simplification are the churches, charities and endowed schools who fear nobody would support them any more.

But to admit that they are depending on government to get us to give is to confess that church and state are partners in a conspiracy to coerce — and they shouldn't want to admit that.

If you knew for sure that six bits of every dollar you earned would be all yours to do with as you wish, there would be no daily bookkeeping for tax purposes, no annual hassle, nobody dodging. Everybody would pay a proportionate share including the people on welfare.

It seems to me you'd solve a lot of problems.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . . . . letters

Challenges Anderson

In a recent column, Jack Anderson said that our ambassador to Vietnam, Graham Martin, had advised the Department of State "to be dishonest with senators."

Mr. Anderson's statement is false. Ambassador Martin sent a confidential cable to the State Department giving his suggestions on how to handle a letter from Senator Kennedy which raised questions about Vietnam policy. He advised giving the senator a "very short routine reply from the Assistant Secretary for Congressional Relations stating that the department had noted his letter and was sure that its substance would be thoroughly covered in the testimony to be given in the near future by the Executive Branch witnesses before the appropriate Congressional committees which would consider foreign assistance legislation for FY 74."

The ambassaador said that it would be unwise to provide the information requested to Senator Kennedy "as an individual senator so close before the full Administration position is presented" to the appropriate committees of Congress.

Ambassador Martin did not suggest that the Department of State be dishonest with "senators," or even with one senator. What he suggested was that the one senator in question be advised that the information he sought would be provided very shortly in testimony before two congressional committees. That is a far cry from a recommendation of dishonesty. — Reed J. Irvine, Accuracy in Media, Inc., Washington, D.C.

Gossip for today

Truly dedicated ecologists and conservationists miss few, if any, opportunities to help make this a better world in which to live. And high on the list of those who deserve special mention is that housewife who thinks it a mortal sin to remove any living thing from its natural habitat simply for ornamental or decorative purposes. She's the one who not only fills her vases with plastic flowers but also recently had another brilliant inspiration. Her fish tank now contains plastic goldfish. Such all-out dedication to ecological ideals would most certainly be hard to equal but at least one other housewife should also be given honorable mention for conservational effort and beyond the realm of duty. She is the one who has turned out all the pilot lights on her kitchen range in order to cut down on gas consumption.

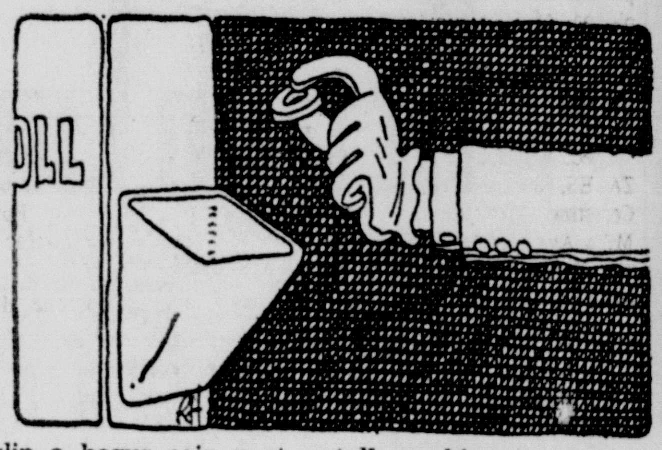
RALPH NOVAK

For whom the booth tolls

This is the era of law enforcement in television—fictionally, anyway. You can hardly turn on your television set without confronting a private detective or police officer of some description: black or white, thin or fat, handsome or ugly, crippled or healthy, urban or rural, intellectual or physical. So it is only natural that soon we'll be seeing series on the order of "Toll Booth," starring someone like Desi Arnaz Jr. as an exact change lane attendant on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Imagine an interview with the producer of "Toll Booth," who would be named something like Phoenicius Ersatz:

Ersatz announced that the first episode would be entitled "The Slug," with Ricardo Montalban making a rare guest appearance as an ordinarily law-abiding citizen who runs out of change and tries to slip a bogus coin past a toll machine, unwittingly starting himself on a disintegrating life of crime.



"This series will deal with the pressing moral issues of our time," Ersatz said. "We will confront the question of good vs. bad and come out in favor of good. We will confront the question of morality vs. immorality and come out in favor of morality. We will confront the question of profit vs. cancellation and come out in favor of profit."

Ersatz conceded that a series about a toll booth attendant was not something that seemed like a surefire hit but he added that most of the good law enforcement areas have already been used. "What was left?" he asked with a shrug. "A meter maid in Topeka? A dog catcher in Muscle Shoals? A security guard at Watergate? Look, we had sponsors clamoring for a nice cops and robbers show and we had to come up with something; do you expect us to put on a half hour of blank air?

"There are all kinds of possibilities for this series. We'll have one show on the youth problem you know, where a five-year-old tries to run the booth on his tricycle without paying and the attendant shows compassion but resolve, arresting the kid while recommending that he be paroled after five years. Then we've got another topical show where a radical group of blacks takes over the toll booth to protest against the white majority's hoarding of change. And for a little light touch, we've got an episode where Desi finds some romantic interest when a pretty little model's quarter becomes stuck in the machine."

Critics have suggested that "Toll Booth" may be so ridiculous that nobody in America will ever watch it but Ersatz scoffs at that idea.

"NO program is that ridiculous," he says. "What do you think people should do? Read books? Plant vegetables? Play chess? Paint pictures? Don't be silly. 'Toll Booth' has the potential to be as big a success, financially and artistically, as 'Bridget Loves Bernie' and it could be the biggest thing to hit television since 'The Keefe Braselle Show.'"

New law aims at counterfeit food stamps

The recent confiscation by federal agents in Orange County of more than $1 million in conterfeit food stamps has resulted in passage of a new law regulating the use and possession of the stamps.

The law amends the Welfare and Institutions Code to make it a felony to use or possess food stamps, or authorizations to purchase stamps, illegally if the face value of the stamps is more than $200. If less than $200, the violation is a misdemeanor.

The law also makes it a felony to possess or use authorizations to purchase food stamps with the intent to defraud, and specifies that the alteration or counterfeiting of authorizations or stamps is forgery.

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Busch said that in view of the federal seizure of bogus stamps, passage of the bill appears timely.

. . . And Johnny does it again in Milwaukee

By United Press International

Johnny Rutherford, who survived a crash eight years ago that broke both arms, is now cradling the lion's share of the purse on the USAC championship circuit.

The affable Texan earned a quarter-million dollars for his McLaren team two weeks ago by winning the Indianapolis 500-mile race. On Sunday, Rutherford again picked up the top prize—this time $17,268—by capturing the 150-mile Rex Mays Classic in Milwaukee.

Across the Atlantic, jubilant Jody Scheckter of South Africa won his first Grand Prix race in two years on the Formula One circuit by leading from start to finish in the Swedish GP at Anderstorp.

With the new bond of USAC--SCCA cooperation, there's a chance Rutherford and Scheckter will hook up wheels in the near future.

Rutherford, driving a McLaren, averaged 110.225 miles an hour on the one mile State Fair Park speedway as he beat Gary Bettenhausen by 31 seconds. A spin-out on the eighth lap almost cost Rutherford the race. But he recovered without hitting anybody and finally took the lead for good during the 124th lap.

Aga[illegible] his close bud[illegible] in both [illegible] Foyt b[illegible] early le[illegible] trying pa[illegible] bach, who [illegible] lap, went out [illegible] problems.

Bobby Unser, [illegible] trying for a third [illegible] victory, was force[illegible] with gear box troubl[illegible]

Scheckter said once [illegible] the lead of the Swedis[illegible], winning the race proved easier t[illegible] he anticipated.

"When I won the start, I w[illegible] determined to hang on with all the strength I had. Now that I've done it once, I hope I can do it again. There are still a lot of races left this season and my position in the field is strong now."

Scheckter beat Tyrrell teammate Patrick DePallier of France by less than a second in the 200-mile race and moved into a third place tie with Nikki Lauda of Austria in the world driver championship standings. Emerson Fittipaldi, who finished fourth in Sweden Sunday, leads the pack with 27 points.

Gerard Larrousse of France and Amilcare Ballestrieri of Italy, driving a Lancia Stratos, won the Targa Florio race in Cerda, Sicily, with an average speed of 68.167 mph for the 312-mile event.

Gary Beck of Canada hit a record-tying 247.25 mph at Columbus, Ohio, while beating Carl Olson of El Toro, Calif., in the top fuel category of the National Hot Rod Association Spring Nationals.

IT'S THE VICTORY RIDE

Cale Yarborough's pit crew gets a ride to the winner's circle after Yarborough edged Bobby Allison by three seconds to win the Tuborg 400 stock car race at Riverside Raceway Sunday.

Cale can't wait for 1975

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

LOCAL-NATIONAL

Sports

RIVERSIDE — The NASCAR Grand National stock car circuit won't return [illegible]he Riverside International Raceway [illegible] course for another seven months, [illegible]le Yarborough is marking the [illegible] on his calendar already.

[illegible]rough's eager anticipation is [illegible]e than understandable; Riverside has been very, very good to the 35-year-old native of Timmonsville in 1974, so why not look forward to '75?

For the second time this year in as many races, Yarborough's '74 Chevelle outdistanced NASCAR's finest Sunday to capture the Tuborg 400 and the points lead for the season.

Last January, Yarborough patiently waited out a week's rain delay to grab the Winston Western 500 at Riverside.

But Yarborough's sixth victory of the year didn't qualify as his easiet.

As a matter of fact, the crowd of 41,000 figured that the Chevrolet of Bobby Allison was going to take it all as late as eight laps left in the race.

Allison led Yarborough by 10 seconds—a comfortable if not substantial margin—when he ducked into the pits for a quick shot of fuel. That opening was all Yarborough needed.

Allison put his foot to the floor for the final eight laps, but a 2.7 second margin when the checkered flag dropped was as close as he could get.

It was an exhausted Yarborough that crawled out of the car after 400 miles in 92-degree heat.

"It was about 130 degrees in the car," Cale wheezed after Winner's Circle ceremonies. "I had a gallon jug of water in the car, and I finished it early. Sometimes down the back stretch, I could stick my hand out the wndow and deflect a little bit of air into the car."

Allison, meanwhile, was totally spent by his final charge. The Hueytown, Alabama driver lay prone in a garage after the race, and was unavailable for comment on the late pit stop that cost him the race.

Yarborough opened up an early lead, and paced the field for most of the race until a yellow flag on lap 104 scrambled the field and allowed Allison to inch in on Yarborough and finally draft past him on the back straight of lap 106.

And there Allison sat for 24 laps until his fuel gauge forced him into the pits.

Allison was the only driver on the same lap with the winner at the end of the race. Benny Parsons, Ellerbe, North Carolina, was two laps down in third place in his '72 Monte Carlo.

Cecil Gordon, Horse Shoe, N.C., finished fourth a full four laps down in another Monte Carlo.

It was not a good day for some high qualifiers and crowd favorites.

Arcadia's George Follmer had qualified the Roger Penske Matador for the pole position, but he barely finished seven laps when a broken camshaft retired the American Motors entry for the day.

Richard Petty, Randleman, N.C., who usually has 90 per cent of the crowd on his side anyway, lasted only 50 laps before the temperature gauges went wild on the red-and-blue Dodge, putting King Richard away for the rest of the race.

Buy maybe the unkindest cut of all was directed at veteran Grand National West driver Hershell McGriff of Bridal Veil, Oregon.

McGriff opened the day by winning the California 100 for late-model stocks that preceded the actual running of the 400. Local favorite Ivan Baldwin could stay only 40 seconds in back of him.

McGriff qualified his Chevrolet 19th for the 400, and trackside public address announcers were just getting done speculating on his chances for a sweep when his transmission failed one lap into the race.

McGriff's was the first car out of the race, thereby sending McGriff from an exhilirating first to an annoying last place finish in the space of one half hour.

Jim Insolo of Mission Hills qualified his '72 Chevrolet in sixth but retired on lap 71 for a variety of mechanical ills.

Yarborough's average speed of 102.442 set a new record for the energy crisis-shortened 400.

Lose all three at Detroit

Angels try Yankees next

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fading California Angels hope to find things easier in Shea Stadium here tonight when they open a three-game series against the New York Yankees.

Rudy May (0-1) will draw tonight's pitching assignment against the Yanks' Doc Medich (7-4).

The Angels limped here after losing all three games over the weekend in Detroit. The finisher came Sunday afternoon when Willie Horton's booming two-run double capped a three-run fourth inning and led the Tigers to a 5-3 victory.

Detroit now prepares for ex-manager Billy Martin to bring in his Texas Rangers for the first time since being fired by the Tigers last August 3.

But while the press is making a pretty big deal out of Martin's return, and the Rangers' manager is doing his volatile best to pick up ticket sales, the paying public is strangely apathetic.

Advance sales for the game are not overly large, although General Manager Jim Campbell, who fired Martin, noted the size of a "family night" crowd is heavily dependent on gate sales. Monday nights are family nights in Detroit, with family members getting in for 50 cents if one adult pays the regular price.

"The people in Detroit forget easily," noted relief ace John Hiller, who pitched three scoreless innings Sunday to notch his 10th save.

Ancient Title, Finalista skip Bel Air Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Bel Air Handicap was supposed to have been the last major prep before the $150,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, but Ancient Title and Finalista failed to prove it.

Ancient Title, the multi-stakes winning 4-year-old gelding which would have been bidding for his fifth stakes win of the season, was scratched just before the start of Sunday's program.

Trainer Keith Stucki apparently decided the high-weighed ancient titie could be readied for the Gold Cup on workouts alone.

Meanwhile, rallying on the comeback trail, finalista captured the eighth running of the $53,750 Bel Air in the excellent time of 1:47, just 3-5 of a second slower than the track record.

It was his second impressive victory of the year, having beat Quack, the expected heavy favorite in the Gold Cup, in the Caballero Handicap earlier this spring.

"We'll take alook at the Gold Cup, but we'll have to see," trainer L. J. Brooks said.

Finalista, which was limited to just four starts last year because of a suspensory injury, has been running about every three or four weeks this year in his six starts.

In 11 starts as a 3-year-old in 1972, Finalista won six of them and more than $135,000.

Jockey Alvarado Pineda brought Finalista to the outside after the 5-year-old was kept in third position until the turn for home. Finalista then outgamed Tree of Knowledge to score a $5.60 neck victory.

Plunk was third.

Apprentice rider Kenneth Skinner, 17, had his biggest day of the meeting by riding both ends of a $553.20 daily double. Laffit Pincay Jr. had to wait until the ninth race to keep alive his win-a-day streak at 24, five short of Bill Shoemaker's Hollywood Park record.

Twixt proved a good horse can run on any track by winning the $56,400 Milady Handicap Saturday in her California debut and her first appearance on a West Coast track.

Twixt, 1973 Maryland Horse of the Year and only one stakes victory short of Secretariats's production last year with eight, took on nine of the west's top distaffers and drove to a nose victory over Tallahto.

La Zanzara was third.

One of the country's top older mares, Twixt increased her career earnings to close to $340,000.

NFL players pick July 1

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Football League Players Association said Sunday it will go on strike if a new agreement is not reached with club owners by July 1.

Edward R. Garvey, the association's executive director, said the walkout would include newly-signed rookies slated to play against the Miami Dolphins in a charity All-Star game in Chicago on July 26.

"We have 12 days of negotiations with the owners between now and July 1," Garvey told a news conference. "If nothing is settled by that time, we will declare a strike."

He said union representatives would be talking to the 1974 rookie crop, including those on the All-Star roster, in the intervening days, "so that everything will be all set by the July 1 deadline."

The players association and the owners are scheduled to resume talks Tuesday for the first time since the union's long list of demands were presented to the bosses.

The owners responded with a quick no to the 63 demands when handed the list April 4.

A federal mediator persuaded both sides to renew their talks starting Tuesday in New York.

Expansion club shines

Aztecs collect eighth straight, and a record

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — A crowd of 4,904 saw the unbeaten Los Angeles Aztecs win their eighth straight game here Sunday, defeating Rochester, 3-0.

The eighth consecutive victory was a new North American Soccer League record, with Rochester holding the old mark of seven, set in 1971.

Jerry Kazarian dumped in two goals and Doug McMillan added one in the Aztec victory, but the big story was Blas Sanchez' excellent play as goaltender.

Sanchez turned back 21 Rochester shots — some from point blank range — en route to his second shut out since he joined the Aztecs four games ago.

An official was pelted with stones thrown by some 20 to 30 fans near the end of the game and had to be escorted off the field at the game's end by police.

The incident involving referee Billy Maxwell was an apparent reaction to Maxwell's ejection of a Rochester player.

When Maxwell ejected Roverto Lonardo for punching Aztec captain Ramon Moraldo, the spectators rushed to the sidelines, stones in hand. Two other players were thrown out earlier for fighting, one from each side.

The Aztecs, now 6-0-2 in NASL play, host the San Jose Earthquakes next Sunday afternoon at East Los Angeles College.

College World Series delayed by more rain

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Officials waited 30 minutes in a sporadic drizzle Sunday night before postponing for a second time the Seton Hall-Southern Illinois College World Series contest here.

The two teams were scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the first of four contests to be played at Rosenblatt Stadium Monday, weather permitting.

At 1 p.m., the loser of that game will meet Texas, which lost to the University of Southern California 9-2 Saturday night. At 5 p.m., first round winners Miami and Oklahoma will play, and at 8 p.m., Southern California will take on the winner of the Southern Illinois-Seton Hall contest.

Unhappy Joshua a Dodger hero

By BILL ALNGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Being a hero isn't changing Von Joshua's unhappiness.

Joshua lined a pinch-hit single in the ninth inning to score Willie Crawford with the winning run to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday afternoon.

But Joshua would just as soon be somewhere else next year where he could earn a regular job in the outfield.

The 26-year-old lefthanded swinger is unhappy about being used mostly as a pinch-hitter and has expressed his desire to be traded. He even met with Dodger president Peter O'Malley earlier in the week.

"No, this hit doesn't change my mind," Joshua told the reporters after the dramatic victory. "I don't want to say any more about it this season. It's up to the Dodgers now. The situation looks hopeless for me to be traded now and I don't want to be the one to cause trouble on this team with the club doing so well.

"After the season, I definitely want to be traded unless the situation changes and Mr. O'Malley has told me the club will try to grant me my wish at that time."

Joshua didn't realize he had driven in the winning run until after he rounded second base and saw the Cubs leaving the field.

"I forgot what the score was and didn't know what inning it was," Joshua said with a sheepish grin. "I was just running. The situation didn't register with me. I guess it comes from inactivity."

As it turned out, Joshua agreed not knowing the situation probably helped him.

"I was pretty relaxed at the plate today," he said. "If I would have known what the situation was, I would have probably been tight. Pinch-hitting is one of the toughest jobs in this sport."

Crawford, who played with glasses for the first time in his career, opened the bottom of the ninth with a single off Chicago reliever Horacio Pina, Saturday night's winner.

Bill Russell sacrificed Crawford to second to set the stage for Joshua's game-winning hit.

The ninth-inning victory, the third for the Dodgers this week, maintains an eight-game advantage for L.A. in the National League West entering tonight's opener of a three-game series against the St. Louis Cardinals at Dodger Stadium.

Chicago pitcher Burt Hooton deserved a better fate than a no-decision Sunday as the Dodgers' first three runs were unearned thanks to four Cub errors.

Meanwhile, the Cubs belted three doubles and one home run to deny Tommy John (9-1) his 10th victory of the season. Charlie Hough picked up for John in the eighth, blanking the Cubs the rest of the way for his sixth victory in seven decisions.

Hough is getting the reputation as "the Buzzard" for his knack of picking up victories in the relief in the manner of ex-Dodger Phil "the Vulture" Regan.

The Dodgers grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning thanks to Chicago errors plus Steve Garvey's 51st run batted in on a sacrifice fly plus Joe Ferguson's run-producing single.

Chicago cut it to 2-1 in the fourth when John walked Billy Williams and gave up a double to Jose Cardenal. But the Dodgers got the run back in the bottom half of the fourth when Garvey doubled, advanced to third on shortstop Don Kessinger's error and came home on Willie Crawford's sacrifice fly.

However, John couldn't protect the lead.

Carmen Fanzone opened the Chicago fifth with a double and George Mitterwald followed with a two-bagger to make it 3-2. Mitterwald was later out at the plate when he tried to steal home on a missed bunt by Hooton.

Williams slammed his eighth home run of the season in the sixth with two outs to tie the score.

John went to the showers in the eighth when Rick Monday and Williams hit back-to-back singles after two outs. Hough came in to get Jose Cardenal on a fly ball to end the threat.

Chicago missed an opportunity to take the lead in the ninth when a walk to Fanzone and a single by Mitterwald put runners on first and third with one out.

Hough got pinch-hitter Chris Ward on a short fly to left then struck out pinch-hitter Bill Madlock to get out of the jam.

DODGER DATA — Doug Rau (5-1) will face Sonny Siebert (6-3) in this evening's game. Tuesday's probables are Andy Messersmith (6-1) vs. Lynn McGlothen (7-3) with Don Sutton (6-4) slated against John Curtis (3-6) in Wednesday's homestand finale . . .

The Dodgers and Cardinals are the two top hitting teams in major league baseball with respective team averages of .288 and .285 . . .

Dodger management announced the signing of five of its first 10 players in last week's free agent baseball draft. Shortstop Fred Tisdale of Centennial High, the third choice, signed Saturday . . .

The Dodger-Cardinal series will highlight the four leading RBI men in the National League — Jimmy Wynn and Steve Garvey with 51, the Cardinals' Reggie Smith at 50 and Ron Cey fourth at 45.

Poile promoted in WHA ranks

LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Bud Poile, a veteran hockey executive, was named Thursday as vice president in charge of hockey operations for the World Hockey Association.

Poile, 50, active in the sport since 1942, resigned last January from the front office of the National Hockey League's Vancouver Canucks. He was one of the builders in 1966 of the expansion Philadelphia Flyers, who won the Stanley Cup this year.

The announcement of his appointment was made by WHA President Dennis Murphy after the first day of a three-day league meeting.

Anthony wins bowling title

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI) — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., the leader since play began last week, took a 218-188 decision Sunday over Mark Roth of New York to defend his Brunswick-PBA National Bowling Championship.

Anthony, 36, who captured the Firestone Tournament of Champions last April to close out the winter tour, tacked on another $9,000 to his money winnings. With the $25,000 he earned for the T of C, Anthony has earned more than $53,000.

Roth, who was trying for his first PBA championship, won $5,000 in finishing second for the second time and ran his season winnings to $26,000.

Roth, who had downed a pair of tour veterans on his way to the championship game, led Anthony midway 206-199.

But Anthony posted strikes in the sixth, seventh and eighth frames and put the game away when Roth split in the ninth.

The four-game finale started with 24-time champion Dick Weber of St. Louis disposing of Marty Piraino, Syracuse, N.Y., 218-209.

In the second match, Weber strung strikes from the third through the seventh frames but left splits in the eighth and 10th frames and Roth came through with a 228-211 victory.

Gary Mage, Seattle, Wash., in the day's closest match, dropped a 205-204 decision to Roth, who struck on three of his final four attempts.

Anthony averaged over 219 to gain the top-seeded spot in the finals.

Hubie claims third victory of the year

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Four summers ago, an unhappy fledgling assistant pro, Hubert Green, was dusting shelves and sweeping floors in the pro shop of a nearby country club, too new and too busy to be able to play at the nearby Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

Sunday, Green walked away with a $30,000 check for winning the $150,000 IVB Golf Classic at the Whitemarsh course that, he jokingly claimed, he "couldn't afford to play" when he was a young assistant at the nearby Merion Golf Club.

The 27-year-old Green, now the second leading money winner on this year's PGA tour, shot a blistering 17-under par 72-hole total of 271 Sunday, a record for this tourney, and ran away with the $30,000 and his third tour victory of the year.

Green shook off the hot and humid weather and an early double bogey to shoot a four-under par 68 for the four-stroke victory over Hale Irwin, who realized early he was "playing for second place and that's what I played for."

Green, starting the day with a two stroke lead, played every hole calmly and methodically to card six birdies and only one double bogey for the victory that increased his money winnings to $156,165, second only to U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller.

Miller was two strokes behind Green when they started the final round but a double-bogey on the par-three third hole, when his drive sailed over the green and out of bounds, quickly put him out of contention.

Miller wound up with an even-par final round of 72 to finish in a tie for third with sophomore pro Tom Jenkins at 277.

Two strokes back of them was defending champion Tom Weiskopf, who had a final round 69. Mike Hill was at 280 while Joe Inman finished with a 281.

Jim Dent, Tom Kite and John Schlee were back at 282 while Masters champion Gary Player finished with a 285 total.

Green, who served only three months as an assistant pro at Merion in 1970 and was ineligible to play in area PGA tourneys, said he "considered himself a local son of some type" and was happy with the victory.

His double bogey came on the par-four eighth hole when his drive just caught the left rough and then his approach shot flew over the green.

After having to chip twice to the green, Green got on in five and sank an eight-footer.

Strings hold Aces, 25-21

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Los Angeles Strings, leaders of the Pacific Section, defeated the Chicago Aces 25-21 Sunday night in World Team Tennis action at the Lake Shore Racquet Club.

Sue Stap continued her fine play for the Aces, downing Kathy Harter and Merita Redondo, 6-3, but the overall play of the Strings was too much for the Aces. John Alexander beat Ace Coach Butch Buchols 6-2 and Miss Harter and Karen Susman defeated Stap and Janet Young 7-5 in doubles play.

Stargell belts two

By United Press International

Willie Stargell may have left his heart in San Francisco but the Pittsburgh Pirates hope he didn't forget to bring along his bat for tonight's game in San Diego against the Padres.

Stargell broke out of an 0-23 slump with his ninth career grand slam Sunday and also smashed a two-run homer to lead the Pirates to a 14-1 rout of the Giants. Pittsburgh's 17-hit offense was also greatly aided by Richie Zisk, who hit for the cycle and drove in five runs.

"I know a lot of visiting players don't like to hit in Candlestick Park because of the wind," said Stargell, who grew up in nearby Alameda, Calif., where he was an eight-letter man in high school. "But I've always liked it here. I think I've had some success, too. Of course, I never expected to drive in six runs but I was due for a good day."

The Pirates as a team were due for a good day. Picked by many to win the National League East Division title, Pittsburgh still finds itself languishing in last place, eight games off the pace, with a less-than-impressive 20-32 record.

"We haven't had too many laughers this year," said Pirate Manager Danny Murtaught. "Hitting has been our problem but it wasn't this day. I don't expect my men to do this all the time but they should be hitting better than they have."

Stargell and Manny Sanguillen had three hits apiece while Bob Robertson clubbed his eighth homer for Pittsburgh and Zisk, in addition to a three-run homer in the first inning, doubled in the fifth, singled in the sixth and tripled in the ninth.

The beneficiary of all this hitting was Jerry Reuss, who went the distance while scattering 10 hits to raise his record to 5-4. Ron Bryant, who allowed three runs and four hits in only 1 1-3 innings, was charged with his sixth loss in eight decisions.

In other NL games, Montreal beat Atlanta 7-3 after losing the opener of the doubleheader 3-2, Los Angeles edged Chicago 4-3, Cincinnati thumped Philadelphia 14-7, Houston walloped New York 11-1 and San Diego shaded St. Louis 6-5.

In the American League, Texas nipped Baltimore 3-2, New York got by Minnesota 4-3, Boston downed Chicago 10-6, Oakland edged Milwaukee 5-4 and Cleveland defeated Kansas City 8-6.

Braves 3-3, Expos 2-7

Willie Davis paced a 12-hit Montreal attack with a double and two singles to lead the Expos to victory in the second game after the Braves won the opener despite getting only four hits. Davis doubled in the first inning and scored, along with Ken Singleton who had walked, on Bob Bailey's single. Davis' first single drove in Barry Foote in the second inning and he singled and scored in the sixth when Singleton's sacrifice fly accounted for one run and Davis romped home on a passed ball.

The Braves maade the most of their hits in the first game with Ralph Garr getting three of the four with a triple and two singles. Garr singled home winning pitcher Phil Niekro with the first run of the game and the Braves' other two runs came in the fifth when Dave Johnson and Mike Lum led off with walks and were driven in by a fielder's choice by Craig Robinson and a single by Niekro.

Reds 14, Phils 7

Terry Crowley and Johnny Bench hit two-run homers and Joe Morgan chipped in with a solo shot as Cincinnati used a seven-run seventh inning to defeat Philadelphia. Mike Schmidt and Mike Anderson each hit three-run homers for the Phils. Don Gullett pitched the first six innings for the Reds to pick up his sixth win in nine decisions. Bench's homer and a two-run single by pinchhitter Hal King were the big blows in the Reds' seven-run inning.

Astros 11, Mets 1

Tommy Helms' two-run single in the second inning staked Houston to an early lead and a barrage of 13 hits allowed Astros' righthander Tom Griffin to coast to victory over the Mets. Griffin struck out eight en route to his seventh win of the season and his fourth complete game. Doug Rader scored three times and drove in two runs for the Astros, one of them with his sixth homer.

Padres 6, Cardinals 5

Bobby Tolan slammed a three-run homer with two out in the eighth inning to give San Diego its win over St. Louis and a sweep of their three-game series. Tolan's round-tripper, his fourth of the year, came just after both clubs had spilled onto the field for a 10-minute scuffle when Derrel Thomas of the Padres and second baseman Ted Sizemore of the Cards exchanged shoves at second base. Reliever Dave Tomlin got the win, his first decision of the year.

A's 5 Brewers 4

Sal Bando and Deron Johnson hit homers to help spoil Milwaukee's Jacket-Day promotion, which drew a crowd of 46,812, and earned Ken Holtzman his seventh victory for the A's. Holtzman went 6 2-3 innings, with Paul Lindblad finishing up, while Jim Slaton suffered the loss. Pedro Garcia homered for the Brewers.

Rangers 3 Oriales 2

Jim Fregosi drove in two runs with his fourth homer and a single and Jim Bibby won his eighth game for the Rangers, who dealt the Orioles' Ross Grimsley his seventh setback. Fregosi's homer came in the eighth inning and snapped a 2-2 deadlock. Steve Foucault came out of the bullpen in the eighth inning and earned his fourth save.

Red Sox 10 White Sox 6

Bob Montgomery drove in three runs with two singles and Carl Yastrzemski had three singles leading an 11-hit attack which brought Bill Lee his seventh win with the relief help of Reggie Cleveland. The Red Sox scored four runs off Skip Lockwood in the first inning and clinched the decision with five runs in the sixth, during which they kayoed Rich Gossage and Jim Kaat. Ron Santo hit two homers and Dick Allen hit one for the White Sox.

Indians 8 Royals 6

Homers by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan were the big blows for the Indians, who handed Steve Busby his sixth loss against seven wins. Steve Kline went only five innings but received credit for his fourth victory compared with eight losses.

Yankees 4 Twins 3

Sparky Lyle came out of the bullpen to record his fourth consecutive victory when his teammates scored three runs in the bottom half of the night to delight a bat day crowd of 50,083 at Shea Stadium. Lou Piniella and Rick Dempsey singled home the first two runs of the inning and then Graig Nettles, who homered in the sixth, knocked in the winning run with a single. Bobby Darwin tripled home the Twins' first run and hit a key single to contribute to their third tally.

Hutchinson now a king

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Defenseman Dave Hutchinson has jumped from the world Hockey Association and signed a multi-year contract with the Los Angeles Kings, the National Hockey League club announced tody.

Hutchinson, a 6-foot-3, 215-pounder, becomes the tallest, heaviest and most penalized member of the Kings.

Hutchinson, 22, was penalized 151 minutes with the Vancouver Blazers last season to finish among the WHA's top 20 in that category. He has averaged more than 105 penalty minutes in his two seasons with the Blazers.

He was originally drafted by the Kings in 1970, but signed with Vancouver.

"He will help fill the void left by the defection of defenseman Barry Long and should give us some needed muscle on the Blue line," said John Milford, general manager of the Kings.

Long left the Kings to join the WHA.

Upland lass will compete in AAU meet

Upland High's Linda Hightower, a junior who competes for the Southern California Cheetahs, qualified Sunday in the 100 meter hurdles in the California State AAU Championships held at Drake Stadium at UCLA.

She ran a 15.5 in finishing fourth in the meet.

Linda will accompany her Highlander teammate Steve Scott to the Junior National Track and Field Championships in Gainesville, Florida, to be held Friday and Saturday.

The top two finishers of each event will be selected to compete with the United States Junior team against the Russian Junior team at Austin, Texas, June 28-29.

Hightower then joins her Cheetah teammate Jenny Starry of Claremont High who has already qualified for the Senior Women's Pentathalon championship at UCLA, June 23-24, where she also has a shot at making the junior team since two pentathlon athletes will be selected from there to make the meet at Austin.

Both girls have qualified for the National AAU Girls Championship at Bakersfield, June 24-25.

Carner wins golf classic with luck

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Joanne Carner has some new found confidence in her game, but a positive approach had little to do with her quirkish victory Sunday in the $100,000 Desert Inn-LPGA Golf Classic.

The 5-foot-7 strawberry blonde resident of Lake Worth, Fla., admitted what took place in the final holes of the 72-hole tournament was better suited for a longshot hunch player at the nearby gaming tables.

"I think I could win anything today," confessed Mrs. Carner, who collected $20,000 and a new car in earning her richest victory ever on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

The 35-year-old Mrs. Carner shot a three-under-par 70 in Sunday's final round at the 6,255-yard, par 73 Desert Inn Country Club layout for a 284 total of eight under par.

But her one-stroke victory was only possible because Sandra Palmer, then seven under, triple bogeyed the 17th and three of Mrs. Carner's drives to the green on the 16th and the 18th holes found their way back onto the fairway because of a tree and two spectators.

Carole Jo Skala finished in second place with a four-under-69 Sunday and a 285 total. She picked up $12,000 from one of the four richest purses on the women's tour.

Miss Palmer, who fired rare bogeyless rounds Friday and Saturday to start the day with a two stroke lead over Mrs. Carner, ended up with a 71 Sunday and a 287 total for third place. Her winnings were $7,000.

"All the way I thought Palmer was still seven under and would birdie the 18th green," said Mrs. Carner, who rolled in a two-foot putt for a par on the last green that she needed for the victory.

Miss Palmer birdied the 18th also but her disastrous experience on the 17th hole left her without a chance to force a playoff.

Mrs. Carner, who had rounds of 74-68-72-70, captured her third LPGA victory in the last four tournaments. Her other wins were at the Hoosier Classic and at Louisville, but they were only worth $5,000 each.

Gail Denenberg, Jane Blalock, Carol Mann and Shelly Hamlin were bunched at 288 in a tie for fourth, four strokes back, and Laura Baugh and South Africa's Sally Little were knotted with 289s.

"I was really not confident in my game until I worked with Gardner," said Mrs. Carner, whose tutoring sessions with Gardner Dickinson produced tips about 11 of her faults which she calls "Gardner's Bible."

Her closing drive to the clubhouse Sunday, however, was based less on what the men's touring pro could have told her than on an unbeatable show of good luck.

Driving from the tee on the 16th, Mrs. Carner bounced her shot off a tree but instead of bounding into some nearby water it landed nicely on the fairway.

CLAREMONT — Claremont Post 78 took advantage of a La Verne error to score four unearned runs and win, 5-4 in American Legion District 18 play on Sunday.

The big inning for Claremont was the fifth when it scored four unearned runs. It all started when Rich Tullis hit what looked like a fly out to rightfield. La Verne rightfielder Jim Richards apparently caught the ball but he dropped it and it was ruled an error.

Attempting to sacrifice, Robby Haerr forced Tullis at second base while reaching first on a fielder's choice. With a one strike count to pitcher Paul Sokolowski, Haerr broke to steal second. As Post 330 shortstop Bruce McNaught went to cover the bag, Sokolowski poked a hit-and-run ground ball into left with Haerr taking third.

Todd Ervin drew a walk to load the bases with one out. Chris Tracey hit a ground ball to short forcing Ervin for the second out as Haerr scored Sokolowski took third and Tracey reached first on the fielder's choice.

As Bill Bumstead came to a set holding the runners on, Tracey broke for second base. Bumstead turned and threw to first baseman Jay Lacheur. When Lacheur threw to second attempting to nail Tracey, Sokolowski went home. Giving up on getting Tracey, McNaught tried to throw out Sokolowski at the plate but failed as both runners were safe.

Harry Brown drew a walk to put runners on first and second. Tony Janusz ripped a single down the third baseline to score Tracey and again put runners on first and second.

Jim Ayers hit another single down the third base line to score Brown and make the score, 5-1. Bumstead then struck out Post 78 catcher Lou Caudillo to end the inning.

The other Claremont run came in the first when Ervin doubled, went to third on a ground out and scored on a Janusz infield single. Ayers then forced Janusz at second to end the inning.

La Verne scored for the first time in the third when Harold Drake hit an one-out double to deep center. Sokolowski got Post 330 catcher Carl Davis on a grounder to second as Drake moved to third. Shortstop Rick Ortega then singled to left to score Drake before McNaught struckout to end the inning.

La Verne added two more in the seventh when Richards drew an one-out walk. Drake followed with another double, this time to left, to score Richards. Davis singled to right, moving Drake to third.

Drake scored when Ortega hit a ground ball to third which was misplayed for an error. Sokolowski then got out of the inning on two fly outs to centerfielder Tracey.

The final La Verne tally came in the eighth when Steve Barnard got an one-out single. Bumstead walked and after Richards flied out, Drake walked to load the bases.

Sokolowski walked Davis to score Barnard and was relieved by John Huddleston after throwing a ball to Ortega. Huddleston got Ortega to fly out and finished the game allowing only one runner on a walk.

Claremont is now 1-3 in league play with La Verne being 1-2. Claremont travels to Mount San Antonio College for a Tuesday game with Walnut. La Verne will play Tri-City at Alta Loma High on Tuesday with both games set for 5:30 starts.

Chaffey's Rankin takes scholarship

ALTA LOMA — Pierre Rankin, a starter on this year's Chaffey College basketball team, has accepted a scholarship to the University of Hawaii.

The scholarship was to the Hilo branch of the university, and there is a trip to Japan on Hilo's schedule next year.

What is interesting is that Chaffey's basketball team took the trip to Hilo for a series against the Hawaiian team this past season.

Hosts picked in World Cup

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — Bookmakers have made West Germany the 9-4 favorite to win the World Cup on its own ground and opinion polls show there are about 40 million West German soccer fans who would not argue with that.

But manager Helmut Schoen is more guarded about the "Deutschland uber alles" theme. "Let us keep both feet on the ground", said Schoen. "I will be more than satisfied if we get through to the final and so should everybody else.

"I would like to point out there are some other good teams—Brazil, Italy, Holland and Scotland—who have always been great fighters."

The German 22-man squad is in the finishing stages of its 17-dy taraining stint in a Malente sports school in a lonely lake region north of Hamburg.

Schoen has two injury problems—one of which is himself. He bruised a knee in a training session recently and has been limping slightly.

NHL begins meetings

MONTREAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League opens its annual four-day meeting today, with new rule proposals the first item on the agenda.

One of the major items of business was scheduled for Wednesday, when the new Washington and Kansas City clubs each choose 24 players, including two goalies, during the expansion draft.

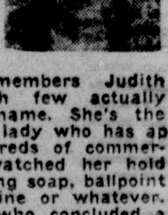
Several new rules, mainly involving delaying tactics, are expected to be implemented by the Rules Committee.

"There are too many arguments with officials," said NHL president Clarence Campbell. "We hope to give minor penalties for that and also for the player who starts a fight and causes delay in the game."

One team is attending the meetings without a coach. The Boston Bruins, who were eliminated by the Philadelphia Flyers in the Stanley Cup finals, have not yet found a replacement for Bep Guidolin. Guidolin has signed on as coach with the new Kansas City Scouts.

Former Montreal Canadiens' star John Ferguson was reported to have the inside track on the Boston job, but Bruins' general manager Harry Sinden isn't talking.

CLIFF KING Says:



Everyone remembers Judith Lowry although few actually know her by name. She's the sweet little old lady who has appeared in hundreds of commercials. You've watched her hold up a bank, selling soap, ballpoint pens, candy, wine or whatever. She's the one who concluded a sales pitch by climbing on her motorcycle and tearing off at 60 mph with a sensational "rear wheel stand."

The motorcyle tricks were done by a double but everything else about Judy is real. Born in 1890, she raised nine children, then launched a career in commercials and TV bit parts that made her a very prosperous octogenerian.

Pomona '30' rolls to 10th straight

Pomona Post 30 notched its 10th straight win Sunday afternoon while Rowland Heights dropped a 4-2 American Legion decision to South Pasadena Post 140.

Post 30, who started out the legion campaign with a 1-4 slate, pushed five runs across in the sixth inning to break a 1-1 tie and go on to rout La Puente Post 47, 7-1, at Los Altos High.

The Gems, 11-4 overall and 3-0 in District 18 action, erupted for the five-run rally as Wil Lewallen began the sixth with a one out triple. Larry Pekarcik put Post 30 on top 2-1 with a double to score Lewallen. Dean Sickles and Mike Wooten followed with walks to load the bases and Dave Lahar singled home two runs. John Souza gave Post 30 a 6-1 lead by singling home two more markers.

Pomona's seventh frame run was the result of John Freeman's single. He then moved to second on an errant pick off attempt and scored on Lewallen's single.

La Puente, 2-2 in league play, took a 1-0 lead off Pomona starter and winning pitcher Vince Garcia in the third on Ron Hertel's RBI hit.

The Gems tied it in the fourth on Sickles' run producing safety.

Garcia threw well through seven innings before being relieved by Paul Madrigal who retired six of the seven batters he faced. It was Garcia's (2-0) second win of the week.

Ruben Ruiz will be on the mound for Post 30 tonight in a 7 p.m. game with West Covina at Ralph Welch Park. Tuesday, Roger Slayton will battle Upland at Ralph Welch.
